LUND CALLS ON HORNER TO END 2% SLUSH LEVY

Gov. Horner was asked last night whether he approved of the collection of political salary assessments from state employés.

State Representative Arnold L. Lund [R., Riverside] informed the governor by telegram that H. A. Stone was violating the civil service law by collecting money from guards at the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries. He said the money was being collected for the Illinoisans—the fund raising agency for the 1940 Democratic state campaign.

Stone, who spent yesterday in a Joliet hotel receiving penitentiary employés, defied State's Attorney James E. Burke of Will county to do anything about the solicitation. Lund also reported this to the governor.

Charges Open Violations.

His wire read:

"One H. A. Stone, who says he is not a state employé, is openly violating the civil service law by collecting funds from guards at Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries for the Illinoisans, an organization which the civil service commission found to be using its money for political purposes.

"Stone is defying the state's attorney of Will county to stop him. Do you approve of Stone's actions? Do you approve of a nonstate employé soliciting employés for political purposes? Don't you think that you should, as governor, put a stop to this solicitation immediately? I would appreciate an answer."

Scoffs at Contention.

Michael F. Ryan, counsel for the Civil Service Protective association, scoffed at the contention of the Illinoisans that the group receives only voluntary collections. Stone and other collectors made this assertion before the Civil Service commission when the protective association's charges of forced contributions were heard.

Stone defied State's Attorney Burke when the prosecutor questioned him yesterday in the Louis Joliet hotel in Joliet.

"Yes, I am collecting from Joliet and Stateville prison guards," Stone told Burke, "and as long as this hotel is not state property you can't do anything about it."

Report St. Charles Levies.

Stone said the collections also came from guards at the St. Charles School for Boys in Kane county [from which 76 inmates have escaped since Jan. 1]. He started the collections—which consist of 2 per cent of the employés' salaries each month—some time ago with the blessings of A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare in Gov. Horner's cabinet.

Bowen was indicted on a charge of malfeasance in office last month by a Kankakee county grand jury as a result of the typhoid epidemic which caused 53 deaths at the Manteno State hospital. In early stages of the fund raising job he gave "courtesy" letters to the 2 per cent collectors.

Prosecutor Demands List.

"I am investigating to determine whether you are breaking any state laws in making these collections," Burke told Stone. "Would you be willing to turn over to me the list of names on which you are making check marks?"

"I haven't any list," said Stone.

"What about the one you had yesterday?" asked Burke.

"O, that," Stone said. "That was the St. Charles list. I'll see if I can get you a list of workers in the prisons."

"Will you deliver it to my office?" Burke asked, and Stone said he would.

Denies Violation of Law.

Burke said it appeared to him to be a violation to take campaign collections from civil service employés.

"It's not so," Stone said. "I know the law."

[The state civil service law reads: "No officer or employé shall solicit, orally or by letter, or receive, or be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving any assessment, subscription, or contribution from any member of the classified service for any party or political purpose whatever."]

"Stone admitted to me in the presence of others that he was accepting contributions from civil service employés," Burke said later. "That puts him on record, should any prosecution develop."

State's Attorney Charles O'Connor of Kane county said he had not known that employés of the St. Charles School for Boys had been called upon to contribute. He said he would investigate.

BETWEEN THE DEVIL AND THE DEEP SEA

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The nation's airline industry, congratulating itself upon two monumental achievements of the last year—the greatest safety record of any medium of transportation in history, and financial success—was warned here last night by Thomas Hardin, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics authority's air safety board, that it has yet a long way to go.

Hardin, an airline pilot himself before his appointment to the safety board, spoke before the Air Line Pilots' association in convention in the Congress hotel. And he declared that the industry still is a long way from the ultimate of its possibilities. He outlined three goals toward which immediate progress should be made.

Three Goals Outlined.

They are:

1. Establishment of uniform flight technique, uniform weather limitations governing operations of all airlines, and uniform maintenance procedures.

2. Creation of greatly expanded airway and airport facilities to relieve what he called "oversaturation" that already exists.

3. Demands by the industry upon aircraft manufacturers for greatly increased performance from the heavier, four engined airplanes toward which the industry is turning at this time.

Industry Sings a Song.

"The industry," said Hardin, "is singing a song. 'We've arrived,' is its title. As a matter of fact we've come a long way in 15 months. We've flown 800,000,000 passenger miles without a fatality—an all-time high for any transportation medium, railroads, steamships, or what have you.

"And of the 17 air lines operating within the United States, 16 will be in the black this year.

"Safety has done the trick.

"But we're still a long way from the ultimate. And I want to suggest a program for the industry and the pilots to consider for the future."

First, said Hardin, companies must agree to abide by the same weather limitations, a source of much competitive flying in the past. And inasmuch as all the lines are using virtually the same equipment—the DC-3 transport is almost standard equipment today—they must come to standardized maintenance procedures.

Enlarged Ports Needed.

Second, he asserted, the country must be educated to the expenditure within the next two years of millions of dollars in establishing greatly expanded airports. Flying fields must be equipped with parallel runways allowing simultaneous takeoffs and landings.

Last of all, he said, is the need for airliners that will fly fully loaded under all conditions of turbulent air, ice on instruments, and under other difficulties that confront operators in real conditions, with half their power plants dead.

It is up to the air line pilots to make the final determination of what planes are safe for passenger operations under real flight conditions, he said, because no one else, manufacturers or governmental authorities, know how difficult this problem has become.

DEWEY AND HIS PARTY LEAVE FOR CAMPAIGN SPEECH IN MINNESOTA

New York, Dec. 5 [Special.]—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey left New York this afternoon in quest of the Republican nomination for President. He will make the first formal speech of his campaign in Minneapolis tomorrow night in the Minneapolis auditorium under auspices of the Minnesota state Republican central committee.

[The speech will be broadcast in Chicago over station WENR at 9 p. m.]

Before his departure Dewey listed 12 persons as his chief advisers in his campaign. They are: John Foster Dulles, an attorney known as an authority on foreign affairs; Mrs. Ruth Hanna Simms, Arthur T. Vanderbilt, Charles P. Sisson, Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., Elliot V. Bell, Edwin F. Jaeckle, chairman of the state Republican executive committee; Oswald D. Heck, speaker of the New York state assembly; Joe R. Hanley, majority leader of the New York state senate; J. Russel Sprague, Dewey's campaign manager; John E. Burton, and Shelby Davis.

4 Champion Cooks Give Up Trade Secrets

BY MARCIA WINN.

The four champion cooks among the 741,857 girls in the 4-H clubs of America have one fine recipe for good cooking: Like to eat.

One who eats well cooks well, the four asserted last night at a dinner in the Drake hotel. All denied there is any basic secret to culinary skill. Even the best cooks have mishaps, they said.

The champions are in Chicago for the National 4-H club congress in connection with the International Live Stock exposition in the International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets. Each is from a different section of the country—Florida, Minnesota, Oregon, and Tennessee. Each was asked to give her favorite recipe typical of her native state.

Suggests Mayport Shrimp.

"Take peelings off big St. Augustine shrimp, but leave tails on. Have them ice cold. Dip in beaten egg yolks, then in flour, and fry in deep fat. Pick them up by the tails to eat."

Orr-Lyda J. Brown, 18, of Eugene, Ore., suggested a seven layer dinner which requires two hours cooking:

"Use a casserole. The first layer is potatoes sliced. Next a layer of carrots. Then a layer of raw rice. Then one-half pound of hamburger, one-half pound of pork sausage. Then sliced raw onions, next seasoning, green pepper and garlic. Then a layer of canned tomatoes or tomato soup. It makes a fine meal."

Two More Recipes.

Maxine Koons, 18, of Fairmont, Minn., suggested scalloped potatoes and eggs, also a baked dish:

"Lay sliced potatoes and onions in alternate layers and bake with milk. When almost done scoop a hollow in the top for each portion and drop in a raw egg. Let it stand in the oven until the eggs and potatoes are done."

Betty Freeman, 16, of Pikeville, Tenn., who has been cooking for her entire family since she was 10, suggested Brown Betty; a little sadly, too, for her favorite is potato salad, which is not exactly typical.

"You fix your apples," she said concisely. "Slice them into small bits. Sprinkle with toasted bread crumbs. Put in the oven and bake 20 minutes. That's all."

OLDER GERMAN TROOPS ON WEST FRONT GO HOME

Veterans Replaced by Younger Men.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—While the German military high command today continued to report "nothing new from the western front," facts were accumulating to indicate that for the time being no German attack is planned against France's Maginot line.

It was disclosed that during the week the majority of world war veterans and older classes serving with the fighting forces will be sent home. They gradually will be replaced by younger classes which escaped conscription under the Versailles treaty.

Get Brief Training.

Classes of military age which had received no training when the Nazis reintroduced conscription in 1935 are comprised of men born in the years 1900 to 1914. In previous years parts of these classes were called up for military training courses extending several weeks or months, while the regular conscripts had to serve at least two years.

The remaining classes which escaped conscription under the peace treaty are being given a thoro military training in army camps.

The German high command believes it can dispense with the experienced world war veterans because a great number of young soldiers have been under fire in Poland, thus gaining experience.

Point to Low Casualties.

The participation of many world war veterans, especially officers, in the Polish campaign is believed by German military circles to have been partly responsible for the relatively low casualties the German forces suffered in Poland—roughly 14,000 dead and 30,000 wounded as against an estimated 500,000 dead on the Polish side.

The possibility of a Russian-Turkish war is being discussed in Berlin. Some believe the Russians plan a winter offensive along the Turkish border because of their enormous superiority in manpower and material as well as a better system of communications.

Germans counter the argument that in case of a Russian-Turkish war the British and French fleets would dominate the Black sea by drawing a parallel to the Russian-Turkish war of 1877. In that conflict, it is maintained, a Russian army was able to reach the neighborhood of Erzerum despite the fact that the Russians were not master of the Black sea.

[Erzerum is located in what is now central Armenia.]

Point to Danger Spots.

Germans emphasize that in 1916 the Russians seized Batum, an important Turkish seaport, after a three months' drive in bitter cold and deep snow.

The Germans also regard Mosul, Iraq, "one of the most sensitive spots of the British empire" and India as being threatened as a result of the "reawakened Russian-British rivalry."

[After the world war, when Iraq was freed from the Turks, Britain was given a mandate over Iraq. In 1927 Britain and Iraq signed a treaty recognizing Iraq's independence. Iraq controls the pipe line thru which Britain receives much of her vital oil supply.]

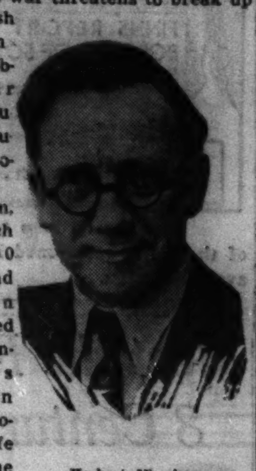
BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The first Christmas of the war threatens to break up the British government's elaborate air raid precaution evacuation program.



Herbert Morrison.

The plan, under which 1,220,000 women and children were shifted from dangerous zones in towns to so-called safe areas in the country at the state's expense is imperilled by the revival of the Christmas spirit, which even the gloom of the blackouts and the dislocations of the war generally have failed to suppress.

In Great Britain Christmas is essentially a home festival and the trek of civilians back to the towns appears likely to reach gold rush proportions in the next three weeks.

250,000 Children Back in Towns.

About 250,000 children are back in towns already, according to unofficial estimates. At least 50,000 have returned to London.

More parents are taking their children home for traditional family reunions, altho no official arrangements exist to reëvacuate them and London's vulnerability to air raids still is to be tested.

The government's appeals against the homeward drift are futile. Apprehension about future evacuation is growing in official circles. Inducements in the way of parties and entertainments are being offered children billeted in rural areas as a bribe to parents to let them stay there over the Christmas period. Herbert Morrison, head of the London county council, has opened a fund to meet the costs of these celebrations.

10 Days of Festivities.

The anxiety of the authorities to keep the children in the country may be gauged from the advance program of Christmas entertainments prepared for 200,000 London youngsters billeted in Harpenden and Hertfordshire. The festivities will last 10 days and will include movies, sports, conjuring displays and concerts. The climax will come with four big parties with Christmas trees and a gift for each child. It will cost $200,000.

Many social workers and ecclesiastics are calling upon the government to recognize that the evacuation scheme has hit a snag and to reopen schools in the cities to take the children off the streets. Some contend that the risk of air attacks might be outweighed by the social consequences of the long years of separation and breakup of family life.

Despite the war, the people of these islands are going ahead with their Christmas preparations determined to make the best of a bad job. The big stores report that their trade is picking up.

Clubs to Pay Off Soon.

Thousands of persons depend for their Christmas money on the so-called slate clubs. Within the next few weeks hundreds of these clubs, in which the members invest a shilling or two [about 20 to 40 cents] from their meager incomes weekly with the sole idea of buying a few little luxuries at Christmas, will withdraw their funds from the banks for the annual distribution.

Advance calculations put the decrease in slate club payments this year, owing to the war, at about 10 per cent. Nevertheless, it is estimated that the clubs will distribute up to $200,000,000 among 15,000,000 persons this Christmas.

Clubs Have Queer Rules.

Slate clubs are popular among the lower paid British workers. They put up with some queer rulings when they join up. For instance, one club resolved:

"As it is the wish that this society promote moral conduct, if any member calls another member a liar he shall forfeit one shilling. If he challenges him to a fight he forfeits two shillings six pence [about 50 cents]."

Another club has a dictator for secretary. The club rules state:

"Mr. ——— is secretary of this club and what he says is law."

London's hotels and night clubs are getting ready for the New Year's eve whoopee—war or no war. Requests for an extension of drink selling licenses until 2 a. m. on New Year's eve have been applied for and London town will see 1940 born in the usual style, amid popping of corks and singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

FLYERS INFLICT HEAVY LOSSES; CUT RAILROAD

60 Planes Believed Hit in One Raid.

Turn to the back page for a map showing topographical features, natural resources, and agricultural products of Finland and Sweden. On page 2 is a map detailing the day's developments in the Finnish-Russian war.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 5.—Finnish bombers today paralyzed northward movements of Russian troop reinforcements by bombing and cutting the Leningrad-Murmansk railway at several points. Despite bad weather, the airmen inflicted heavy casualties on soviet troop concentrations.

Finnish flyers also were reported to have raided two widely separated soviet air bases, tho there was no confirmation by official sources here.

Attack Port on Baltic.

The second raid reported was on Baltiski, the Estonian port 45 miles across the Gulf of Finland which the Russians hold under lease. Soviet planes were alleged to have set out from Baltiski for their attacks last week on Helsingfors.

A Finnish general staff communique reported that during the day on the Karelian isthmus, the southern front near Leningrad, the Finns withdrew according to plan from the villages of Uusikirkko, Valkjaervi, and Rautu.

Uusikirkko, on the railway line near the Gulf of Finland coast, is about 20 miles from the soviet border. Valkpaervi, near the center of the isthmus, is about six miles from the border, and Rautu, near the Lake Ladoga shore, is about nine miles from the border.

However, the withdrawal did not reach the Mannerheim line, the Finns' formidable defense barrier extending across the isthmus.

Fierce Battle in Lake Region.

Some of the fiercest fighting of the past two days took place in the sparsely inhabited region of lakes, forests, and swamps north of Lake Ladoga. The Finns reported capturing many prisoners in the sector.

Artillery was used by both sides in the region of Salmi, on the northeast shore of Lake Ladoga near the soviet border, where during today's fighting the Finns destroyed 8 tanks of the 10 which attempted to force a Finnish ambuscade. The Russians had reported occupying Salmi yesterday.

The Finnish communique admitted that the Russians were putting heavy pressure on the Salmi sector and were having some success with motorized equipment.

Moving Troops to North.

The communique said that the Russians are moving great numbers of troops against the Finns in the Petsamo region of the far north—200 miles north of the arctic circle—but that the Finns are engaging in frequent machine gun battles and are using their new automatic rifles with devastating effect.

About 31 miles inside Finland and the same distance north of the arctic circle, the Russians were reported to have captured the village of Kuolojaervi. The Finns were believed to be moving troop reinforcements to both the Petsamo and Kuolojaervi sectors from the railway terminus at Rovaniemi.

The general staff communique said that 64 Russian tanks had been destroyed in six days' fighting and that enemy losses amounted to 2,000 men, most of them in operations on the Karelian isthmus. The effectiveness of the new automatic rifle in the hands of Finnish sharpshooters was emphasized.

Bombard Finnish Islands.

For the last two days the Russian fleet was said to have bombarded the outer islands of the Finnish Suursaari group in the Gulf of Finland. The largest of the group, Tytarsaari, was occupied by Russians after Finnish sea guards moved out.

Finnish military officials assert that captured Russians have reported that a special army of G. P. U. [Russian secret police] equipped with machine guns stands behind the troops forcing their attacks when they attempt to retreat from the Finns.

The prisoners were reported to have said their political commissars told them that the war would last only four or five days and that Finland was the aggressor against the soviet.

Finland this week received 25 Italian Savoia-Marchetti bombers which are among the best in Europe. This correspondent learns from a reliable source that the planes were flown over Germany by Italian instructors and up the Swedish coast to a Finnish airfield. They were said to be part of an order for 50 planes which the Finns placed before the soviet invasion.

Finland's request for delivery resulted in the Italian government informing the Germans that they wished to send 25 planes. The Germans refused permission, but Premier Mussolini is said to have told Berlin that the bombers would fly over Germany anyway and he did not expect them to be interfered with. More Italian planes are expected to arrive soon.

[A Stockholm report said a large number of planes provided by Finnish Americans and accompanied by American pilots were expected to arrive in Finland soon. Finland's oil reserves were reported to be satisfactory for the present, tho new quantities are needed and are being received for the air war.]

Leningrad Vulnerable.

The soviet government, which has not yet evacuated Leningrad, a city of 3,500,000 population near the Finnish frontier, is now within reach of Finnish air raids should the soviet air force again attempt to bomb Helsingfors.

Many Finns were fearful of violent air raids against Helsingfors tomorrow, the 22d anniversary of Finnish independence. Only about 50,000 of Helsingfors' normal population of 260,000 will be in the bleak city to celebrate the event.

Pleased by Argentina.

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 5 (AP).—Helsingfors officials expressed pleasure at Argentina's action in moving that Russia be expelled from the league of nations. They said South American countries had shown "great understanding of Finland's position."

Finland's hope that help might eventually be forthcoming from her Scandinavian neighbors was indicated by feverish Finnish fortification of the Aaland Islands, which would keep open sea communications with Sweden across the Gulf of Bothnia.

The importance of Finland's step became more apparent as the Scandinavian foreign ministers prepared to meet in Oslo on Thursday in a conference called to seek means of reestablishing peace in northern Europe.

Shoot Down Invading Plane.

KIRKENES, far northern Norway [at the Finnish frontier], Dec. 5 (AP).—Finns fighting stubbornly in the cold and semi-twilight of the Arctic region successfully repulsed sporadic Russian attacks today and reported shooting down a Russian bombing plane.

Intensive soviet naval activity was observed this morning on Petsamo fjord, Finland's arctic outlet, and it was believed warships were convoying troops there from the Russian garrisons in Murmansk, Alexandrovsk.

A landing was attempted at Liinahamari but failed, these reports said. A later landing at the mouth of the fjord, however, was successful while Finns took up strong defense positions farther inland at the town of Petsamo.

It also was reported that 200 Russian soldiers were surrounded and captured near Salmijaervi. The detachment may have been part of the parachute infantry which was dropped in that region.

Antiaircraft Effective.

Three Russian bombing planes raided Salmijaervi, where the International Nickel company of Canada has properties, but, Finns said, they did no more damage than to start a "few small fires."

The soviet planes twice swooped on the town, dropping bombs, but when they returned for a third attack antiaircraft fire winged one bomber which was seen to fall in the mountains. The other two craft fled to the north.

Norway's northern harbors, including Vardoe, Hammerfest, Tromsoe, Harstad, and Narvik, are taking steps to give shelter to the increasing stream of refugees from Finland.

Meet the Finns, One of Europe's Mysteries; 8 Centuries Cover All Their Known History

Twenty-two years ago today the newly formed diet and senate of Finland adopted a declaration of independence which, historians declare, marked the birth of Finnish freedom. The declaration was drawn on Dec. 6, 1917.

The long and bloody history of Finland is known back to the eighth century, but beyond that the story of the Finns and where they came from is a matter of theory and divergent opinions. The Finns of Finland speak of themselves as Suomi, the term that will be used here to differentiate the Finland Finns from other groups known as Finns.

Languages Probed for Clews.

The philologist, who studies the history and development of languages, classifies the language used by the Suomi in what is known as the Finno-Ugrian language family. This group contains seven major divisions, in addition to many subdivisions. The major language divisions in the family are: [1] The Lapp; [2] Baltic-Finnish; [3] Mordvin; [4] Cheremiss; [5] Permian; [6] the Ob-Ugrian, and [7] the Hungarian.

The tribes who come under the Finno-Ugrian language have little or no written history or tradition to guide those who seek early information about them.

The Mordvin, Cheremiss, Permian, and Ob-Ugrian languages and their subdivisions are spoken by groups of Finns who live near the Ural mountains and the Volga and Ob rivers. There are indications that all of these peoples are at least partially Mongolian.

Hungarian Link Uncertain.

While all of these languages are in the same group with the Suomi and the Hungarian, a philologist writing in the Encyclopaedia Britannica has this to say:

"Finnish and Hungarian, tho related, are about as widely separated from each other as English and Persian. . . . The linguistic relationship between the peoples who speak these languages does not always signify that the people themselves are racially related. From an early period the Finno-Ugrian languages seem to have been associated with an east European race, often called the East Baltic, which probably is preserved in its purest form among the Finns [Suomi]."

Called Relatives of Estonians.

Dr. Isaiah Bowman, director of the American Geographical society, says in his "The New World" that the Suomi are related to the Estonians, but that they have no connection with the Slavic stock of eastern Europe, nor the Nordics of Germany and Scandinavia.

Prof. George D. Hubbard in his "Geography of Europe" says:

"The . . . wave of immigration from the east [possibly two waves] contributed the Finns [including the Suomi], another Finno-Ugrian branch from Asiatic Mongoloid stock which now has large Nordic infusions."

Agnes Rothery in "Finland" says that only two facts stand out in the controversy over the origin of the Suomi:

"First, all Finns [referring to Suomi] unite in their demand to be considered not Scandinavians, not Slavs — above all, not Mongols — but Finns and a western, not an eastern people.

"Second, the data are still too scanty and the emotional factors, as well as the racial, are too confused for any definitive statement or any general theory to be universally accepted."

That the Suomi do not want to be known as Mongolian in any way is substantiated by Prof. I. Lieviska of the Helsingfors [Finland] university.

"There are a great many theories about the origins of the Finns in Finland, but we can be sure of only one thing," said Prof. Samuel Harper of the University of Chicago. "There were Finns in Finland in the eighth century."

Chicago Attorney's Wife Wins Los Angeles Divorce

Mrs. Marvee Adler was granted a divorce yesterday in Los Angeles, Cal., from Irving S. Adler, Chicago attorney. She was given permission to resume her maiden name of Cochrun. Mrs. Adler asserted that her husband broke her cheekbone during a quarrel. They were married in 1934.

CHARGES BRITAIN PAYS NOTHING TO SOLDIERS' WIVES

LONDON, Dec. 5 (AP).—An assertion by William Dobbie, a Laborite, that the wives of soldiers who have been with the army since August have had to pawn their possessions in order to buy food for their children, threw the house of commons into an uproar today.

"The needs of these people are greater than the prestige of this house," he said.

SIBELIUS VOICES FAITH HIS LAND WILL BE WINNER

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 5 (AP).—Finland's great composer, Jan Sibelius, tho fighting illness, today voiced faith that his homeland, battling Russian invasion, would come out all right in the end.

"I am deeply convinced all that is happening now will end well," he declared.

Hundreds of telegrams of sympathy have been pouring into Sibelius' home near Helsingfors where he is ill.

HOOVER TO HEAD MOVEMENT FOR RELIEF OF FINNS

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 5 [Special].—Former President Herbert Hoover today undertook the establishment of an organization to raise funds for the relief of the homeless in Finland.

Announcement of this action was made at Palo Alto following a telephone conversation between Hoover and the Finnish minister in Washington, who has been in communication with his government.

Hoover has had a large part in the organization of a similar service for Poland, now operating with Chauncey McCormick of Chicago as president.

American Red Cross Gives $25,000 for Finnish Relief

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4 [Special].—In response to urgent appeals from Finland for aid for victims of the Russian invasion, the American Red Cross has appropriated $25,000 for initial relief measures. It was announced here tonight that $10,000 of this amount was sent to London to purchase medicines which have been forwarded by plane to the Finnish Red Cross. Norman H. Davis, chairman of the Red Cross, said that shipments of 50,000 surgical dressings, warm clothing, and knitted garments will follow immediately. Local Red Cross chapters will receive contributions, it was announced.

ENGLAND SPURNS QUICK PEACE TO HALT RED PERIL

Calls Soviet Invasion of Finland Inexcusable.

LONDON, Dec. 5 (AP).—Great Britain today condemned anew the Russian invasion of Finland but spurned any quick peace with Germany to meet "worse perils."

Viscount Halifax.

Viscount Halifax, the foreign secretary, told the house of lords that the Russian attack had been "universally condemned as an inexcusable act of aggression" and declared it was an outgrowth of the Russian-German pact signed Aug. 23.

Under this pact, he said, Adolf Hitler bartered the liberty of the Baltic peoples for a free hand in his attack on Poland.

Quick Peace Rejected.

"In the face of these events we have an increasing awareness of the perils that threaten European society as a direct consequence of German policy," Halifax said.

"I have heard it suggested," he continued, "that an immediate peace on almost any terms would be desirable in order to save western civilization from worse perils. I think that view is shortsighted."

Halifax said that Britain would not consent to a peace until there was evidence that the German government was willing to accept terms in line with Britain's war aim of ending "the fear of aggression in Europe."

Rings In America.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced in the house of commons that Richard Austen Butler, undersecretary of foreign affairs, would represent Britain at the league of nations session called for this weekend to debate Finland's charge of aggression against Russia. Butler will make clear Britain's position on the subject, Chamberlain said.

Halifax expressed regret that he himself could not go after Lord Cecil had declared that Halifax alone "can really voice the feelings not only of this country, France, and Poland, but of the whole world—including America."

The foreign minister's declaration came in a debate in which the opposition in both houses called on the government to define its peace aims.

Children Mutilated, He Says.

"Open towns have been bombarded," he said, "women and children mutilated and done to death on the pretext that a nation of under 4,000,000 had hostile designs against one of 180,000,000.

"The British people have been profoundly shocked by the circumstances of the soviet attack and they have profoundly admired the magnificent resistance of the Finns."

The Archbishop of Canterbury suggested in the house of lords the possibility of a federation of European states as a solution to recurrent strife.

Arthur Greenwood, Laborite in the house of commons, called for a plan to avoid "the continuance of hatred and nationalist and imperialist ambitions" in Europe. He said:

"The aims of those who planned the reconstruction [after the world war] were unfortunately buried under base passions of hatred and greed."

Chamberlain agreed to hold a one-day secret session of parliament to discuss supply matters. The date is to be arranged later.

May Drop Trade Talks.

Diplomatic circles forecast that as a result of public indignation over Russia's invasion of Finland the current British-Russian trade negotiations would be dropped.

Hoare said Britain had between 1,250,000 and 1,500,000 men under arms and a citizen army of between 1,500,000 and 1,750,000 men and women in air raid precautions work.

Munitions production, he said, has doubled in the last six months and the ministry of supply has placed contracts aggregating $756,600,000 since the outbreak of war.

Thirteen ordnance factories are in production and 16 more under construction, he said, while a program has been launched since the start of the war to double airplane production. January production of military vehicles, including tanks, he declared, would be 10 times that of a year before.

Plods Thru Mud

WITH THE BRITISH EXPEDITIONARY FORCE IN FRANCE, Dec. 5 (AP).—King George VI. of Great Britain arose before dawn today and in mud, wind, and rain toured part of his army's battlefront while his troops cheered.

Soldiers of 100 regiments greeted him as he neared the front. Farther up the king frequently was afoot, plodding thru mud to talk to gun crews, or climbing to the tops of blockhouses to view battle positions. By mid-morning he was inspecting planes and talking with British pilots who had flown over Germany. To each he gave a handshake and said, "Fine work, fine work."

The monarch lunched on chicken pie at a roadside café, usually a corporals' mess, whose proprietress nearly fainted when she learned whom she was to serve.

French school children and world war veterans turned out at a dozen crossroads to cheer.

RUMANIA PROBES OIL PLANT FIRES; HINT SABOTAGE

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 5 (AP).—The Rumanian government today started investigations into damage to oil plants and train wrecks which some political circles attributed to sabotage by foreign agents.

The million dollar British-owned Orion refinery at Ploesti was still burning after an explosion and fire which destroyed the plant and 200 cars of oil on a siding.

Several other carloads of oil burned Sunday after a collision of two tank-car trains which killed two persons. A train wreck near Sibiu last week killed 20 workmen.

AMERICAN REDS SET TO NEW TASK, MOSCOW REVEALS

Handbook for Agitators Assails Roosevelt.

MOSCOW, Dec. 5 (AP).—The communist party's monthly magazine, Agitator's Companion, which provides propaganda material for organizers and lecturers, attacked President Roosevelt and "American imperialism" today.

In an article by far the most bitter against the United States yet to appear here, "N. Ross" wrote:

"President Roosevelt is more and more siding with the incendiaries of war. The American government is issuing extraordinary decrees which it is claimed are directed against spies and saboteurs but in reality are used against communists and all anti-war forces. . . .

American Reds Active.

"American toilers are faced with a great task: that of crushing the war plans of a powerful foe—American imperialism. The American communist party is actively preparing for fulfillment of its historical task in the new international situation. . . .

"Dreaming of world hegemony [mastery], American imperialists are striving to supplant competitor imperialists from Latin-America. They are striving to strengthen their position in China. . . .

"Already during the first months of the present war imperialist American circles are preparing to spare no effort in order to save European capitalism from the offensive of the proletariat and are doing everything to convert the war between imperialists into a war against the U. S. S. R."

Prepare for Celebration.

The soviet press said little about the hostilities in Finland, devoting most of its space to today's celebration of the third anniversary of the "Stalinist constitution," which created the present soviet parliament of two houses and effected general legislative, judicial, and executive changes.

The soviet issued an official denial that the 8,500 ton cruiser Kirov had been damaged and two destroyers sunk in action against Finnish fortifications at Hango [Hanko] last Friday.

The statement said the seven inch guns of the Kirov, one of the most modern of soviet Russia's war fleet, easily outranged Finnish coastal batteries.

Leningrad military headquarters likewise issued a denial that Russia had lost large numbers of tanks and planes in action on the Finnish front. They said two soviet planes were brought down and two lost their bearings due to bad weather.

Cardinal Refused Permit to Return to Warsaw

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 5.—Berlin has twice refused requests by Cardinal August Hlond, primate of Poland, to be allowed to return to Warsaw. Cardinal Hlond desires to go back to see what he can do for his distressed people, it was said.

EMPIRES TIGHTEN EXPORT BLOCKADE ON THE GERMANS

Sharp Lookouts Set Up at Vital Passages.

LONDON, Dec. 5 (AP).—The British and French blockade of German exports, that began yesterday, went forward today with sharp lookouts maintained at such bottlenecks as Gibraltar, the Suez canal, and the Straits of Dover.

Authorities said the most difficult sections to patrol were the 270 miles between Scotland and Norway and the 400 miles between Scotland and Iceland.

The ministry of economic warfare expressed the hope that neutral shippers would declare their cargoes to British consuls before sailing or that ships would submit to examination voluntarily.

Neutral ships are being asked to call at British contraband bases at Gibraltar or in Britain when outward bound, just as they have been stopping when arriving with goods for the continent. At the bases German cargoes or proceeds of their sale will be held until the war ends.

U. S. Ships May Be Detained.

British warships will hunt for ships lacking proof of previous calls at contraband bases. If weather does not permit a search of a ship on the spot or if German goods are disclosed, the vessels will be taken to a base.

Thus an American vessel sailing from a northern Norwegian port, as permitted under the United States neutrality act, might be forced to go to a British port inside the combat zone proscribed for American ships.

It was explained that proof of a visit to a contraband base would not be required in cases where it would be impossible for a ship to be carrying German goods—on a voyage from Buenos Aires to Boston, for example.

The government has begun to requisition British ships for the increased North Atlantic trade, Minister of Shipping Sir John Gilmour announced today, to "ensure regular importation of cereals and food cargoes bought by the ministry of food."

Two More Ships Lost.

Loss of at least two more ships to German U-boats was reported today. Torpedoing of the London steamer Horsted, 1,670 tons, was reported after 13 survivors and the bodies of three crew members were landed. Five crewmen were reported missing. The Horsted, a coal ship, was en route to a northeastern port to pick up a cago when a submarine attacked her off the eastern coast yesterday. A British warship picked up the survivors and the three bodies. Sinking of the Swedish steamer Rudolf, 2,159 tons, off the British coast Sunday was revealed today when the Rudolf's captain and five sailors landed at a Scottish port after 23 hours in an open boat. Nine were missing.

Report Exports to Be Allowed.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Dec. 5 (AP).—The newspaper Libre Belgique today said the French and British had agreed to allow Belgian ships to carry German exports up to 25 per cent of a ship's tonnage. This equals the present traffic. German exports via Antwerp have been reduced 50 per cent since the war began.

[In announcing an intensified blockade, which started Monday, Britain said German exports would be halted whether carried by neutral shipping or not.]

GRIDIRON STAR KINNICK WILL BROADCAST PLAN TO JOIN NAVY FLYERS

Nile Kinnick, University of Iowa football player, will make a special short wave broadcast to be relayed over W-G-N-Mutual at 1:30 p. m. today in which he will announce his plan to apply for a commission as a naval aviation cadet at Great Lakes Training station. The broadcast will be made from a navy transport plane flying above New York City. Capt. D. C. Ramsey of the navy bureau of aeronautics will broadcast an interview with Kinnick and will tell him how to apply for entry into the corps. Capt. Ramsey also will give general information about the navy's aviation cadet flying program.

HUGENBERG QUITS GERMANY; ONCE IN NAZI CABINET

PARIS, Dec. 5.—Following the example of Fritz Thyssen, Alfred Hugenberg has put the frontier between himself and Nazilsm, according to reports from the German border.

Hugenberg, formerly chief of the German national party, was the owner of U. F. A. and other film companies. He was among the early financial backers of Adolf Hitler and the Nazi party.

In Hitler's first cabinet Hugenberg was minister of economy and represented Germany at the London economic conference. Since then he has remained in obscurity. He now finds Germany "unsuited for his general health," the reports say.

Fritz Thyssen, one of Germany's leading industrialists, quit Germany early in September because of differences with Hitler's policies. He is living in Switzerland.

Expert to Discuss Finnish Chances Against Russia

Maj. George Fielding Eliot will discuss Finland's possibilities for defense against Russia at a dinner in the Lake Shore Athletic club tonight. Maj. Eliot is the author of "The Ramparts We Watch," an analysis of American defense problems.

BELGIAN PREMIER PROPOSES NEW DEFENSE TAXES

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Dec. 5 (AP).—Prime Minister Hubert Pierlot, addressing the chamber of deputies, today urged acceptance of new taxes because economies must be subordinated to independence.

"It is better to be in serious financial condition than in a war," he said. "What is important now is defense of the country."

Cries of "Long live Finland" were raised in the chamber when a communist deputy arose to protest against postponement of a debate on government policy.

ALARM GROWS IN SCANDINAVIA; PARLEY CALLED

Sweden Mines Sea and Calls More Troops.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 5 (AP).—Norway issued a rush call today for a conference of Scandinavian countries to explore the possibilities of peaceful settlement of the Finnish-Russian war and to take stock of their own alarming situation.

Emphasizing the earnest desire of the northern countries to reëstablish peace, Halvdan Koht, Norwegian foreign minister, invited Rickard Sandler and Peter Munch, the foreign ministers of Sweden and Denmark, respectively, to meet with him in Oslo Thursday.

The prospect of any stronger stand by the three nations in support of Finland was dimmed, however, by a subsequent declaration by Prime Minister Thovald Stauning of Denmark that his country would maintain neutrality.

Sweden Mines Waters.

Sweden, showing increasing alarm at the soviet incursion into Finland, mined its territorial waters near the Finnish-owned Aaland islands in the Baltic and took other precautionary steps to strengthen its defenses.

The Swedish mine laying move followed the Finns' announcement of refortification of the Aaland Islands. The mines and Finnish fortifications thus closed effectively the Bothnian gulf against the Red fleet unless Russia could capture the strategic islands, which command navigable channels between the two northern countries.

The islands stand about in the middle of the 90 mile wide gulf, but even in peacetime an expert pilot is required to steer a course thru this many island archipelago.

Hunt New Swedish Cabinet.

Negotiations also were speeded in Stockholm by Premier Per Albin Hansson for formation of a new government to present a united front in Sweden's efforts to preserve neutrality. The new cabinet would include Conservatives and Liberals with the present Labor-Farmer parties. It was said Foreign Minister Sandler would resign in favor of Arvid Richert, a Conservative, now minister to Berlin.

For the first time Sweden acknowledged partial mobilization in ordering about 40,000 men, including artillerymen, engineers, and commissary detachments, into wartime service. Fourteen classes of reserves between the ages of 21 and 34 were called to the colors. The order brought Swedish forces under arms to about 150,000 men, compared to its normal standing force of 20,000.

The Swedish government ordered a new survey with a view to conserving food supplies and other raw materials, at present plentiful, and laid plans for a test blackout of Stockholm on Monday.

Norway also stepped up defensive measures by sending more men to its far northern frontier adjoining Finland.

The Norwegian invitation to Thursday's conference failed to mention Vaino Tanner, Finnish foreign minister, or his predecessor, Eljas Erkko, now in Stockholm as charge d'affaires.

President Kyosti Kallio of Finland was included in the Stockholm parleys of the kings of the Scandinavian countries last month which resulted in a declaration of solidarity among the northern countries. It was pointed out that that declaration meant moral and economic support but not military aid for Finland.

Koht declared today, however, that Finland's plight deeply concerns Scandinavia "both because of ourselves and because of Finland."

Denmark's reiteration of its neutrality was considered by diplomats as inevitable, since it has a nonaggression pact with Germany and thus would refrain from any action which might change its neutral stand toward all phases of the European upheaval.

Denmark's only land frontier is with Germany and its coast lines are dominated by the British fleet in the North sea and the German fleet in the Baltic.

Prime Minister Stauning made his neutrality declaration before the lower house of the Danish parliament.

"Wars and disasters now have reached the northern countries," he said. "In Denmark there is full unanimity that our country in the midst of wars growing out of the present unhappy European conditions still must cling to its policy of neutrality. Neutrality rules formulated in 1938 thus will be applied also in this latest conflict."

[At a conference in Oslo on April 6, 1938, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Finland agreed to stay aloof from all groupings of powers which might be formed in Europe. These same nations with Belgium, Luxemburg, and the Netherlands in July, 1938, denounced article 16 of the league of nations covenant, which compelled them to join economic and financial punitive measures against aggressor nations.]

Meanwhile unofficial organizations in Sweden collected 1,000,000 kroner [nearly $250,000] for the preliminary financing of a volunteer corps to aid Finland.

Called to Confer

FRENCH TROOPS FIGHT OFF SERIES OF GERMAN RAIDS

Moselle Area Shelled by Foe, Says Berlin.

PARIS, Dec. 5 (AP).—The repulse of a series of German raids on the western front was reported tonight in the French general staff's communique.

"The enemy attempted a series of raids, all of which failed," it said.

This morning's communique said: "Patrols and artillery activity during the night on certain points of the front."

Paris police held 15 persons accused of plotting to reconstitute the dissolved Communist Youth association. They were arrested yesterday.

French Shell Moselle Areas.

BERLIN, Dec. 5 (AP).—Enemy artillery enlivened an otherwise dull day on the western front, the German high command reported today. Its communique said:

"Aside from somewhat more active enemy artillery annoyance fire in the border section east of the Mosel [Moselle river], there has been only minor skirmishing on the west front."

Dutch Plan Balloon Barrage.

THE HAGUE, the Netherlands, Dec. 5 (AP).—The Netherlands government intends to strengthen its air raid defenses by purchasing barrage balloons. Such baloons support a network of cables intended to entangle enemy aircraft.

The number to be used in the Netherlands was not disclosed by the defense minister, Lieut. Col. A. Q. H. Dyxhoorn, in reviewing the nation's defense budget before the second chamber [lower house] of the states general.

Antiaircraft Guns to Be Bought.

"The strength of the air force is sufficient," he said, "but the government plans to increase its antiaircraft forces."

He declared merchant ships would not be armed.

The program for inundating the Netherlands' flood defensive system must be kept secret, the minister added, but if further flooding is necessary, inhabitants will be warned.

Bugs Moran Released for Forgery Case Review

The Illinois Appellate court issued an order yesterday releasing George [Bugs] Moran, prohibition gang leader, on a $5,000 bond pending a review of his appeal. Moran was convicted by a jury last May and sentenced to a year in jail and fined $2,000 on a charge of conspiring to flood the country with $500,000 in forged travelers' checks. Moran had been free on a $35,000 bond pending arrangements to perfect an appeal, until Nov. 27. On that day the time limit for his freedom on bond expired and he was committed to the county jail.

American Refugees Reach Stockholm from Finland

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5 [Special].—The state department announced tonight that Frederick A. Sterling, American minister to Sweden, had sent word of the arrival at Stockholm of the steamship Kastelholm. The vessel had aboard 43 Americans who were evacuated yesterday from Finland. Among those on board were Miss Irja E. Lindgren of Hibbing, Minn.; Matt Wiltala of Red Granite, Wis., and Maria Eleanor Elm of Chassell, Mich. H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, minister to Finland, is at Badgrankulla, 10 minles from Helsingfors.

RUSSIA EXPECTED TO QUIT LEAGUE OR BE CAST OUT

Latin Delegates Consider United Policy.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 5 (AP).—Latin-American delegates to the league of nations, conscious of a new position of leadership given them by Argentina's demand that Russia be ejected, met tonight to consider a "united policy" on the Finnish war.

Alberto Guani [Uruguay's foreign minister].

They decided to contact their governments and to meet Saturday prior to the council session. Argentina, Uruguay, Bolivia, Colombia, Ecuador, Mexico, Cuba, and the Dominican Republic were represented.

Russia Faces Two Choices.

As a result of Finland's protest against invasion and the South American front, diplomats predicted Russia faced the choice of quitting or being kicked out.

Some quarters said Great Britain and France must support Finland or lose South American prestige.

In order to preserve its world status it was maintained the league could not afford to affront its South American members.

Threaten to Withdraw.

Foreign Minister Alberto Guani of Uruguay has proposed that all American members of the league withdraw from the body unless Russia is expelled. Besides Argentina and Uruguay, these are Bolivia, Colombia, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Haiti, Mexico, Panama, and Peru.

[Brazil's foreign minister, Oswaldo Aranha, said his nation, not a league member, was prepared to support any common continental action based on American treaties and the league pact as a result of Russia's war on Finland. Informed quarters at Buenos Aires said still other nonmembers were likely to join in some form of condemnation of the Russian invasion.]

Should Russia resign, some league quarters professed to believe there would be a chance to bring Italy and Spain back into active membership. Spain's membership has a year and a half to run, while Italy's two year notification of withdrawal is not effective until Sunday.

Waives Alimony

MRS. PAULINE RICHARDSON.

Mrs. Pauline Richardson, 23 years old, 5722 Winthrop avenue, wanted to be a home girl. When her husband, Robert, an automobile salesman, insisted that she keep her job as a beauty parlor operator after three years of married life, she left him, she testified yesterday. Judge Rudolph Desort granted her a divorce. She waived alimony and support money.

Envoy Kennedy Leaves for New York on Clipper Plane

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 5 (AP).—Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador to London, left for New York today on a trans-Atlantic clipper. The London embassy announced on Nov. 23 that Kennedy had been called home by the state department for consultation, the nature of which it did not disclose.

ARMORED BRIDGE FEATURE OF SHIP DOCKING AT N. Y.

New York, Dec. 5 [Special].—Painted buff and black and armed with a six inch naval gun and an antiaircraft gun, both aft, the Cunard White Star liner Scythia arrived today with 218 passengers, including 100 German-Jewish refugees and 25 American citizens. The Holland America liner Statendam also docked, with 1,666 passengers, including 800 Jewish refugees.

On each wing of the Scythia's bridge was an armor-plated pillbox with shatterproof peepholes, designed to protect the captain or other officers while directing navigation of the ship during a sea battle.

Evangeline Booth, retired general of the Salvation Army, was among the passengers. Miss Booth retired Oct. 31, after being head of the Salvation Army for five years. She was returning to her home in Hartsdale, N. Y.

Holland is becoming a new and important market for American goods because of the war, said Miss Marian Deul, buyer for Bijenkorf's, largest department store in Holland, who arrived on the Statendam.

Among the passengers also were Richard B. Bennett, former prime minister of Canada; Lady Dunn, wife of the president of the Algoma Steel Company of Canada and England, here to place her young daughter in school, and Sir John Reith, chairman of the British Overseas airways.

GIRL DIES IN TAXI CRASH.

Du Quoin, Ill., Dec. 5 [Special].—A coroner's jury last night returned a verdict of accidental death in the crash fatal to Miss Caroline Edwards, 20 years old. She was killed when a taxicab in which she was a passenger plunged into a ditch. Her sister, Mrs. Edith Bottom, 18, was injured seriously.

TIRED OF WAITING ON WAR, GERMANS RETURN TO RHINE

Swiss Declare Nazi Drive Seems Far Off.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 5.—Germans are beginning to trickle back to the home towns along the Rhine river that they hurriedly deserted at the outbreak of the war, it is reported here. "They are tired of waiting for this show to begin," one visitor from Germany said today.

Natives of Alsace, across the river in France, are said to be firmly established in the quarters to which they were moved in south and central France and do not show any inclination to return to the vicinity of the Maginot and Siegfried lines.

Expect No Big Drive Soon.

Some observers here regard the return of the German civilians to the Rhineland as evidence that Fuehrer Adolf Hitler does not plan a big offensive in this section of the front for some time to come. A drive would draw heavy fire from the French artillery and endanger those who have come back. The return-to-home movement is most pronounced in the German towns that were only partly evacuated, such as Karlsruhe and Freiburg, it is said. Most of the Germans coming back have property or business they want to protect. They apparently are not hindered by the German authorities.

The Alsatians, meanwhile, have moved many factories inland from the Rhine region and prepared for a long stay.

German Secrets Guarded.

Many German servant girls who left for the fatherland at the outbreak of the war are returning to their former jobs in Swiss homes. No new ones are permitted to enter. Those who return have received strict orders not to discuss Germany's internal affairs and, if asked how things are going in the homeland, they invariably reply, "Everything's fine." Most of them have families in Germany and consider it inadvisable to talk.

German authorities are willing to let them come here because the Swiss francs that the girls send home to their families provide a small source of foreign exchange for the reich. Money taken or sent into Germany is turned over to a special exchange control department, which keeps it and returns reichsmarks at a rate that usually is about one reichsmark for two Swiss francs.

Travelers from Germany who hope to return also are warned before leaving not to talk about the situation there.

The association of landlords in Basel, unable to decide whether the war is ever going to begin on a big scale, angrily debates the problem of the construction of air raid shelters. The estimated cost of 100 francs [$22] a person has been called too great to protect themselves and their tenants from an air raid that may never come. The landlords have decided to ask the city to contribute 40 per cent of the cost, with the landlords and the tenants paying the remainder. At present there are no shelters here.

Changes Homes

Mrs. Ethel Barton holding her granddaughter, Sally Ann Tomsak.

Sally Ann Tomsak, 5 years old, will live in the home of her father, Irving Tomsak, 1508 East 63d place, under terms of a ruling by Judge Francis B. Allegretti yesterday. Since Sally's mother died last May 31, the girl has been cared for by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Barton, 7504 Cornell avenue. Tomsak, in a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, asserted Mrs. Barton had since refused to give up Sally Ann, altho he has remarried and has a home for her. Judge Allegretti specified that the change in homes be made gradually, so as not to upset the child.

Philippine Areas Report Heavy Typhoon Damage

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 5 (AP).—Reports of heavy damage to crops, property, and public works continued to filter in tonight from districts swept by a typhoon. Known fatalities remained at two. The storm was reported to be stationary over the Pacific, east of central Luzon. Communication lines are being reëstablished slowly.

BATISTA RESIGNS ARMY JOB TODAY ON $1,680 PENSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 5.—Col. Fulgencio Batista, Cuba's strong man, will retire from the army and turn over his position as chief of staff to Col. José Pedraza tomorrow. Batista will retire to run for the presidency next year.

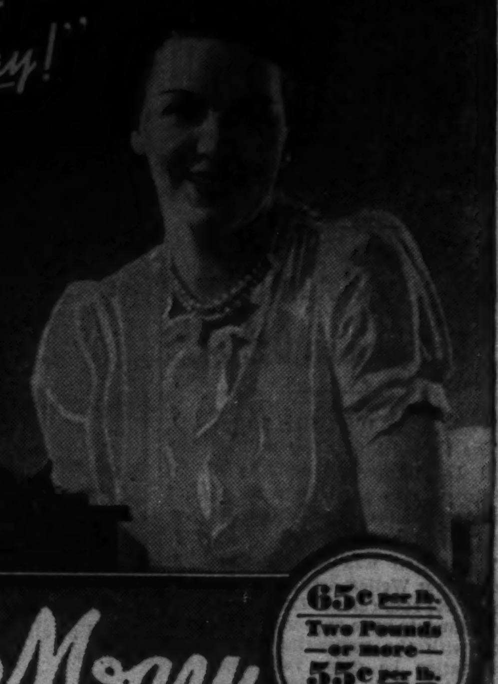
Pedraza, inspector general of the army and for the last three years chief of the national police, will be replaced by his aide de camp, Bernardo Garcia, as chief of police. Lieut. Col. Lopez Migoya will be promoted to inspector general of the army and placed in line as Pedraza's successor as chief of staff.

Batista will receive an annual pension of $1,680. President Laredo Bru yesterday signed a new army retirement law providing that any chief of staff may retire at any age and without having previously served 25 years with a full pension. Batista became Cuba's dictator six years ago.

Acting Mayor of Urbana Wins G.O.P. Nomination

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 5 (AP).—Acting Mayor George F. Hurd defeated Robert L. Gordon, public works commissioner, by 441 votes today for the Republican nomination for mayor in a special primary election. A. D. Huston, instructor in speech at the University of Illinois, was unopposed for the Democratic candidacy. A special election will be held on Feb. 6 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mayor John Gray last September.

"Here's What I Saw at Fannie May!"



MISS MARGUERITE BONGA stenographer for John B. Woodward, Inc., visited the Fannie May Candy Kitchens recently

She Says "I always knew Fannie May Butter Creams were delicious... but honestly, I never dreamed they could afford to use fresh-churned, creamery butter exclusively... in fact, the same, individual, one-pound brick table butter ... just like we use at home. M-m-m! They looked so good as I saw them made."

U.S. READY TO JOIN IN PAN-AMERICAN REBUFF OF SOVIET

Willing to Return Finns' Payment on Debt.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5 [Special]. —The United States has notified several Latin-American nations of its willingness to participate in a joint Pan-American condemnation of Russia's invasion of Finland.

The action was announced today by Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state. He said certain Latin-American governments have approached this nation with the suggestion that some declaration be made in support of principles of international law and in denunciation of force as a means of settling international differences.

The Latin-American nations, which were not named, were informed that if all other American republics undertake to formulate such a declaration the United States will be glad to take part. While the present disposition is not to complicate peace efforts by precipitate action, a joint condemnation is said to be favored in many quarters.

Sympathies Already Shown.

Several western hemisphere governments, among which is Colombia, already have made clear their sympathy toward Finland thru public statements or messages to the president of Finland. Argentina and Uruguay have proposed condemnation of the invasion, but their suggestions involved action by the league of nations.

Altho President Roosevelt was believed to have hinted at his press conference today that diplomatic relations between this country and Russia are nearing the breaking point, support was also given to a report that the administration is holding back from a break in order that it might be in a position to use its good offices toward peace.

There were suggestions in high administration quarters that the government has learned of unpublicized efforts being made to bring hostilities to a close, but that the United States is not participating in these efforts.

Report Hope Is Not Gone.

The administration was represented as desiring not to be placed in the position of upsetting an apple cart. For that reason, it was indicated, there would be no immediate decision on changing the status of diplomatic relations with Moscow.

At his press conference today Mr. Roosevelt said the foreign policy of the United States is on a day to day basis. Comments on the subject followed his proposal that Finland's payment of her debt to the United States from the last war be used for the benefit of the Finnish people.

The little nation's debt instalment of $234,693 is due Dec. 15. Despite the Russian attack, Finland's envoys here have announced their country will meet the instalment and continue to be the only nation which has met in full its war obligations to this country as they come due.

Sum to Be Sequestered.

Under the law, the President said, the treasury is obligated to take the debt instalment if paid, but he plans to have the sum sequestered in a special account so the matter of turning the money over to benefit the Finnish people can be taken up with congress. He added it was possible that four or five previous installments might also be returned to Finland.

In this connection Mr. Roosevelt was asked whether this latest move against Russia's attack on Finland spells severance of the relations between this country and the soviet which he instituted early in his administration.

He pondered a moment, then said slowly that there was no news on that question today. He added with marked emphasis that he didn't know about the future.

It was recalled that Mr. Roosevelt brought Ambassador Hugh Wilson back from Germany last spring for less provocation than the soviet attack on Finland and has not yet named a successor. Wilson was recalled as a protest against Nazi minority persecutions and the final partition of Czecho-Slovakia.

Since the conclusion of the soviet-Nazi alliance and the Red march on the Finns, Red sympathies have become unpopular among New Dealers. Parlor-pinking no longer is in fashion in Washington.

Postal Auction

Adeline Simms holding articles offered at auction sale at new postoffice.

How about a violin—slightly damaged but still playable—for Junior's Christmas? Or a new set of corsets for some one? Perhaps a loved one longs to see the craters on the moon and has asked Santa for a telescope.

Whatever the item on the Christmas list, it probably can be found on the ninth floor of the new postoffice at the semiannual auction of mailed but unclaimed articles. Several auctioneers worked in relays to dispose of the first 500 of the 846 lots of merchandise yesterday, and the rest will go on the block beginning at 8:30 a. m. today.

John Consoer, assistant superintendent of mails in charge of the inquiry section, said there are plenty of things left, including books, toys, bed spreads, underwear, baseball bats, fishing rods, kitchen utensils, silverware, tools—and even a flute.

Aid of China's Dictator Opens Air Line to Moscow

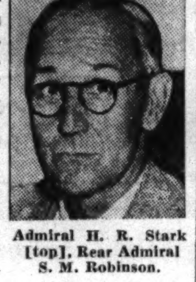
COST OF FIXING 36 DESTROYERS NEARLY MILLION

Extra Expense Is Result of Design Errors.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5—Topheaviness of the navy's new destroyers will be corrected at a cost approaching 1 million dollars, the house appropriations committee has been informed by navy officials.



Admiral H. R. Stark [top], Rear Admiral S. M. Robinson.

The fact that the navy was turning out warships with errors in design was reported last October and finally was admitted by Charles Edison, acting secretary of the navy, in a letter to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] in November after attempts had been made to hush the matter.

As a result of errors in ship design, the navy shook up its construction and repair and engineering divisions, transferring two admirals and several lesser officers. The revelations resulted in the drawing of a bill designed to revolutionize the organization of the navy department with a view toward simplifying operations and centralizing responsibility.

Rap Policy of Secrecy.

Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Rear Admiral S. M. Robinson, coördinator of naval shipbuilding and chief of the bureau of engineering, told the committee that the defects in design were relatively of minor consequence. Many navy officials feel that the errors were magnified in the public mind by the attempt to keep the matter secret.

The house committee questioned the two officials closely about the defects. They were told that it will cost between $600,000 and $1,000,000 to correct all of the defects in the new 1,500 ton destroyers. Six of these vessels are complete, 6 are almost finished, and 24 others are in the early phases of construction.

Repairs Cost $41,841 Each.

The estimated cost of making the necessary changes in the six completed craft is $41,341 each, a total of $251,046. The cost of remedying the defects in the six which are almost complete was estimated at $35,541 each, a total of $213,246. The cost of altering the designs and changing the specifications on the 24 destroyers in the early stages of construction will probably bring the total additional cost close to the million mark.

Weighting of the keels, shifting stores and removal of some deck furnishings will insure the necessary stability, the committee was told. It was estimated that 40 to 50 tons of lead will be added to the keel of each ship without decreasing its speed.

BARTON RAPS YOUNG NEW DEAL RADICALS FOR LABOR LAW STRIFE

New York, Dec. 5 [Special].—Representative Bruce Barton informed members of the Queensborough Chamber of Commerce tonight that 5 to 10 per cent of the trouble that has arisen under the Wagner labor relations act could be attributed to defects in the legislation and the other 90 to 95 per cent to bad administration and incompetent personnel.

"Several hundred fresh young boys with no practical experience, with no knowledge of labor conditions, no understanding of industry's problems, have been put on the public pay roll, supplied with government money in the form of ample expense accounts, and turned loose to annoy, harass, and sit in judgment on America's workers and business men," Barton declared. "Most of these young men are radicals.

"The law is here to stay, but the law should be amended and clarified in three or four particulars."

ARMY AIR CORPS SEEKS TECHNICAL SCHOOL RECRUITS

The army air corps is seeking to enlist capable young men for training in aeronautics at Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill. The announcement was made yesterday by Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. NAVY, ARMY PLAN FOR HEMISPHERE DEFENSE IS TOLD

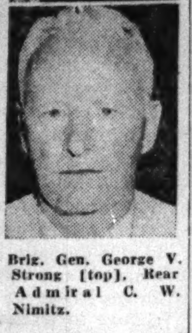
General, Admiral Speak on American Strategy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—The best defenses the 21 republics of the new world can erect to preserve the solidarity of the western hemisphere are adequate navies and small, mobile, hard hitting armies. The navies would hold an enemy from American shores, and the armies would prevent an invader from establishing bases of operation should he pierce the sea wall.



Brig. Gen. George V. Strong [top], Rear Admiral C. W. Nimitz.

This is the consensus of the army and navy on the protection of the western hemisphere as stated today by Brig. Gen. George V. Strong, assistant chief of staff of the army, and Rear Admiral C. W. Nimitz, chief of the bureau of navigation. Both spoke at the third annual conference on inter-American affairs sponsored by George Washington university.

Military Missions Are an Aid.

Both officers declared an integral factor in the development of a united western world defense is the training of armies and navies of the various nations along the same lines. This would be facilitated, they declared, thru naval and military missions. The army has missions in six nations and the navy in four, and in addition young men from various American republics are attending the West Point and Annapolis academies to effect similarity of training.

"The conception of hemisphere defense does not place us as a nation in the position of a policeman whose duty it is to insure the peace of the western hemisphere under any and all conditions," said Gen. Strong.

Coöperation Needed, General Says.

"Both our own military establishment and those of the other American republics are faced with the mission of being prepared to coöperate in defense."

In view of the geographical isolation of the Americas, Strong added, it is reasonable to assume that the western hemisphere is safe from anything more serious than hit and run raids and interference with commerce.

Admiral Nimitz suggested the cause of solidarity of the hemisphere will be advanced by promoting better understanding and avoiding causes of irritation and suspicion from within.

READ VERDICT TODAY IN WPA FRAUD TRIAL OF 2 AT INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 5 (AP).—A federal court jury tonight returned a sealed verdict in the trial of Carl F. Kortepeter, former Marion county Work Projects administration coördinator, and his father-in-law, Gurney G. Derbyshire, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government.

Judge Robert C. Baltzell said he would receive the verdict at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow. The trial began Monday. The jury had deliberated 2 hours 50 minutes.

Kortepeter and Derbyshire are charged with employing WPA workers to build two roads on Kortepeter's 14 acre real estate subdivision southeast of Indianapolis from last November to last February. In his closing argument United States District Attorney Val Nolan told the jury, "The hour has struck . . . to stop dirty work in WPA."

Floyd J. Mattice, defense counsel, said his clients had acted only to find work for men who needed it.

1923 SAFETY BOX TO BE OPENED BY U. S. TAX AGENTS

A safety deposit box which has not been touched since the death in 1923 of its renter, Austin J. Lynch, will be opened by representatives of the federal government today. Lynch was a real estate appraiser who obtained high fees from the city during the administration of a former Republican mayor.

The government is seeking to collect taxes on Lynch's income for 1920 and 1921. With interest, the government claim amounts to $584,000. Permission to open Lynch's box at the Harris Safe Deposit company, 115 West Monroe street, was given yesterday by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell.

Rentals on this box and another at the Lincoln Safe Deposit company, 2805 North Clark street, have been paid annually by Lynch's widow, according to William J. Campbell, United States attorney. In his petition to the Probate court Campbell said the boxes were not opened, even for inheritance taxe examination. The government is also trying to collect a $25,157 tax on Lynch's $705,000 estate.

Marshall Field & Company
presents here each day observations intended to be of value to those it seeks to serve.

CAN YOU LIVE WITH IT?

By CALEB

THE discussion had arisen in our second-floor Art Galleries—apropos of my question as to what, in my connoisseur friend's opinion, constituted true worth in an article of furnishing or adornment.

"I can best answer that," said he, "by recalling a visit I once made to the home of Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, in London, when he was at the height of his fame. Member of the Royal Academy; a painter recognized the world over for his classic style and masterful compositions; wealthy, and a lavish entertainer—his sumptuously appointed mansion was the rendezvous of celebrities in all the arts.

"But far more had gone into the equipment of his numerous rooms than priceless and beautiful things. There was immediately evident in each an atmosphere of repose and livableness—a quality that both exalted and quieted the spirit . . . that seemed to 'belong,' and was inevitable. Whether the momentary occupant happened to be a Prime Minister or a common workman, this effect was the same; and its secret lay in the fact that the surrounding objects, one and all, had been unerringly chosen by their owner as something which could be lived with.

"In Sir Lawrence's music room, for example, stood the most magnificent piano I ever expect to see—an instrument built to the painter's personal order out of solid ebony, and all the more impressive for the studied simplicity of its design. Valued at $150,000, such a gorgeous possession would simply have excited startled admiration in the beholder—but for Alma-Tadema it also had significance and personality. For when you lifted the cover, you found parchment panels inlaid on its under surface, inscribed with the signatures of hundreds of his artist guests and friends. Whatever the mood or hour, his piano could instantly recreate their presence.

"That, it seems to me," he continued, "is the distinguishing difference between the meritorious and the meretricious in merchandise. Can you live with it? Will your enjoyment of this painting, this statue, this chair, this tapestry, this vase, or lamp, or desk, or cabinet, continue—because implicit in it is a timeless attribute of companionship? If so—then you have found the quality you referred to as 'true worth'."

This moral of the final criterion by which to gauge all enduring Quality, warrants repeated emphasizing—for it was the same standard by which the founder of this store also measured the "true worth" of its own operations.

ACTION ON TWO SUSPECT JUDGES NOW UP TO BAR

M'Garry, Holland Relieved of Court Duties.

Municipal Judges Eugene L. McGarry and Eugene J. Holland were relieved of duty by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby yesterday pending an investigation by the Chicago Bar association of charges against them. A decision on whether disbarment will be recommended may be made next week. Power to revoke a lawyer's license to practice rests with the State Supreme court.

Chief Justice Sonsteby took his action in response to a request from the board of directors of the Chicago Crime commission. He was relieving Holland and McGarry, he said, "in justice to their colleagues and to the good reputation of the Municipal court."

Would They Be Disqualified?

Whether disbarment would disqualify either from continuing to sit upon the bench puzzled several lawyers last night. All said they believed it to be the intent of the legislature in writing the Municipal court act to prevent a disbarred attorney from holding office, yet they were confused by the wording of the law.

The act states that no person may be eligible to membership on the Municipal bench who is not at least 32 years old and a citizen, "nor unless he shall have resided in the county of Cook and been there engaged, either in active practice as an attorney and counselor at law or in the discharge of the duties of a judicial office, eight years next preceding his election, or in one of said occupations during a portion of said time and in the other the remaining portion thereof, and shall, at the time of his election, be a resident of the city of Chicago."

Law Never Tested.

Attorneys held that while it appeared plain that a candidate must be a lawyer at the time of his election to the Municipal bench, the law did not make it clear whether he could continue to sit if he were not a lawyer, having been disbarred.

"I have no doubt," one lawyer said, "that the legislature intended that disbarment should take a Municipal judge from the bench. Had the question been raised at the time, the wording no doubt would have been clarified to care for such a potential emergency. Unfortunately, it was not raised, and the law has never been tested."

Attorney Oscar M. Wolff, chairman of the bar association's judiciary committee, which is examining the conduct of the judges, said a report probably would be made to the board of managers by the end of next week.

Charges Against McGarry.

In the McGarry case the board of managers referred to the judiciary committee accusations that McGarry was guilty of malfeasance and of conspiracy to accept false acknowledgment in bond matters.

McGarry was indicted shortly after the investigation had been started and the committee took no further action until the indictment was quashed by a ruling by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Criminal court.

The inquiry into Judge Holland's affairs followed the disclosure that he was a business partner of Edward J. O'Hare, front man for the Capone syndicate, who was assassinated a few weeks ago.

Letter from Crime Commission.

Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Chicago Crime commission, wrote to Chief Justice Sonsteby on Monday that the commission's board of directors had voted unanimously to request that Holland and McGarry "remain unassigned to judicial duties for the present."

"I have delayed writing this letter," Cahn continued, "in the hope that the judges would relieve you and your associates of embarrassment by voluntarily withdrawing from judicial activity until such time as a proper disposition could be made of the allegations against them.

"Evidently they are indifferent to public opinion and unconcerned as to the reputation of the court."

Reply from Chief Justice.

In his reply Chief Justice Sonsteby said:

"It is my firm conviction that the canons of judicial ethics apply on the bench as well as off the bench. If our courts are to retain the respect and confidence of our fellow citizens, the public and private conduct of the judges must be above suspicion."

Judges Holland and McGarry could not be reached for comment last night. Attorney Joseph T. Harrington, who has represented Judge Holland since the O'Hare connection was disclosed, said he would talk about the case only in court.

COURT REFUSES EXTRADITION OF A DIES WITNESS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5 (AP).—Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat of the United States District court refused today to authorize the extradition to New Orleans of William C. McCuistion, former national maritime union official, who police say is wanted in the Louisiana city on a charge of murder.

The chief justice declined to honor the extradition requisition of Gov. Earl K. Long on the grounds that papers accompanying it were "slipshod."

McCuistion, sought by Louisiana authorities in connection with the slaying Sept. 17 of Philip Carey, secretary-treasurer of the cooks and stewards division of the C. I. O. maritime workers, was arrested here last month while testifying before the Dies committee about communism. Upon refusing to permit extradition, Justice Wheat directed that McCuistion be released unless there were other charges pending against him.

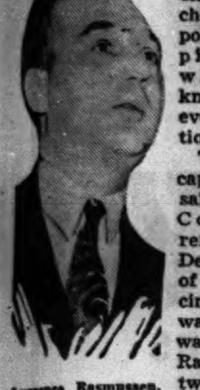
HOW FIRST WARD FINDS ITS G. O. P. POLL OFFICIALS

A Democrat Hires Them, Jarecki Is Told.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki heard testimony yesterday that a Democratic precinct captain chose Republican poll officials and picked persons who had no knowledge whatever of the election machinery.



Lawrence Rasmussen.

The precinct captain, witnesses said, was Deputy Coroner Lawrence Rasmussen, Democratic boss of the 15th precinct of the 1st ward. When it was shown that Rasmussen hired two G. O. P. officials out of a Prairie avenue rooming house, Judge Jarecki declared:

"That confirms what I said Monday —what is needed is a strong Republican organization. Here we find a Democratic precinct captain filling both Democratic and Republican election posts. That's bipartisanship."

Judge Names Election Board.

Judge Jarecki himself supervises all elections in the county and thru his appointment of the board of election commissioners controls all judges and clerks at polling places.

George Brennan, 2631 Prairie avenue, one of the witnesses at yesterday's hearing of fraud charges, said he had just turned 21, had never voted, and knew nothing about elections, when Rasmussen approached him in his rooming house.

"He asked me if I wanted a job," Brennan testified. "I said I did, so he got me appointed as a clerk."

"What affiliation did you have with the Republican party?" Judge Jarecki demanded.

"None," Brennan replied, "I had never attended an organization meeting."

He added that on Nov. 8, 1938, he got mixed up in his duties in the polling place, but that he saw no persons voting twice.

Brennan's landlady, Mrs. Marie McCarthy, testified that Rasmussen asked her if she wanted a job. She was made a Democratic clerk, altho she, too, knew nothing about the election law.

Fails to Read Instructions.

"Didn't you get a book of instructions?" Judge Jarecki asked.

"Yes, but I didn't look at it," she replied. "Mr. Rasmussen said there wasn't anything to the job."

She also got mixed up in her work, she said, and finally Emmett Carey, a friend of Rasmussen's, virtually took over her work.

Peter Salanti, 2725 Prairie avenue, a Republican judge, said he did not report any irregularities at the election "because of fear of physical violence."

"Were you threatened?" the judge asked.

"No, it was intuition," Salanti replied.

Salanti said that Roy Booker, 2728 Calumet avenue, colored, a Democratic judge, had objected to Rasmussen's handling of the ballots before they were counted.

"Rasmussen told Booker to be quiet or he would be thrown out," Salanti said.

Carries Book of Rules.

Booker testified he carried the book of rules with him to the polling place on election day.

"I told them," he said, "that I was going to run this court of law to the best of my ability, but Mr. Rasmussen said, 'No, I am running it.' Then I said, 'Don't get me in jail, for if I do go to jail, I'll take you and some others with me.'"

Rasmussen is sought on a warrant issued last week by Judge Jarecki. Chief Deputy Coroner Anthony C. Prusinski said Rasmussen was on a leave of absence pending the outcome of the investigation.

Meanwhile the December grand jury—the third successive grand jury to concern itself with vote frauds—began examining Cook county precincts outside the city. It was not disclosed what offices or which election they were investigating.

Recount in One Precinct.

During the day Judge Jarecki and John F. Cashen Jr., vote fraud prosecutor, opened the ballot box from the 15th precinct of the 1st ward and recounted in open court the votes cast in the April 4 mayoralty election. This count showed that Dwight H. Green, the Republican nominee, had received 50 votes more than he was credited with.

The official count tallied after the election gave Mayor Kelly 301 votes and Green 27. Yesterday's recount tallied 247 for the mayor and 77 for Green.

Policemen in Action

TWO POLICEMEN KEEP TRADITION IN GUN BATTLES

Two policemen lived up to tradition and qualified as heroes last night. As a result of their courage and straight shooting three lawbreakers were in the Bridewell hospital with bullet wounds and a fourth was in jail.

Sergt. James McGinnis, 44 years old, of the Brighton Park station, was off duty. In front of 1344 Madison street he saw an automobile containing three men cut sharply in front of another, in which a man, woman, and two children were riding.

Sergeant Takes Action.

As the family was forced to the curb the three men killed their engine. Sergt. McGinnis ran to the side of the car.

"I'm a police officer," he said, showing his badge. "Why did you run those folks into the curb?"

"Gwan, you ——, you don't look so tough," retorted one of the trio. All three swarmed out of the car and attacked McGinnis. The sergeant, a slightly built, small boned man, went down under a barrage of blows. His glasses were knocked off and broken.

McGinnis struggled up and again was beaten down. He managed to draw his service revolver. He fired one shot as a final warning, then fired four more. Two bullets hit one of the assailants, two hit another. McGinnis captured the third and held him until help arrived. In the excitement the family whose auto had been curbed drove away.

Identified at Hospital.

At Bridewell hospital the wounded men were identified as Edward Vogt, 32, of 2750 Kenmore avenue, the driver, shot in both legs, and Albert Cline, 25, of 2548 North Halsted street, shot in the thigh and abdomen and in serious condition. The unscathed prisoner was Walter Bade, 26, of 1720 Belmont avenue. He admitted all three had been drinking.

The second police hero of the night was Detective Norman McGrath of the Englewood station, assigned with Detective Frank Miller to guard a shoe store at 6356 South Halsted street. The store had been robbed three times since Oct. 7. Last evening the bandit returned and mistook McGrath for a clerk.

He pressed something hard into the detective's back and ordered him to lead the way to the manager, Sol Tannenbaum. On the way McGrath wheeled and fired. One of his bullets went thru the robber's neck. "Don't shoot any more," he pleaded. "I've only got a toy gun." At the Bridewell hospital he said he was Raymond Perks, 30, of Terre Haute, Ind. It was believed he would die of his wound.

3 Gunmen Terrorize 12, Take $675, Overlook $2,000

Three masked bandits with sawed-off shotguns terrorized six women and six men yesterday in the offices of the Petroleum Heat and Power company at 3301 South California avenue and took $675. They made no attempt to force their victims to open the safe, in which about $2,000 had been placed a few minutes earlier.

LIQUOR STORE ROBBED.

Two bandits held up a liquor store at 3426 Southport avenue last night and fled after taking $65 from the owner, Jacob Goodman, 3453 Bosworth avenue.

EARLE ON STAND BLAMES OLD FOE FOR PENN GRAFT

Names Margiotti in Court Defense of Lawrence.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

George Earle [top] and David Lawrence.

Earle was called as a defense witness in the trial of Lawrence. The Democratic boss is charged with conspiracy, blackmail, and violation of the election laws. His fate is expected to be in the hands of the jury of six women and six men, one of whom is a Negro preacher, before the end of the week.

Before a capacity audience, including a number of the state chairman's lieutenants, Earle sought to shift the blame for any wrong doing to the shoulders of his one time attorney general, Charles J. Margiotti.

Ousted Over Graft Charges.

Margiotti was fired by Earle during the heat of the Democratic primary campaign last year when the attorney general demanded a grand jury investigation of the graft charges. The Democrats blame their overwhelming defeat in the state elections last fall on Margiotti's zeal for getting to the bottom of the charges.

Earle said he first heard reports of substandard gravel being delivered in the northwestern counties from newspapermen in April of 1937. He asked Maj. Lynn G. Adams, chief of the state police, to investigate.

"Why didn't you ask Mr. Margiotti, the attorney general?" inquired O. K. Eaton, chief of defense counsel.

"Because Margiotti was an interested party," declared Earle. "He would have been investigating himself."

Earle went on to explain Margiotti was friendly with the late John Verona, Pittsburgh political boss described as "contact man" for the Pioneer Materials company, which allegedly furnished the cheap gravel in collusion with state officials.

Direct examination of the ex-governor was interrupted repeatedly with objections from Earl V. Compton, special assistant district attorney, to the "stump speeches" of the witness. Cross-examination of Earle will take place tomorrow.

Spurgeon Bowser, former president of the Pioneer concern, testified earlier in the trial that he paid Lawrence $5,000 in graft on the morning of April 2, 1937, in Pittsburgh, after being threatened with "a worse jam than you are in now."

Under a running fire of cross-examination at Compton's hands, Lawrence admitted it was a general policy of the Earle administration leaders to question Bowser and all other witnesses after their appearances before the special grand jury.

Three Already Convicted.

This was the special grand jury which indicted Lawrence and eleven other Democratic bigwigs on a number of graft charges. Three have been convicted and one acquitted in the series of trials.

Lawrence admitted meeting Bowser in a Pittsburgh hotel room last February when Sydney Toy, secretary-treasurer of the Pioneer company, hid under the bed to hear the conversation. But Lawrence claimed he did so because he was afraid of being "framed" and wanted to know "what connection I was being placed in" before the grand jury.

Mrs. Lawrence then took the stand as an alibi witness. She testified her husand was in Harrisburg on the morning of April 2, 1937, when the $5,000 graft payment allegedly was made in Pittsburgh. According to Mrs. Lawrence's recollection, her husband arrived in Pittsburgh that evening and she met him at the train.

$13,000 SHORTAGE IS TOLD AT OFFICE MANAGER'S TRIAL

Details of an audit which disclosed an alleged shortage of more than $13,000 in the accounts of Raymond C. Hartman, former office manager in the Chicago plant of Lever Brothers, were presented yesterday at Hartman's trial on a charge of embezzlement.

Raymond C. Hartman.

F. B. Andrews of 1 North La Salle street, a certified public accountant, testified that Hartman's accounts were short $13,262 during 1938. A jury of six women and six men is hearing the case in the Criminal court of Judge William J. Lindsay.

Monday the jury was regaled with the testimony of Miss Elizabeth Detweiler of Evanston, Hartman's secretary in the soap manufacturing office. She said he took her to night clubs and gave her presents. Hartman, who is 34 years old, is married and lives in Crete, Will county.

New York Acts to Disbar Attorney in Manton Case

New York, Dec. 5 [Special].—Disbarment action against Louis S. Levy has been authorized by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, and Timothy N. Pfeiffer has been appointed to draft and prosecute the charges, it was learned today. Levy, one of New York City's best known attorneys, was barred from federal practice Nov. 15 by District Judge John C. Knox for his participation in arranging a $250,000 loan for the benefit of former Judge Martin T. Manton of the Circuit Court of Appeals at a time when Manton was sitting in cases in which Levy was counsel. Manton's conviction and sentence of two years in prison plus a $10,000 fine for selling justice were upheld by a special Circuit court yesterday.

KUHN GETS 2½ YEAR SENTENCE IN N. Y. PRISON

Court Denounces Bund Aids for Perjury.

New York, Dec. 5 (AP).—Fritz Kuhn was sentenced today to two and one-half to five years in Sing Sing prison for stealing funds from his pro-Nazi German-American bund, and the prosecution was directed to take action against two of his most faithful followers for what the court declared was perjury in his defense.

Fritz Kuhn.

This plain indication that the state had not finished with the bund came after Kuhn had stood stolidly before the bench to hear the judgment and had muttered "nothing" when asked if he had anything to say.

Small Time Thief and Forger.

Kuhn's conviction on three counts of larceny and two of forgery had left him open to a possible maximum penalty of 30 years, but Judge James G. Wallace remarked that he never had thought of imposing a cumulative sentence.

"I am sentencing this man not as a rabble rouser but as a small time thief and forger," the judge said. "I am not going to make a martyr of this man."

In addition to calling Kuhn a cheap rabble rouser, Judge Wallace described the bund as a small fry organization of locker room attendants and bus boys.

The two bundsmen against whom Judge Wallace directed action by the district attorney's office were James Wheeler-Hill, national secretary, and Willy Luedtke of Lodi, N. J., an official of the German-American Business league, a bund affiliate. Assistant District Attorney Herman McCarthy told the court that action would be taken.

Three Called Perjurers.

"I believe Kuhn deliberately perjured himself and I think Wheeler-Hill did the same," said the judge. "His testimony before the grand jury and his testimony here should be the subject of an investigation by the district attorney before the grand jury. Similar action should be taken against Luedtke."

Both had gone all the way for Kuhn on the witness stand. Wheeler-Hill testified that under the leadership principle, Kuhn could do as he pleased with bund funds. Luedtke swore he had paid $500 to James D. C. Murray, an attorney for Kuhn, a fee which the prosecution proved never was paid. It was this $500 that Kuhn was said to have misappropriated, along with $717 spent by him in moving across country the furniture of Mrs. Florence Camp, a blonde divorcée he once wooed as his golden angel. The forgery counts arose out of the fact, as the jury found, that Kuhn had doctored his books to account for the $500.

90 PROOF

In whiskey, this has been difficult! But now thousands of men from coast to coast are doing it. They're buying rich, mellow Old Quaker in place of the "expensive" brands they've been using—yet saving up to $1.40 a quart!

We knew men were switching. But why? Was price alone the important thing? Or was Old Quaker's taste more important still? We sent trained investigators to find out and the statements men gave them amazed even us.

Read these typical statements: "Old Quaker costs $1.39 a bottle less than the whiskey I used to drink," says D. A. Tinker, St. Louis, Mo. "And it's every bit as good." "What," says Milo Fender, Keithsburg, Ill., "me pay over $3.00 a quart for fancy-priced whiskey? Not me, since I found Old Quaker saves me $1.30 on every quart and is every bit as good."

Statements like these are news for you. So try Old Quaker yourself. Remember, every drop is now 4 years old and finer than ever. Buy a bottle of Old Quaker today.

"I have tried much more expensive whiskies," says R. W. Coon, Chicago, "and have found nothing to compare with Old Quaker for rich flavor. It's the best whiskey buy I know."

U.S. JUDGE HOLDS FIRM IN DEMAND ICKES APOLOGIZE

Insists on Showdown in Oil Trial Criticism.

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 5 [Special].—Judge James C. Wilson of the United States District court today stood pat on his demand that Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes apologize and retract criticism of him in a recent hot oil trial or that the matter be given a full airing before congress or President Roosevelt.

The judge indicated he would not be satisfied with any temporizing of his call for a showdown. He is a gray-haired, firm-jawed man of 65, who has been on the federal bench for 20 years.

The cabinet secretary issued a statement last Thursday criticizing Judge Wilson for his conduct in the trial at Houston of Renee Allred Jr., brother of Federal Judge James V. Allred of Texas, and Neal Powers, former assistant attorney general for the state. The judge fined each defendant $1,000 on three misdemeanor counts and acquitted them on seven other counts, all concerning the handling of contraband or hot oil.

Charges Vigorously Denied.

Ickes charged Judge Wilson called in opposing attorneys and told them he wanted to stop government testimony and end the case because the evidence might reflect on one of his colleagues on the bench The secretary also said the trial was stopped despite government attorneys' insistence that it continue and without permitting the government to present all its evidence.

Judge Wilson today vigorously denied that he made any such statement as Ickes attributed to him regarding a possible reflection on a federal judge or that he called government and defense attorneys into his chambers.

"I need no defense in this controversy," Judge Wilson said. "It is not a matter between Ickes and me; it is a matter for congress to investigate.

"Several conferences were held in my chambers, but they were at the request of opposing attorneys who had been conferring among themselves. Naturally there was no transcript of the proceedings at these conferences, but a complete transcript was taken of the hearing in open court on Nov. 27, when the case was disposed of. That transcript is available for any parties interested."

Awaits Ickes' Reply.

Judge Wilson said he had answered Ickes' telegram asking for a transcript of the case and is now awaiting a reply to his query as to whether the cabinet member wants a report of the entire week long trial or of only the final proceedings.

In reply to questions concerning the resistance Ickes said government attorneys had made to the trial being cut short Judge Wilson said: "The proceedings speak for themselves."

Perusal of the transcript of the final hearing shows that both Ben F. Foster and George P. Red, special assistants to the attorney general, who flew to Houston from Washington, D. C., to prosecute the case, consented to the nolo contendre pleas to which Ickes' so strenuously objects.

The defendants, former law partners in Tyler, Tex., were charged with violating the Connally hot oil law enacted to conserve natural resources by keeping out of interstate commerce oil produced in excess of state-established quotas.

Oil Transportation Involved.

It was charged they transported 969,773 barrels of illegally produced oil from the Conroe, Tex., oil pool to Marcus Hook, Pa. It was piped thru lines constructed without knowledge of the Texas railroad commission, state oil regulatory body, and bought for 50 cents a barrel when the market price was $1.15 a barrel, the government contended.

Of ten counts against the defendants, nine were misdemeanors and one was felony, charging conspiracy and carrying a penitentiary sentence. Defense Attorney Charles I. Frances told the court at the final hearing that the defendants wished to change their not guilty pleas to the nine misdemeanors to a plea of nolo contendre. This meant they were subject to conviction without actually admitting guilt.

The transcript of the hearing shows that after much conversation, in which Prosecutor Foster made no direct objection to the nolo contendre plea but pointed out the government was not dismissing the felonious conspiracy count, Judge Wilson asked both sides if they were leaving the matter up to him.

"Yes, sir," Foster replied.

The judge then dismissed seven counts, including the conspiracy charge, and assessed the fines on the remaining three charges.

Wins Court Point

SYLVIA DOSTALEK.

Drunkometer evidence as to a defendant's sobriety has no legal standing, Judge Albert E. Isley of Newton ruled in the County court yesterday. He refused to permit the state to introduce such evidence against Miss Sylvia Dostalek, 23 years old, of 629 Onwentsia street, Highland Park. Miss Dostalek was on trial before a jury on a charge of drunk driving.

William Miller, an Evanston policeman, testified that he gave Miss Dostalek a drunkometer test by having her blow her breath into a balloon. Chemical tests were then made. Before the policeman could report his findings the judge ruled the evidence out. The jury's sealed verdict will be opened today.

ASYLUM INMATE KILLED.

Dodgeville, Wis., Dec. 5 [Special].—Robert Rasmussen, 54 years old, an inmate of the Iowa County asylum, was killed today when struck by a truck carrying WPA workmen from Linden to a local project. Two members of the WPA crew were injured.

BUNDESEN WILL REMAIN AT HEAD OF HEALTH BOARD

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen will not give up his duties as president of the board of health as a result of the Supreme court's decision on Monday, holding valid indictments charging him and many other defendants with a combination to restrain trade. This was learned yesterday at the city hall.

It was reported that Mayor Kelly will make no move to remove Dr. Bundesen from his post, and that the mayor had been informed by officials in Washington that it was permissible for the doctor to continue his work on the health board.

Last November, when the indictments were returned against the defendants, all of whom are connected with the Chicago milk industry, Dr. Bundesen took a voluntary leave of absence. He returned to duty last May. Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward held last July that the indictments were invalid. The Supreme court's ruling overthrew that of Judge Woodward.

SPLINTER CAUSES DEATH.

Vincennes, Ind., Dec. 5 [Special].—Victor Hillsburg, 30 years old, a Bicknell grocery clerk, died in a hospital here last night of tetanus. An infected foot from a splinter was reported to have developed into lockjaw.

CONTINUE HUNT FOR RUTH JUDD, INSANE KILLER

The crazed slayer of two women in 1931 had been gone 48 hours at 7 p. m. on her second escape from the state hospital for the insane. When she fled the first time, Oct. 2?, she remained free six days.

Sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen dashed from one section to another chasing down false reports that Mrs. Judd had been seen. Officers are convinced she is hiding in or near the city. She had no money when she slipped out of a hospital ward Sunday night. Mrs. Judd, 34 years old, has been confined in the state hospital since 1933, when she was adjudged insane after being sentenced to be hanged.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike for another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other."—From the Farewell Address.

FINLAND TO THE LEAGUE.

The council of the league of nations will meet Saturday in Geneva and the assembly Monday to discuss the protest of Finland against the Russian invasion. The palace of the league has been silent for some time and the Finns in appealing to it cannot hope for any help, but they realize that there may be some publicity value in starting a discussion. Russia, altho still a member, will not be represented. Presumably all Finland expects is an opportunity to declare its wrongs and develop such a general protest as the other nations may want to voice.

Collective security was still the communist party line when the league's council held its 101st session, May 9 to May 14 last year. The league's retreat from collective action was in full swing then, but China and soviet Russia tried to stop it and reassert the discarded principle of protection by collective defense against aggression. Mr. Chamberlain had said, on Feb. 22: "We must not try to delude small, weak nations into thinking that they will be protected by the league against aggression."

Soviet Russia was then the professed defender of the weak against the aggressors, which, as it happened, were its sworn enemies, Japan, Italy, and Germany. These three powers had tested the league's will, ability, and determination and had found that the most powerful of the members would not go the last mile either in applying embargoes or in meeting force with force. China, Ethiopia, and Austria had already proved that the league was powerless to stop a government determined to have its way. Aside from China, Ethiopia probably was the test question.

Mussolini confessed after he was out of the woods that if the embargo—the sanctions—had been actively enforced with determination, his African adventure would have been touch and go and might have ended unpleasantly for the ambitions of the new Roman empire. The nations, however, pulled apart and in the test of nerves and will Mussolini was the stronger, altho his position was precarious.

Haile Selassie, along with Dr. Wellington Koo of China, were two orphans of the storm at Geneva, symbolizing only the declaration made by Mr. Chamberlain that the small or weak nations must not delude themselves. It was proved in numerous instances that a powerful nation wanting something intensely and being determined to get it would outface the league combination and the other powerful nations whose realistic interests in the controversy seemed to be remote and therefore not worth the trouble it would take to put over the scheme of collective security.

Probably in the future arrangements for Europe there will be a reconsideration of guaranties of peace and security by agreement. If so, it would seem that the underwriting should be done exclusively by European nations, eliminating participation by people from the western hemisphere and Asia and, most important of all, that the basic agreement avoid injustice in the status to be maintained. Collective security couldn't carry the treaty of Versailles.

15 HOURS TO NEW YORK.

The success of the nonstop flights from New York to Chicago should have convinced railroad managements—if they had any doubts about it—that a great many people want to get to their destinations just as fast as they can safely do so. The railroads have an answer, if they will make it, to airplane competition. They could offer a 15-hour, overnight service, leaving Chicago at 5 p. m. and arriving in New York at 9 the next morning, eastern time.

Trains can be operated safely at that pace and for that distance, as the success of the streamliners to Denver proves. The Broadway and the Century now take 16 hours for the trip. They could cover the ground in 15 hours without difficulty, particularly if the intervening stops were eliminated. How much time is lost entering crowded yards, slowing down, stopping, and again getting up momentum is a matter upon which railroad men may not agree, but it cannot be doubted that if the journey were made nonstop a substantial part of the extra hour could be clipped from the running time without any other measure being required.

The passenger would board the train in Chicago at 5 o'clock, at the close of a business day, and get off at 9 o'clock, at the beginning of the next business day. If in New York he would board the train at 7 p. m., arriving here the next morning at 9. He would not be rushed at his departure or arrive too late to get a good start on his day's engagements. He would not feel that his time was being wasted while the train was standing still.

MURDER IN LABOR TROUBLES.

Within less than two years there have been seven murders in Chicago attributable to labor union controversies. Altho each murder disclosed the motive and indicated the persons who would have reason to resort to terrorism, few arrests have been made and no convictions have been had. The persons guilty of the crimes are unpunished and the legend grows that murder in a labor dispute is, if not beyond the law, at least safe from it.

These are conditions which must be of even more concern to the great majority of union members than to the general public. The idea that there is no remedy for assassination as a method of labor rule must be rejected by every one. It is not to be admitted that the police cannot discover the murderers and the persons who procure the commission of the crime. Defeat cannot be conceded either by law enforcement authorities or by members of the unions. They, like all other citizens, know that submission to gangland is confession of fatal weakness and that crime is a plague within a union as well as outside of it.

Hoodlumism which makes use of violence with ready resort to murder must be driven out of labor organizations. The gunmen do present a difficult problem to the peaceable rank and file, but honest labor cannot safely tolerate gang rule in command. It will make the workers' position, in the end, intolerable. They have made a mistake in insisting that their unions shall not be subjected to laws which govern other organizations of a public character.

Labor now has a special body of laws recognizing its rights and privileges, with a federal administration set up to enforce these acts. The unions should make readjustment to the public and assume some responsibilities themselves. They should, for one thing, be willing to make a public accounting of their funds. That would help them control their own organizations because it would be more difficult for a gangster to loot a union treasury and to find the money with which to pay the gunmen who commit his crimes.

OVERPAID PAY ROLLERS.

A good many employés of the state have contributed 2 per cent of their earnings to the Horner campaign collection. Others are being asked to do likewise. The governor evidently approves the solicitation, for one of the collectors is a pay roller named H. A. Stone, who has been given leave of absence from the state division of old age assistance to pass the hat among state employés.

It goes without saying that this kind of thing is in violation of the spirit of the state law and probably of the letter as well. But there is more to it than that. Mr. Horner, by authorizing the collection, is serving notice on the people of Illinois that in his judgment the state employés are being overpaid by at least 2 per cent. And the employés who are contributing are telling the world that they don't need all the money they get from the treasury. They can get along just as well on 2 per cent less than they draw each month.

These facts should be borne in mind when appropriations for the executive departments are next under consideration in the legislature. There will be the usual demands for increases. It will be useful at that time to recall to the governor and the pay rollers that their own acts have proved that the present scale is excessive. In simple justice to the taxpayers, all employés who contributed to the campaign fund should suffer a reduction in pay equal to the amount of the contribution. Then, if they continue in office, they can still come out even by declining to make party contributions in future. The hat passers say nobody will be fired for refusing to kick in, and presumably they know what they are talking about.

AMERICAN PLANES IN FRANCE.

The French say they are extremely well satisfied with the American planes they have already put in service on the western front. The models they have are far from the best that American factories turn out, but the French assert that they are more than a match for the highly touted German Messerschmidts.

France is forced to come to America for planes because Premier Blum nationalized the French aviation industry. By the time Premier Daladier took office the industry had so declined in both designing brains and productive efficiency that it was virtually worthless as a defense asset.

And the French are able to get planes in this country because the air forces of our armed services wisely escaped this same pitfall of government manufacture. By encouraging competition among private builders they got the best planes in the world.

It is not necessary to go to France, however, to get a demonstration of what happens when burocracy gets its hands on the manufacture of materials essential to national defense. Our ordnance department has been as selfishly stupid as our air forces have been intelligent. It has managed to give government arsenals a monopoly of the construction of artillery.

In consequence our army suffers from the most serious shortage of weapons. It has only one or two each of several types of the heavier weapons, while its ordnance experts' ideas on light artillery are 20 years out of date. If gun making were put in private hands, not only would production problems be solved speedily, but private initiative would bring about the same improvements in design that it has in the aviation field.

A THIRD TERM?

[Pontiac (Mich.) Daily Press.]

Another way to look at the sport which the President is having with his third term banter is the possibility that this very attitude means that he has made up his mind to "refuse the crown" even if it were to be offered him. During the last month or two Mr. Roosevelt has dropped ambiguous hints whenever the opportunity presented itself.

If he had made up his mind to attempt to run a third time, would the President be feeling so happy about the situation that he could indulge in constant waggery respecting his campaign. We are inclined to think not.

It may be that the jocularity now so much in evidence at the White House over the third term indicates that, like the old maid who quit struggling and suddenly found a peace of mind and a tranquility she had not previously known, the President has made up his mind that he has had enough. If he has abandoned all thought of a third term, the relief that would follow such a momentous decision certainly would inspire exactly the sort of light hearted attitude which Mr. Roosevelt is exhibiting.

SIDELIGHTS ON A TEMPLE.

So the Auditorium—an opera house, a concert hall, a theater, and a civic institution—celebrates its 50th anniversary next Saturday! Let's contribute a few sidelights to the lore of the occasion.

The late Karleton Hackett, music critic and educator, sang on its dedicatory program. . . . Its first opera engagement had Marie Tempest, now a Dame of the British empire, as chief singing girl; the show was "The Daughter of the Regiment." . . . Milward Adams, its manager during its first 15 or 20 years, was also consul for Siam. . . . One night a country man came to the box office, asked the price of a ticket, learned that it was $5, and immediately dropped dead. [Fact.]

The man who knows more of the backstage and box office traditions of the Auditorium than any other in Chicago is Guy Hardy, former assistant manager and chief soother of prima donna temperaments. He is still an active boulevardier of the neighborhood. . . . A fire alarm in the prewar period nearly caused a dangerous panic while an opera was in performance. A blaze started in rubbish beneath the stage. Alice Nielsen quelled the stampede by singing "The Star Spangled Banner." The singers remained on the stage; the musicians kept their places in the pit; but the audience ran away in droves.

Tennis games have been played on the stage by a group of sportsmen who called themselves the Boul' Miche Hussars. They were Percy Hammond, Bert Leston Taylor, Karleton Hackett, W. N. C. Carlton, Thomas E. Tallmadge, and Guy Hardy. . . . The most beautiful singer who ever appeared there, according to Mr. Hardy, was Lillian Granville. . . . But we are voting for a forgotten Finnish prima donna of the year 1904 named Aino Ackté. . . . Upon a warm June night in 1899, Hyde Park High school held its graduation ceremonies there, on which occasion we learned that we had been awarded a scholarship at the University of Chicago for excellence in English; and so life began.

SCHOOLBOY AT TWELVE.

Never were skies more tranquil than his face;
No pool at night, untouched except for gold
Slipping from stars into the cobalt space,
Could more of that sweet peacefulness enfold
Than did his dark brown eyes. His countenance
Showed a heart void of hate and jealousy.
He spoke and smiled at me with open glance,
"I'm looking up the word tranquillity."

If words could but have made him understand,
I would have said, "Look well into your heart.
There you will find a country . . . peaceful land,
From all unrest drawn countless miles apart."
I merely nodded, leaving years to say
The words to him and in a knowing way.

The Best Dime's Buy in Print.

"There's a fortune in it," grinned the newsboy as he handed us a 1939 Line Book. He was correct. Thoughts of this fortune flavored our enjoyment while we read the book. Fortunate Americans! Instead of being ordered to drop bombs, we can toss jests, freely. Flights of fancy are still permitted here while Europe bleeds because of the forays of fanatics. Thank you, Mr. Linemaster, thank you, Linesmen, and thank you, printers, for another Line Book. The boys abroad can have their Maginot and their Siegfried lines. We'll hew to the Line. Let the quips fall generously in 1940!

The Ancient Inn of Wilmot, Wis.

Re your mention of Wilmot, Wis., and its "ancient inn" [Nov. 17]:

That is Louis Hagemann's hotel and tavern, 95 years old. I thought I would take him the clipping, but when I got there I found I had left it behind. No matter; he had received some 600 of them.

Mr. Hagemann, now in his 76th year, told me that this inn was built when there were no railroads serving that section of the country and grain farmers used to make up wagon trains, coming from as far as Rockford, Ill., and hauled their products to Southport [now Kenosha, Wis.] over a well defined trail through the wilderness. Similar inns sprang up, a good day's drive between, and for many years they flourished with wagon trains coming and going in both directions. Mr. Hagemann's father purchased the Wilmot Inn when the present owner was 4 years old. He has spent his entire life there.

As far as Mr. Hagemann knows, his inn is the sole survivor of the old wagon trail days. His building has had few repairs, but is in a wonderful state of preservation. James R. Bullock.

DON'T SQUEEZE BOILS OR PIMPLES.

When bacteria are able to plant themselves within the tissues of the face trouble nearly always ensues. Some of us will never learn to keep the fingers away from the nose, mouth, eyes, and ears. We insist upon squeezing pimples and blackheads, pulling hairs, and tinkering with boils. Furthermore, we are likely to make the great mistake of regarding a developing sore as insignificant—one that may be forgotten or "cured" with a drop of iodine. In consequence, disasters are countless.

A hair protruding from the nostril may be thoughtlessly plucked out and, as a result, an open wound remains—small, to be sure, but able to accommodate a million microbes. The air passages are filthy—loaded with germs—and we need not wonder when the sequel is infection. To be perfectly fair to ourselves we must look upon the face and neck as a zone of danger. The drainage canals [veins] have no valves and invaders may thus be carried without let or hindrance to the large blood channels within the skull.

Many of us have experienced a tiny pimple—yellow-headed perhaps—just at the root of the nose, between the eyes. The nasal vein forms in this locality and if the region is pressed upon the blood can pick up micro-organisms and carry them directly to the brain. Without going into detail the statement may be accepted that many venous branches are located in various portions of the face and it makes but little difference where one forces pus into the circulation. As we know, staphylococci and streptococci are present abundantly, not only on the skin but particularly about the fingers and beneath the nails. But it is the compression employed to evacuate a tiny abscess that proves so injurious, as the contents move in all directions.

The rule is never to open or handle any reddened, inflamed area, whether it bears a yellow point or not. Even a blackhead extractor—an instrument provided with a minute circle—should be sterilized with boiling water before it is used.

If left alone, irritation will usually take care of itself. If the puffing is on the increase, however, a physician should be consulted as to the proper procedure. Iodine is rarely helpful because it coagulates the tissues. Bathing gently with soap and water or soaking the parts with a hot, dilute solution of bichloride of mercury may be of advantage. Hot packs are always in order but they must be applied continuously—for hours.

Should one of these affairs escape from nature's corral we must be on the alert for such significant signs as a sharp rise in temperature following a chill, or intensified pain. This means that we are facing an extension of the inflammation with involvement of the blood stream and the time has come to utilize the most powerful measures at hand. These include sulfanilamide—which may be administered to the limit of tolerance; or human serum obtained from patients who have recovered from an infection of the same type.

We can scarcely give too much credit to sulfanilamide and numerous recoveries are reported subsequent to its use. Many an angry swelling will quiet down under the influence of this chemical if it is given early. With a boil that is beginning to blossom we can do far worse than to administer moderate doses of this dye as a precaution, watching the blood constantly for the effects upon the cells. Physicians have learned not to incise these lesions, altho there may come a time when surgery may be required.

I am a firm believer in poultices—whether made of bread and milk or flaxseed. But they are of little aid unless they are replaced frequently and kept hot. Moist heat keeps the capillaries widely dilated and thus the site is flooded with fresh blood, bearing great numbers of bacteria eaters—the white cells.

There is no excuse for the loss of a single life from this cause if we will but use common sense precautions. If one must find an outlet for nervous habits, "doodling" on a scratch pad will be harmless and comforting. At any rate it will not inject vicious "bugs" into the circulation.

VARYING BLOOD PRESSURE.

N. B. writes: What variation may there be in blood pressure readings? That is, if a person has 170 at one time and 140 at another, is there any cause for alarm?

REPLY.

A variation of 10 points above or below the normal average is of little significance. More than this indicates that some attention should be paid to diet and rest. One with a reading of 170 should not go to extremes—mentally or physically.

TREATING BRUISES.

B. H. writes: What is the best way to treat a bruise on the leg?

REPLY.

If the skin has not been broken, cold compresses may be applied. Later heat will be of value in reducing the attendant swelling. With broken skin scrub the part with soap and water, and then apply a sterile bandage. In either case rest is advised.

PROFESSORIAL FARMING.

Mazon, Ill., Dec. 2.—I read with interest your article on the wholesale spoiling of corn stored in those little tin chicken coops so generously furnished by our so-called agricultural department.

Every farmer in the corn belt knew this was going to happen as soon as this policy was announced by Secretary Wallace and his "college professor farm bureau," but practical agriculture, being a total stranger to Wallace, we are now facing a serious shortage of American corn.

In the first nine months of 1939 this country exported 2,200 head of cattle, while at the same time importing 604,000 head. Had this excess of imports of cattle over exports been raised in this country, it would have required about half the amount of corn we put into the channels of trade from the average crop in one year, and we did this in only nine months.

Our taxpayers will be called upon to pay for this lost grain, and our depression will be still further advanced thereby.

Can The Tribune tell us how much longer we are going to be compelled to stand this college professor farming?

BOY SCOUT TROOPS.

Niles Center, Ill., Dec. 1.—Regarding B. Rogers' letter about Boy Scouts in Chicago: Troops are not started by the Boy Scouts of America organization itself, altho it will give utmost help to any community organization interested in sponsoring one. It will even help you train your own leaders.

The Boy Scouts find many who are willing to agree that it would be a good thing to have a troop in this or that club, church, or group, but too doggoned few who are willing to do something about it. Uncle Harry.

HE'S IN REVOLT.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Yes, sir, the glorious day of the revolution of the broadcast listener has arrived. What's the trouble? Well, we're all fed up with commercial announcements such as, "Girls, if you want to get your man try ——'s face cream, 10 cents a can."

We're tired of red hot jazz and we want what we consider good music, and we're going back to the phonograph to get it.

OVERLOOKED BY RADIO.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—I have just finished listening to a partial broadcast of the high school football game, for which we have to thank Hammond, Ind. It is a shame that an event so widely advertised as benefiting Chicago's poor and needy should depend on another state to broadcast the actual game, for which thousands of tickets were sold in Chicago, many of these purchasers knowing when they bought tickets that they could not attend the game in person. The least we as good Chicagoans could expect would be a complete broadcast of the game.

We could all find the Army-Navy game which, excellent as it might be, could have been enjoyed over one station just as thoroly as over half a dozen.

We tuned and tuned in the hope of getting our own game and finally were able to locate an out of town station that thought enough of it to give it to the public. Unfortunately they had only a limited time on the air to "donate" to us, so with two minutes left to play we were left stranded in midair in the midst of a forward pass, one might say, while the mighty "Voice of the People" failed us.

PHILOSOPHICAL—I. E., HAPPY.

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 2.—I have noticed in your column recently a couple of letters from men who consider themselves at least elderly complaining of the treatment they received from younger co-employés. It seems to me the causes of complaint lay largely with these men themselves.

I am past 80 and for 30 years have been a fellow employé in an organization including over 50 people, mostly young—comprising clerks, bookkeepers, stenographers, shipping room employés, etc.

In all these years I found these younger people congenial, coöperative, and helpful, and I was always considered "one of the bunch" and included in all invitations to picnics, dinners, etc.

I have just recently retired and am in continuous correspondence with some six or seven of these younger people, with much enjoyment to all of us.

Perhaps one reason for these continuous pleasant relations is that I have never considered myself "old." I have tried to look at life with the youngsters' eyes and have never asked for any consideration due to age. A Young Octogenarian.

A COURTEOUS POLICEMAN.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Yesterday when crossing Washington street at State I noticed a tall, stalwart policeman arm in arm with a little old lady escorting her thru the traffic. He walked slowly as tho it might have been his mother he was strolling with. All praise to Chief Allman and his well trained, courteous men.

KEEPING IT IN THE FAMILY?

Chicago, Dec. 4.—If you are asking who will be our next New Deal candidate for the presidency I should say "Cherchez la femme." No one is accusing Eleanor of harboring any presidential ambition, tho that is wholly within her right.

Should she seek the nomination her chance would be exceedingly bright. In such case who would be her running mate and confidential adviser?

Might not F. D. R. prefer to play second fiddle in order to keep the New Deal administration in the family rather than chance a third term defeat at the polls? It would violate no third term precedent, and a third term by proxy would differ little in fact. Think it over, folks.

WHAT ABOUT "I WILL" CITY?

Chicago, Dec. 2.—Why has the matter of the paper milk container been shunted around from the federal courts to the board of health, to the corporation council, to the city council, and finally back to the courts, and still hasn't reached first base?

I know which container I prefer, but so far am denied the pleasure of buying milk in paper containers. Why?

Are we the "city of corrupt politics"?

NO DEFECTS FOUND.

Chicago, Dec. 1 [Friend of the People].—The rainpipe on the north side of the building at the address of 1534 has many leaks when it rains, the water leaking into our gangway.

We would like very much to have this replaced as soon as possible. R. S.

Please be advised that two inspections have been made of the premises. The first inspection was made on Oct. 23 and the second on Oct. 25, immediately after a rainfall. Our inspector was unable to observe a nuisance on either visit and discovered no visible defects in the gutters.

The owner of the above mentioned premises has been notified to erect an additional handrail on front porch and if this work is not done at the expiration of time allotted in our notice, we will proceed according to law.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Dec. 6, 1914.

[131st day of world war; 97th day of present war.]

PETROGRAD.—Desperate fighting is still in progress in Poland. The Russian official statement does not mention a victory of Lodz such as was claimed yesterday.

ROME.—Prince Bernhard von Buelow, former chancellor of the German empire, has been placed at the head of the German embassy here. Many observers believe his appointment means that Berlin is about to exercise strong pressure to prevent Italy from passing to the side of the allies.

BERLIN.—According to a report received from Italy the Australian battle cruiser Australia apparently is missing. A report from Constantinople states a British submarine tried to force a passage through the Dardanelles. The submarine's presence was discovered and the vessel apparently was hit by shots fired by the Turkish forts.

PARIS.—The allies have further advanced their lines in Belgium and northern France and in the Argonne, where desperate fighting is reported. Two lines of trenches have been captured north of the Lys. The position between Dixmude and Ypres has been taken and held in the face of counter-attack by the Germans. Reims is again bombarded.

BERLIN.—French aviators dropped four bombs in the neighborhood of Freiburg. A portion of the railway was destroyed. The aviators escaped safely despite a fusillade from German guns.

HULL DEFENDS TRADE PACTS AS AID TO FARMERS

Asserts Program Will Aid Nations After War.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull said last night that if the United States abandons the trade agreements program it will destroy the chances of economic readjustment among American farmers as well as among the other nations when the war in Europe is ended. To reverse the present policy, as has been proposed, would mean a breakdown of foreign trade with disastrous results, he declared.

Secretary Hull addressed the 21st annual convention of the American Farm Bureau federation at a banquet in the Stevens hotel. Earlier in the day Secretary of Agriculture Wallace spoke on the farm program.

Tells of Trade Disruption.

"Prosperity of agriculture and of the whole nation," said Secretary Hull, "is closely tied up with the presence or absence of a healthy flow of trade between nations. The existence of actual military warfare abroad, with its disrupting effect upon production, trade, and finance, does not change the fundamentals; it only aggravates the problem.

"The scope of operation of the trade agreements program in the immediate future will, of course, be restricted by war conditions.

"But that is no reason, as some contend, for abandoning the entire program for the duration of the war. These counsels of despair and defeat overlook the all important fact that the chances of sound economic restoration after the war, in which we shall have a vital interest, will be almost nonexistent if we now abandon our work in behalf of sound trade policies.

Foresees Need for Action.

"After the present hostilities come to an end, there will be an even more desperate need than there was in recent years for vigorous action designed to restore and promote healthy and mutually beneficial trade among nations."

Secretary Hull said 22 trade agreements have been made with countries which account for three-fifths of the United States' foreign trade. He said they had been helpful in disposing of agricultural surpluses, the exports of which increased 50 per cent between 1935 and 1938. The corn-hog industry, he said, is again heavily dependent upon export outlets.

Wallace Discusses Program.

In his address Secretary Wallace told the federation that the federal farm program can never become permanent unless it is placed on a solid financial basis. He discussed various plans for making the program self-financing.

"It is perfectly possible," said Wallace, "if the nation is willing, to put a solid and lasting financial base under the present farm program.

"First is the conservation program. It is a national responsibility. Money for the conservation program, therefore, can logically come from the general treasury.

"Second is the program of expanding consumption of farm products, carried on by the Surplus Commodities corporation.

Holds Products Should Bear Cost.

"Third is the ever normal granary plan for stabilizing farm income. It seems logical that, insofar as possible, the cost of financing parity payments, export subsidies, and losses on commodity loans should be borne by the farm commodities affected. How can we put this part of the farm program on a self financing basis?"

Among the proposals he enumerated were reënactment of the processing taxes on a wide range of farm crops, the income certificate plan, a feature of the old domestic allotment plan, and a manufacturers' sales tax on luxuries.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the federation, declared in his address that the farm program must be made self-supporting. He said he was opposed to the processing tax scheme used under the first AAA because it would not work for corn and hogs. He indicated approval of a manufacturers' sales tax which would "be simply the farmers' tariff."

A. F. OF L. GROUP HITS PACTS.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5 (AP).—A demand that congress repudiate all reciprocal trade pacts with foreign nations was made today by America's Wage Earners' Protective conference, a tariff group sponsored by American Federation of Labor leaders.

The conference said the trade policy administered by the state department was inconsistent with the protective labor policy laid down by congress in the wage-hour, Wagner, and Walsh-Healey acts. It asked a tariff on imports to place their delivered cost on a par with that of American products.

The pacts, it was charged, transferred American job opportunities to foreign workers.

FEDERAL RULES, TRADE TREATIES ROUSE STOCKMEN

Denver, Colo., Dec. 5 (AP).—The Republican party's agriculture investigators left the mountain west today with the conviction that stockmen are aroused about reciprocal trade agreements and worried over increased federal control of the lands on which their stock grazes.

Those convictions were outlined to a sentiment sampling committee of Republican congressmen at a two-day hearing. Listeners were Chairman Clifford R. Hope of Kansas and three other members of a committee of 46 Republican congressmen delegated to draft a party agriculture program which may be incorporated into the 1940 national platform.

Sugar beet spokesmen presented a resolution demanding tariffs sufficiently high to protect their industry, retention of present laws concerning Philippine sugar imports, and limitation of the quantities of sugar which could be imported from Cuba under any preferential duty.

O'HARE'S LODGE FAILS TO YIELD SLAYING CLEWS

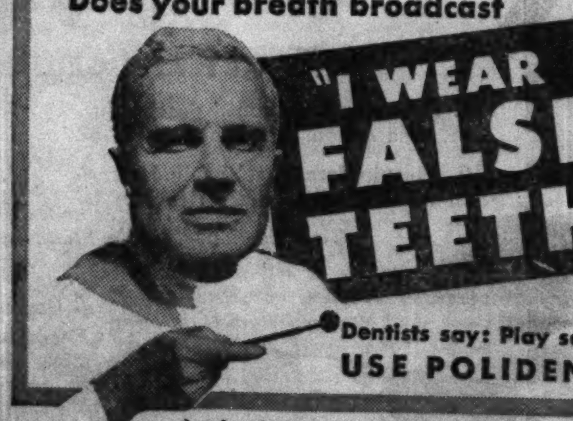
E. J. O'Hare's hunting lodge at Couderay, Wis., failed to yield any clews to the murder of the millionaire Capone gang front man, who was shot to death Nov. 8. This was reported yesterday to Capt. Daniel A. Gilbert of the state's attorney's office by Sheriff George Seehutter of Sawyer county, Wisconsin.

Sheriff Seehutter said no pertinent documents were found in a search of the lodge. He said he also questioned the caretaker without result. The lodge was last occupied in September, the caretaker said, when O'Hare and a few friends went there for a vacation.

The caretaker said O'Hare never discussed business deals in front of him and never indicated he was connected with gangsters.

Company Can't Sue NLRB for Strip-Tease Libel

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 5 (AP).—The Clover Fork Coal company, once accused of sponsoring strip-tease shows to lure workers from union organization meetings, cannot sue the National Labor Relations board for making the accusation. The 6th U. S. Circuit court today affirmed dismissal of the Kentucky company's libel action, because the government had not consented to be sued.

Does your breath broadcast


"I WEAR FALSE TEETH"
Dentists say: Play safe
USE POLIDENT

People who wear plates or bridges often suffer from a special kind of bad breath. Dentists call it—"denture breath."

You won't know if you have it—but it can spoil your happiness. Friends will shudder—people avoid you! And the worst of it is that ordinary brushing and mouth washes may not prevent it.

For the odor comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum soaks up germs and decay bacteria and causes a vile odor that you cannot detect.

One thing that definitely stops "denture breath" is daily use of Polident! This new brushless cleaner has won approval of thousands of dentists and users.

Polident not only purifies false teeth—but also removes all stain, tarnish and food deposits. Makes breath sweeter—plates look better and feel better. Costs only 30¢ at any drug store and lasts for many weeks. Money back if not delighted. Hudson Products, Inc., N. Y. C.

POLIDENT
Cleans, Purifies Without Brushing!
Do this daily: Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes. Rinse—and it's ready to use.

YOUTHS PRODUCE AMAZING RECORD OF ACHIEVEMENT

The 4-H club boys and girls, young Americans with a capacity for prodigious undertakings, continued yesterday to produce startling records of achievement at the International Live Stock show in the International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets.

The electrification of a farm. The canning of 6,486 pints of food. The making 199 garments. The raising of 8,355 pounds of garden produce.

These are a few of the achievements with which 17 and 18 year old boys and girls, attending the 18th National 4-H club congress here, won even more laurels yesterday. From gardening to cooking to electricity to health—their work ran the gamut of farm activity.

5 Ingenious Electricians.

Four boys and a girl, for instance, won $200 scholarships for their ingenuity in putting electricity to work. One, Cason Graves of Sentinel, Okla., built a wind charger from odds and ends and supplied 6 volt power for his home. Then, since commercial appliances are not available for such voltage, he designed and constructed a home air conditioner, an electric fence and a toaster.

The other winners in the national contest sponsored by the Westinghouse Electric company are Betty L. McKeekin, 17 years old, Shelby, Neb.; Jenness P. Eugley, 16, of Lincolnville, Me.; Benjamin R. Stewart, 18, of Lexington, Miss., and Charles Kik, 17, of Hermiston, Ore.

6 Champion Home Makers.

Six farm girls became the 4-H champion home makers and received $200 scholarships from Montgomery Ward & Co. Their work is illustrated by the record of Alice Smith of Union, Miss., 18 years old.

In the last five years Alice prepared 760 meals, raised 8,355 pounds of garden produce, and 54 varities of flowers, canned 6,486 pints of foods, made 72 garments, took part in 28 public demonstrations, 18 judging contests, three dress revues. She values her work at $2,321,80.

Selected along with her are Mary L. Welch, 18, of Emery Park, Ariz.; Sara McGregor, 19, of Thatcher, Idaho; June Loveland, 18, of Greenfield, Mass.; Eleanor Marston, 16, of London, N. H., and Dorothy Figi, 18, of Argyle, Wis.—the fourth Wisconsin homemaker champion in four years.

Six Win Health Ribbons.

Some 250,000 of the 4-H club's total membership of 1,300,000 enlisted in a health contest, together with an appalling array of other activities. Of these, 34—19 girls and 15 boys—came to Chicago as state 4-H health champions, and of the 34, two girls and four boys were selected yesterday as national blue ribbon winners.

None drank coffee, smoked cigarets, or disliked spinach. They didn't like city life, what they had seen of it, and they don't want to live in a city. Only one plans in later life to do anything apart from farming, and he

All four of the boys, by strange coincidence, are short of stature, the tallest, Richard Crane of Rushville, Ind., being 5 feet 10. But he weighs 178. Warren H. Cales of Sandstone, W. Va., is 5 feet 7 and weighs 170. Carlisle W. Klein of Black River Falls, Wis., is 5 feet 6 and weighs 146. Leslie G. Warrant of Kasota, Minn., is 5 feet 9 and weighs 165.

Both the girls go to bed at 9 p. m. and arise at 7 a. m. Both wear a touch of lipstick and a thin veneer of face powder, but neither uses nail polish. Joann Parks, 15, of Liberty, Ind., is 5 feet 3½ and weighs 123. Ruth Fitzenreiter, 16, of Bel, La., is 5 feet and ¼ inch tall and weighs 116. hopes to be an aviator.

BUDGET MAKERS OPPOSE INCREASE OF POLICE FORCE

The city council finance committee, which is considering Chicago's 1940 budget, yesterday indicated approval of City Controler Robert B. Upham's recommendation that the police force keep its present number of 5,650 patrolmen. Police Commissioner Allman has been invited to appear and explain why he requested 350 additional policemen.

Action was deferred on a recommendation, made by Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan, that a $200,000 Diesel fireboat be purchased. Corrigan will be given an opportunity to argue for the boat.

The Chicago Housing authority's allotment of $10,000 for expenses was criticized by Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] and defended by Ald. Roger J. Kiley [37th]. Final action on this was deferred. The committee also asked for more information on the budget of the board of election commissioners and of the Municipal court.

TEXAS 4-H BOY'S STEER IS JUDGED SHOW CHAMPION

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

His white faced, red coated Hereford steer, 16 months old and weighing 1,240 pounds, won the grand championship in all steer classes at the 40th International Live Stock exposition.

This was the chief event at the fourth day of the live stock, grain, and horse show in the International Amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets. Crowds in the balconies cheered the tall, red cheeked Texas boy as the award was made after a day spent in weeding out 24 selections by George Gordon-Davis of Buenos Aires, Argentina, the judge. Bands played, cattle tossed their heads. Farmers crowded around with congratulations. It was like a nominating scene at a political convention.

Lucky Boy is the steer's name, but it was not luck that won this prize, according to young Kothmann, or the judge. It was largely good feeding, a good climate, and the directions of the county farm agent. Kothmann is a 4-H club member. The steer was the first Hereford to win the grand championship since 1932.

"I expected to win," said Kothmann, as he stood in the ring, holding his steer by the nose, obeying the commands of photographers, whom Lucky Boy did not like.

Lives on Texas Ranch.

"I bought him for $35 when he was two days old. It cost me about $250 for feeding expenses. I used 18 mixtures of feeding, mainly corn. I used cottonseed screenings too. His father was a purebred, but the mother was a range animal. I worked with the county agent."

Kothmann lives on the ranch with his parents and five sisters. He has been a 4-H club member for four years, but did not show this animal in the junior feeding contest, holding him for the all-star class.

Kothmann has won with his cattle before, at the American Royal show in Kansas City and at Amarillo, Tex. Other young farmers from Mason county, which is in the center of Texas, have taken grand prizes at Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Denver, and at Treasure Island fairs.

Lucky Boy wore his three ribbons with indifference and lunged around the arena. The only time he was quiet was when his head was close to his master's leather jacket. He smelled some sort of assurance there.

Kothmann came to this show on something of a shoestring. He traveled with cattle as a helper for W. J. Largent & Son of Mason, Tex., and had his expenses and those of Lucky Boy paid in this manner.

Prizes Total $775.

He already has taken $775 in cash prizes on his animal, which will be sold at auction tomorrow. The auction sale of the grand champion last year brought $3.35 a pound.

Hereford animals have won the grand prize nine years in the history of the show, and Angus blood steers 21 times. The Shorthorns have won seven times. Texas has taken only one prize of this sort in the past. Iowa has been in the lead in grand champions, followed by Indiana, Illinois, Canada, California, and Oklahoma.

The reserve grand championship went to Jack Baker, only 16 years old, of Blugdale, Tex. This was another Hereford, named Texas State Fair, and weighing 1,072 pounds at 17 months. Baker also is a 4-H club member.

Hoosier's Barrow Wins.

Roger Amsler of Rensselaer, Ind., another 4-H club boy, exhibited the grand champion barrow of the show, a 298 pound purebred Hampshire. The barrow took only second place in 4-H club competition last Saturday, but the judge of the barrows in the open classes liked Amsler's best. Amsler has been in 4-H work eight years and last year showed the grand champion pen of three barrows at the International. They also were Hampshires. He raised the pig that won the grand championship for him yesterday. It was farrowed last April.

The carlot hog championship was awarded to Carl and George Hoffman of Ida Grove, Ia. They won with a load averaging between 150 and 200 pounds.

A unique ceremony is to be held this afternoon in the arena during the matinée horse show performance, in honor of Corn day at the exposition. Grand champions of the show will be crowned at the function.

On hand will be C. E. Troyer of La Fontaine, Ind., the 1939 corn king; Floyd Hiner of Lewisville, Ind., the corn duke; Reymond Kreig of Oakley, Ill., the corn prince; Melvin Holte of Gardner, N. D., the flax champion; W. C. Blumenshine of Bloomington, Ill., runner-up for corn king honors; Robert Rhoades of Hudson, Ill., the champion in special corn classes, and Russell Ogden of North Manchester, Ind., the hay king.

Others to be honored are the champions in official state yield contests from Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa, and the queens of the corn festivals held at Bloomington, Ill.; Ottawa, Ill.; Danville, Ill., and Fowler, Ind.

Miss Esther of Goodland, Ind., the Fowler, Ind., corn festival queen, will preside with her court of honor comprising eight princesses. Patricia Finch of Hoopeston, Ill., the sweet corn sweetheart, and Miss Helen Ivers, winner of an Iowa cornhusking contest, will be there.

More than 100 Master Farmers who are here from 23 states and Canada attending the show were present at a dinner yesterday in the Saddle and Sirloin club at the Union stockyards. The title Master Farmer is awarded annually in various states and provinces for good farming practices and outstanding rural leadership.

Men who have received the award formed a national organization while at the show last year and decided to hold annual meetings here during International week. Arthur Biederman of Columbus, Wis., is president of this group and H. W. Avery, Wakefield, Kas., is secretary.

All the officers and incumbent directors of the International Live Stock exposition were reëlected yesterday. Henry W. Marshall of Lafayette, Ind., is president. George Eastwood, president of Armour & Co., was elected to the directorship that had been held by his predecessor as head of the packing company, R. H. Cabell.

U. S. INDICTMENT NAMES DETROIT 'TILE MONOPOLY'

Makers, Contractors, and Unions Included.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 5 [Special].—A special federal grand jury charged today that manufacturers, contractors, and labor unions had conspired to create a monopoly in the tile division of the building industry in Detroit. The jury voted an indictment against 35 individuals, eight manufacturing concerns, three contractors associations, and two locals of American Federation of Labor unions.

The indictment was returned before Federal Judge Edward J. Moinet. The grand jury charged that the intent of the conspiracy was to drive 60 independent tile contractors in the Detroit area out of business by shutting off their supply of tile and their supply of labor to lay tile.

Charges Three Year Conspiracy.

The first count, alleging violation of the restraint of trade section of the Sherman act, charges that a conspiracy has existed since 1936 to prevent tile being shipped to any contractor in the Detroit area except contractors belonging to three associations named as defendants.

The second count alleges that the manufacturers, contractors, and unions entered into a conspiracy to give members of the contractors' associations a monopoly on purchases of tile in the Detroit area.

Inclusion of the unions in the indictment gave new emphasis to a cleavage between the department of justice, headed by Attorney General Frank Murphy, and the American Federation of Labor. William Green, A. F. of L. president, protested to Murphy last week that the Clayton act exempted unions from prosecution under the antitrust laws.

Officials of the indicted unions raised the same contention today when the indictment was returned. John C. Lehr, district attorney, and Allen A. Dobey, head of the local office of the antitrust division of the department of justice, disputed this assertion.

Unions may be prosecuted, they said, for acts in restraint of trade which are outside the regular and legitimate union activities having to do with collective bargaining, wages, hours, and conditions of employment.

Conspiracy Charges Detailed.

During 1936-1939 the defendants held meetings in Detroit and the results were, according to the indictments:

1. Defendant tile manufacturers agreed to and did refuse to sell tile to contractors in the Detroit area who were not members of one of the three contractors' associations.

2. The contractor associations agreed to and did refrain from purchasing tile from any manufacturer or jobber selling tile to contractors in the Detroit area who were not members of one of the three associations.

3. The two local unions agreed to and did refuse to set tile manufactured by any manufacturer or jobber selling tile to contractors of the Detroit area not members of the defendant associations.

The two unions also are accused of refusing to furnish tile setters to contractors who were not members of the contractor associations.

Named in Indictments.

Unions named in the indictment are the Bricklayers, Masons, and Plasterers international, local No. 32, and local No. 40 of the International Association of Marble, Stone and Slate Polishers, Rubbers, and Sawyers, Tile and Marble Setters Helpers and Terrazzo Workers' Helpers.

Manufacturers listed by the grand jury are the Wheeling Tile company, Wheeling, W. Va.; Mosaic Tile company, Zanesville, O.; American-Franklin-Olean Tiles, Inc., Lansdale, Pa.; United States Quarry Tile company, Parkersburg, W. Va., and East Sparta, O.; National Tile company, Anderson, Ind.; Robertson Art Tile company, Morrisville, Pa.; Standard Tile company, Zanesville, O., and Sparta Ceramic company, East Sparta, O.

Members of a joint arbitration board, which the indictment charged recommended disciplinary action against members of the defendant contractors' associations and defendant union locals found violating agreements of the two groups, also were indicted.

The investigation here is one of several being conducted into the building industry in the United States under direction of the anti-trust division of the department of justice. Thurman W. Arnold, head of the anti-trust division, set up a temporary anti-trust division office here Sept. 11 with Dobey in charge.

She is a brilliant and considerate hostess

Wife of the famous creator of "Tarzan," gracious Mrs. Edgar Rice Burroughs loves to entertain at her home in Beverly Hills, California. "Nowadays most of our guests prefer not to overdo when they relax," Mrs. Burroughs reports. "So I serve a choice of beverages, and I find more of the people who come to our house select wine."

says MRS. EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"I find so many of my guests now choose Wine"

Actually, this idea of giving every guest an opportunity to say "make mine wine" is sweeping the country today. Perhaps, as many are now saying, that's because wine is a moderate beverage.

Women notice it at afternoon teas and bridge parties. They find so many wives now prefer just a glass of exquisitely flavored Tokay or one of the golden Sauternes.

Hostesses report that before dinner more and more people appreciate a cocktail-size glass of fine Sherry — or a larger glass of deep-ruby, full flavored Burgundy served with the main course.

Or in the evening, simple bowls of fruit and nuts, or a tray of cheeses and wafers, set out with small glasses of mellow Port or fragrant Muscatel.

Next time you have guests, try it. As Mrs. Burroughs says, you will be amazed how many people now prefer wine — how many have discovered that good wine and genial evenings go together.

All you need to know to serve Wine

There are many varieties, but only two main types of wine . . . (1) Wines made "dry" (not sweet) especially to serve with meals, called table wines; (2) Wines for use with desserts or as refreshments, called sweet wines.

A distinguished "sweet" wine is Sherry, amber, zestfully nut-like in flavor. Serve your Sherry in small glasses. (California Sherries are made dry, medium dry or slightly sweet.)

THE WINES OF CALIFORNIA

In the most discriminating households the good wines of our own country are usually served today. Actually more than 9 out of 10 American hosts and hostesses who now serve wine are choosing wines grown here. The wines of California, for example, are grown to strict standards of quality. True to type. Well developed. Inexpensive.

GUARD INTERESTS IN SUPERROAD, SUBURBS WARNED

Stake in Program Told at Oak Park Meeting.

BY HAL FOUST.

The stake which the suburbs have in Chicago's superhighway plans was told yesterday by two speakers at a joint meeting of the Optimist clubs of Austin and of Oak Park. The meeting was held in the Oak Park club.

Emile Bloche.

"The suburbs," said Emile Bloche, chairman of the Oak Park club's civic committee, "are a social and economic part of Chicagoland. We properly have as much interest and concern in the design and location of these highways as have residents of Chicago. Revenue from the state gasoline tax is to pay for these improvements, and we pay the same tax as do residents of Chicago.

Regional Needs Cited.

"Chicago and Cook county each is pledging $30,000,000 of their future allotments of the gas tax revenue for this superhighway construction. The construction, according to the motor fuel tax law, must be done under state supervision. A purpose of this supervision is to assign these expenditures to projects of state-wide or at least regional benefit and not to projects of purely local benefit.

"As long as the Chicago council is coöperative, the suburbs can address their constructive criticisms to the city hall. If our interests are ignored at the city hall we can address our suggestions to the final authority in Springfield, the Illinois highway department."

James E. Bulger, a director of the Chicago Motor club, told the meeting that intense vigilance by nearby cities and the suburbs is required to protect their interests in the superhighway plans. He said the tentative plan for Congress street, which is pending before the city council, required vigilant attention.

Tells Danger of Jam.

"If this Congress street superhighway is to end on the west at Austin boulevard it will jam local streets in Oak Park, Maywood, River Forest, and Forest Park," said Bulger. "The superhighway must be planned to extend westward thru these built up areas to connect with the important state highways.

"You also are concerned with the eastern terminal of a west side superhighway. The motor club's engineers are convinced that the present Congress street plan, with the continuous grade separation ending on the east at Canal street, would not take traffic where it wants to go. The superhighway would have a dead end on the east as well as on the west."

Ald. George D. Kells [28th], chairman of the council traffic committee, announced yesterday that a public hearing for discussion of the superhighway plans will be held at 10:30 a. m. Friday in the council chambers. Civic organizations were invited to present suggestions.

Two Die in Truck Blaze After Collision with Car

Peru, Ill., Dec. 5 (AP).—Frank Miller, 60 years old, and Clarence Bailey, 25, burned to death today when their truck collided with an automobile near Buda. Two Buda High school students riding in the car received minor injuries. They were Leroy Larson, 14, and Richard Slagle, 16, the driver.

GAS TANK TRUCK EXPLODES AFTER AUTO COLLISION

Flames Leap 200 Feet Into the Air.

Flames from burning gasoline leaped 200 feet in the air last night when a passenger automobile and a trailer truck loaded with 7,000 gallons of the fuel collided at 95th street and Jeffery avenue. Tanks on the trailer and truck exploded at the impact. The truck driver, Charles Evoy of Hammond, Ind., leaped clear. The auto driver, John Armstrong, 2102 East 82d street, was treated at South Chicago hospital for cuts and bruises.

A man identified thru papers as Joseph Szenouskis, 440 South Clark street, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile as he was walking in 95th street between Stony Island and Jeffery avenues. The driver was Raymond Sullivan, 7147 Jeffery avenue.

Retired Worker of 80 killed.

Michael Graham, 80, of 8211 Calumet avenue, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile at 82d street and Calumet avenue. He was a retired employé of Armour & Co. John W. Biel, 8228 Vernon avenue, was the driver of the car.

Policeman Herbert Last, 39 years old, was injured and two companions were shaken yesterday when their squad car overturned after a collision at 43d street and Ellis avenue. The policemen were answering a radio alarm. Last was taken to the Chicago hospital. His companions were Policemen James Eager and Daniel Golden. Emmett Hunter, colored, of 3736 Michigan avenue, driver of the other car in the collision, was charged with reckless driving.

Killed When Auto Hits Post.

George Molkentine, 50, of 3001 River road, Riverside, a master mechanic for an air line company, was killed when his automobile struck a post after it and another auto collided at 55th street and Central avenue. The other driver was Frank Sykora, 2441 South Lawndale avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 826 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 639 were killed in Chicago, where 20,803 were injured in the same period.

Driver Faces Manslaughter Charge in Woman's Death

Thomas Stebinski, 2728 South Keeler avenue, a stockyards butcher, is to be arraigned in Felony court today on charges of manslaughter and of leaving the scene of an accident. Stebinski fled after his automobile struck Mrs. Theresa Piencak, 53 years old, 2631 Luther street, Sunday night at 25th street and Washtenaw avenue. He was arrested by Marquette police Monday evening shortly before Mrs. Piencak died in St. Anthony hospital.

FEDERAL COURT ASKED TO QUASH ANNENBERG CASE

Coercion Issue Raised in Grand Jury Action.

The presence of government officials as observers during the deliberations of the federal grand jury which returned income tax evasion and lottery indictments against M. L. Annenberg and 19 co-defendants violated the due process clause of the constitution. Defense attorneys made this argument yesterday in briefs asking that the indictments be quashed.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who has the motions to quash under advisement, is expected to make his decision within a few days. If the court rules in favor of the government, Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia publisher and critic of the New Deal, is expected to be brought to trial early next year.

Names 3 as Observers.

The defense contends that three special United States attorneys, James V. Hayes, George S. Robinson, and Sam E. Neel, were in the grand jury room during the inquiry altho they had nothing to do with the presentation of the evidence.

"This raises a fundamental question of far reaching importance," the brief stated. "In its essence it is a constitutional question. May persons who are only observers legally attend grand jury sessions? Is the guarantee of the fifth amendment, that persons may be charged the infamous crimes only by a grand jury, protected against the possibility of governmental abuse if the government may send observers to watch its [the grand jury's] proceedings?

Coercion Issue Raised.

"It is obvious that in any instance in which an individual is brought to trial as a result of an indictment obtained by the coercion of government officials, such individual has been deprived of his constitutional protection. To effectuate the purpose of the constitutional amendment no practice can be permitted which creates the opportunity or possibility of governmental coercion without a reasonable justification in the necessities of the grand jury itself. The presence of observers creates precisely this possibility of coercion."

The government has contended in oral arguments and briefs that the special United States attorneys named by the defense as observers were properly accredited officials authorized to act by Attorney General Murphy.

Annenberg and several of his associates in companies dispensing horse racing information will be tried first on charges of evading income taxes in excess of $5,000,000. They face a total of ten indictments. Annenberg recently dissolved his race information services.

William J. Campbell, United States district attorney, announced yesterday that inquiries at about half of the radio broadcasting stations in the Chicago area indicate that no attempt is being made to use radio to replace the Annenberg wire services in sending race results to handbooks. The investigation is being continued.

TIPSY DRIVER IS JAILED AFTER FATHER'S PLEA FOR LENIENT LESSON

Attorney Peter Greenlimb admitted in Safety court yesterday that his son, Peter Jr., was inclined to drink too much, but he pleaded leniency on the grounds the young man was otherwise of good character and was a hard worker. At the same time he said his son should be taught a lesson. Judge Frank E. Donoghue thereupon sentenced the son to 10 days in the county jail for drunken driving, the minimum penalty for the offense, and suspended his driver's license for six months. Young Greenlimb was arrested on the north side Saturday night after his auto struck a parked truck. He is 28 years old and lives at 710 North Laramie avenue.

IT TAKES MORE THAN A GRIN TO BE A SALESGIRL

Why are girls hired or fired? This is the sixth of a series of articles intended as a guide for the young girl seeking work.

BY MARCIA WINN.

A lot of girls think they can get jobs as salesgirls when all else fails. All they have to do, they think, is put on their best clothes, produce their best smiles with teeth showing, walk behind the counter, and presto!

Mason Smith, personnel director of Marshall Field & Co.'s State street store, denies this vigorously. He employs 5,000 extra salesgirls for the Christmas rush alone, yet none is hired, he says, unless she possesses some of his six fundamentals. Few girls, he insists, possess all.

Good English Important.

In order of importance these are [1] personal grooming, [2] the use of good English ["not 88 cent words, but the use of words effectively in speech"], [3] enthusiasm ["so many of our young people today have lost it"], [4] some evidence of retailing, wholesaling, or trading as an hereditary profession, [5] some evidence that she can get along with people, such as extracurricular college activities ["there's no place here for the lone wolf"], and [6] an expressed interest in the line of goods she wants to sell.

"She must be generally attractive, not necessarily pretty, but sincere, genuine, well poised, and well groomed," he elaborated. "Why, I had a girl in here two days ago. Two hairpins were about to fall out and her clothes needed brushing. Well, I just didn't want to see her on the floor.

Neatness Comes First.

"I notice neatness first of all—that and clean hands, clean nails, hair fixed, makeup applied in a way that looks natural to them. The girl I hire has to have good carriage, too—stand erect, chin up.

"I notice if she is overdressed or dressed in bad taste, but don't ask me what I mean by bad taste. A girl today had on a very bad looking hat. It looked messy the way it was on her head with a lot of little junk hanging off the back. It didn't fit her. I don't know what would fit her. She was supposed to know that.

"Then something in her manner may be wrong. She may indicate impatience or lack of interest, or she may say something in a rasping voice that you know is going to drive the customers crazy.

Wholesomeness Wanted.

"But my fundamentals come first," he added. "Good grooming and good English are most important. More people come to us than we can hire, but the girl we hire can be summed up under the general blanket of wholesomeness. That's why we pick her."

For specialized jobs, however, Smith picks specialized girls. A girl for the notions counter, he said, must be quick, well coördinated, and able to handle thousands of odd items. A girl for the drapery department must have a good eye for color. And elevator girls must be "very good looking, of course," Smith said. "Face and figure both."

[Another article in the series on girls and their job hunting will appear in an early issue.]

RADIO EDUCATION CONFERENCES TO BE OPENED TODAY

More than one thousand leaders in educational broadcasting are expected to attend the three day sessions of the third annual School Broadcast conference opening today in the Congress hotel under auspices of the radio council of the board of education.

Greater utilization of radio in education is to be the main theme of the conferences. Several network educational programs will be broadcast from conference headquarters. Speakers at the opening session this afternoon will include Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools; Sterling Fisher, director of education for the Columbia Broadcasting system, and Franklin Dunham, educational director of the National Broadcasting company.

Educational directors of NBC stations held a conference in the Drake hotel yesterday. Among the speakers were Lenox R. Lohr, president, and James Rowland Angell, educational counselor.

URGE SUPPORT FOR LUEDER IN AUDITOR RACE

A group of German-American leaders called on Edward F. Moore, Republican county chairman, yesterday to urge support of Arthur C. Lueder, former postmaster, for the nomination for state auditor. The group was led by former Judge Herbert G. Immenhausen and the Rev. George L. Scherger, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church.

Chairman Moore told the group that when and if slate making was discussed, he would be glad to make their recommendation known to the slate committee. At his home last night Lueder said he was "favorably disposed" toward running for auditor, but had not made a final decision.

S. L. Greenleaf Dies; Former River Engineer

Quincy, Ill., Dec. 5 [Special.]—Scolly L. Greenleaf died in Blessing hospital here early today. He was one of the last of the old river men living in this vicinity, working as an engineer of packets, towboats and other river craft on the Illinois, Ohio and Mississippi rivers for more than a half century. He was 88 years old.

EMPLOYERS BALK AT ARBITRATION OF CLERKS' HIRE

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 5 (AP).—Employers today refused to submit to arbitration the question of preferential employment of dock clerks. C. I. O. Leader Harry Bridges said the striking ship clerks' union would consider immediately "pulling men of other harbors off cargoes diverted from San Francisco."

The preferential employment issue is paramount among others in the 25 day strike. The clerks' union last night consented to the proposal for arbitration, suggested by Dr. Louis Bloch, federal maritime labor board member. The employers declared they will not arbitrate "the selection of supervisors and monthly clerks."

Bridges told interviewers "it now appears to be a matter of the union striking for peace. The employers have refused to do it, so it now is up to the unions to open the harbor."

Ball and Chain Ordered for Alimony Delinquents

Wellsburg, W. Va., Dec. 5 (AP).—Circuit Judge J. J. O'Brien today ordered the ball and chain for husbands who fail to keep up court-fixed alimony payments to divorced wives. He directed Sheriff Herbert Traubert to buy the balls and chains and put those delinquent in alimony payments to work on county roads.

STATE MEETING OF COUNTY G.O.P. LEADERS CALLED

Executive committeemen of the Illinois Republican County Chairmen's association were summoned yesterday to meet Dec. 14 in Springfield to consider a state-wide meeting of the association next January. Edward F. Moore, committee chairman and G. O. P. county chairman, issued the call. The executive committee is composed of 16 county chairmen—five from each of the three downstate Appellate court districts and Moore. The question of indorsing a state slate next spring may be discussed at the meeting. The slate, however, will not be acted upon until all 102 chairmen meet in January. Charles O'Connor, state's attorney of Kane county, is president of the association.

De Kalb County Leads State in Tax Collection—98.72%

Sycamore, Ill., Dec. 5 [Special].—County Treasurer Oscar N. Larson today turned over the De Kalb county board of supervisors what is believed to be the best report on tax collections in the state. Out of $1,359,119 certified this year, 98.72 per cent has been received, leaving only $17,331.85 to be collected. Pawpaw township led with 99.99 per cent paid.

CRUISER TO BRING U. S. ENVOY'S BODY HOME FROM CUBA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 5.—President Laredo Bru tonight ordered full military honors for J. Butler Wright, American ambassador to Cuba, who died here last night. He was 62 years old.

Two thousand Cuban troops and marines will participate in a funeral procession Thursday which will escort the remains to the docks, where the casket will be transferred to the American light cruiser Omaha. The cruiser, escorted by the Cuban cruiser Cuba, will carry the body to Washington, D. C., where funeral services will be held in the national cathedral. Mrs. Wright and her two daughters will travel aboard the Omaha.

Trial by Jury Is Ordered for 3 in Handbook Raid

Judge Jay A. Schiller of the State street court yesterday granted a jury trial to three men arrested Monday in a raid on a handbook at 853 Madison street. The trial was granted at the request of Attorney William Goldstein, who did not make the usual motion for a dismissal on the ground of a faulty search warrant. He said Judge Schiller already had ruled adversely to his side in previous cases. The defendants, Louis Criso, Frank Ryan, and Frank Bobo, are to appear for trial Dec. 13.

MRS. M'LAUGHLIN WITHDRAWS HER SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, former dancing star, yesterday withdrew the suit for divorce she filed two years ago against Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, coffee merchant and sportsman. Judge Grover C. Niemeyer dismissed the bill when attorneys presented an agreed order. Neither principal appeared.

Mrs. Irene McLaughlin.

Close friends of the couple said the McLaughlins will continue to live apart. Maj. McLaughlin lives at 1194 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest, and his wife at 1360 West Old Mill road in the same suburb. Neither could be reached for comment, but Mrs. McLaughlin's secretary said both had agreed to make no public comment regarding a possible reconciliation.

The McLaughlins have been involved in squabbles over custody of their two children since the suit was filed. Their daughter, Barbara, 14 years old, is with the major, while their son, Billie, 10, is with his mother. The marriage on Thanksgiving eve, 1923, was Mrs. McLaughlin's third and the major's second.

LUND CITES LACK OF SPEND ITEMS AND CLAIMS HAT

State Representative Arnold L. Lund [R., Riverside], who proposed to Gov. Horner that the state budget be cut $57,000,000 for two years, yesterday took up the challenge of State Senator A. L. Marovitz [D., Chicago] to prove that lump sum appropriations were passed by the legislature. Marovitz issued his challenge Monday when Lund was speaking before the City club.

"You said no bills carrying lump sum appropriations had been passed," Lund wrote Marovitz. "The enclosed house bill 322 is only one of many such bills. In it a total of $92,625,000 is to be spent for highway work, but you will note there is no itemization of amounts to be used for labor, material, or other factors. If you want the numbers of other lump sum bills I will gladly supply them. Meanwhile, will you kindly send me the hat—size 7⅝th—which you promised to buy me if you were wrong?"

Informed last night of the letter, Marovitz said he would not be able to examine the bill until he returns from an airplane trip to California.

"However," said Marovitz, "I can point out that Lund's hat size has increased 2-8ths in recent months."

SHANGHAI BRIDE TELLS JURORS OF MARRIAGE WOES

Mrs. Madeline Warner, who was wooed in the Philippines and married in Shanghai, asked a jury of six women and six men yesterday to give her a divorce from Mason M. Warner. Warner, a wealthy advertising man and travel writer, asked that he be given the divorce.

Mrs. Warner, who is 39 years old, told the jury her husband choked and struck her. She charged cruelty. Warner, who is 68, charges desertion. The case is being heard in Judge Donald S. McKinlay's court.

Mrs. Warner, a school teacher in Shanghai when she met Warner in 1934, protested when she was called a gold digger by her husband's attorney, George F. Landon. She said she still loves Warner, but that his grown children by an earlier marriage wrecked the romance in the Warner home at Church and Hill roads in Winnetka. Her attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., told the jury Warner is worth $500,000. It was Warner who asked the trial by jury. The hearing will be resumed today.

State Board Sponsors Forum on Tax Problems

An open forum on taxation problems in Illinois will be held at the Palmer House from Dec. 13 to 15, inclusive, it was announced yesterday by Simon E. Leland, chairman of the state tax commission, which is sponsoring the meeting. Representatives of more than 40 organizations thruout the state will attend. Mayor Kelly and Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York City are expected to speak at the opening luncheon.

Dr. Roland A. Herzog.

Dr. Roland A. Herzog, an Evanston dentist for seven years, died of a kidney ailment last night in St. Francis hospital. He was 48 years old. Dr. Herzog lived in the Orrington hotel and had offices at 609 Davis street. A graduate of the Northwestern university dental school in 1915, he practiced in Chicago before moving to Evanston. His widow, Louise, survives. The funeral will be held at Sheboygan, Wis., at a time to be set later.

Mrs. Mary S. La Cosse.

Mrs. Mary S. La Cosse, widow of Joseph C. La Cosse, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ethel L. Gilbert, 1126 North Taylor avenue, Oak Park. Surviving her are a sister, two nieces, and a nephew. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in the chapel at 720 Lake street, Oak Park. Burial will be in Oakridge cemetery.

Jay J. Gerber.

Jay J. Gerber, a pioneer importer of food products, died yesterday in his home at 5000 Cornell avenue. Mr. Gerber, who was 56 years old, was president of R. Gerber & Co., one of the original importers of European food products. Surviving are his widow, Lillian, and two daughters, Eleanor and Mrs. Jane Barancik.

J. Edward Spain.

Funeral services for J. Edward Spain, a live stock commission man in the Union Stockyards, will be held Friday at 11 a. m. in St. Carthage church. Mr. Spain died yesterday in his home at 7539 Yale avenue. His widow, Viola, and two children survive.

John W. Townsend.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 5 [Special]. John W. Townsend, retired iron manufacturer, numismatist and writer on historical subjects, died at his home in Bryn Mawr today after a year's illness. He was 84 years old.

COURT HOLDS UP RULING ON PLEA BY JAMES HINES

New York, Dec. 5 [Special].—Decision was reserved late today on the appeal of James J. Hines, once a power in Tammany, from his conviction as political protector of the Harlem policy ring controled by Dutch Schultz, slain gangster. Hines was sentenced to serve four to eight years in prison.

The appellate division of the Supreme court listened to nearly three hours of oral argument by Martin W. Littleton, on behalf of Hines, and Stanley H. Fuld, chief of the appeals bureau of the office of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey. Both submitted lengthy briefs. A decision is not expected for several weeks.

Hines had been chief dispenser of federal political patronage in Manhattan. He was a supporter of Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidency before the Chicago convention in 1932.

WINTER HOLIDAY TIME ARRIVES IN THE AMERICAS

Tours and Cruises Lead to Many Attractions.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

It's winter vacation time in America.

The season of tours to and thru the three Americas—North, South, and Central—opens next week. In celebration of that inaugural THE TRIBUNE next Sunday will devote a full section to the subject of winter travel.

Tours and cruises will lead to all parts of the western hemisphere. Florida, the Gulf coast, the southwest, Southern California, Hot Springs, Mexico, and the ski and skate places up north will be the main objectives of the land excursions. Ocean voyages are to take Americans to the Caribbean, South America, Hawaii, Guatemala, Bermuda, and everywhere else within the safety zone.

Experts to Write Stories.

In describing these places, and the trips to and from them, THE TRIBUNE will call upon a large number of its staff members and special writers to help give a complete story of winter travel.

Bob Becker, outdoors expert, will inform the hunters and fishermen what they may expect to find in the south this season. Philip Kinsley is to take his readers on another jaunt thru the hills of Tennessee. Hal Foust, auto editor, will give a summary of conditions in Florida.

Percy Wood, recently returned from a Caribbean cruise, has promised to write of the things worth seeing among the neutral lands and islands bordering on that sea. Marcia Winn, native of the Hot Springs country, is typing a story on that spa. Charles Leavelle has turned out an account of Carnival time along the Gulf coast.

India Moffett, society editor, depicts the tragicomedy of a family trying to settle the problem of where to go for the holidays. Philip Hampson, railroad editor, tells how to get there by rail, and Wayne Thomis, aviation editor, counters with suggestions of how to get there by air. Will Davidson, recruited from the west, pens a yarn about a God-forsaken country that turned out to be anything but that.

What to wear on a journey southward is detailed by Rhea Seeger, fashion editor. Dorothy Schmidt, staff writer, recounts her vacation experiences in Biloxi, Pass Christian, Corpus Christi, Gulfport, and New Orleans.

Among the special writers whose travel articles have been appearing in this paper for several years, and who will be represented next Sunday, are Anson Brown, writing about Mexico; Mason Warner, telling of a stop at the Canary Islands in the course of a six months' excursion around Africa; Mae Blacker Freeman, describing the Indian country in the southwest, and Helen Van Hoy Smith, reviewing the opening of the season at Palm Beach.

WAR IN EUROPE KEEPS DOLLARS IN THE AMERICAS

New York, Dec. 5 [Special].—The American Express company, in a survey of December travel prospects, estimates that, as a result of the radical changes effected in travel by the European war, "250,000,000 travel dollars" will stay on this side of the Atlantic next year.

South America, Mexico, the West Indies, Canada, and the United States will benefit by the rerouting of the travel dollar, the survey predicts.

Travel Queries Answered

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

How long does it take to fly from Miami to Havana? How long to Nassau? B. R. K.

Each flight takes about two hours.

The other day I read something about "frog gigging." Just what is it and where is it practiced? L. D.

It is a popular pastime in the deep south. It gets its name from the fact that the frogs are hunted with pronged sticks or "gigs."

When is the annual horse show to be held at Pinehurst, N. C.? A. W.

Dec. 29.

At Marineland, Fla., 18 miles south of St. Augustine and 35 miles north of Daytona Beach.

What is there to see and do at and near Fort Lauderdale, Fla.? E. S.

Sightseeing includes Anderson's Hibiscus gardens, Clyde Beatty's Jungle zoo, Brown's Hacienda Flores, and the New River and Flamingo groves. Sports activities include deep sea and fresh water fishing, golfing, tennis, swimming, and boating.

Please give me a brief description of the governor's palace of La Fortaleza, at San Juan, Porto Rico. J. G. McA.

The stronghold, overlooking the harbor of San Juan, is one of the island's chief tourist attractions. Once described by Theodore Roosevelt as "half palace, half castle," it is almost 400 years old. Built in 1540 as a fortress, it later was used as the official residence of the Spanish governor generals. It contains a throne room, treasure room, secret passageways, and many dungeons. It is surrounded by sunken gardens, with flowering shrubs, jasmine, and coconut, mango, and avocado trees. The United States government is now spending about $390,000 to preserve and restore the structure. Ancient wooden beams are being replaced, and the walls and foundations strengthened. The work will not affect the lookout towers, staircases, Spanish tiles, wall decorations, or other features.

DUDE PLANTATION IS THE NEWEST THING IN WINTER RESORTS

In civil war times a plantation near this town, 150 miles north of New Orleans, was a rendezvous for wealthy planters. Now it is being transformed into a guest place.

The old-time atmosphere is being reintroduced with Negro servants, Creole food, corn pone, and the like.

WINTER SCHOOL OF ART PLANNED IN MEXICAN TOWN

SAN MIGUEL DE ALLENDE, Mexico, Dec. 5 [Special].—This little town in the state of Guanajuato is to have a winter art seminary.

The school, housed in an ancient convent remodeled into a modern study center, has been running for several summers. This is the first time a winter session has been scheduled. The fact that the war has diverted travelers from the old world to the new led to the decision.

Stirling Dickinson, Chicago artist and author, is associate director of the school. The session will last from Jan. 15 to March 15.

Chicagoan Gets 138 Pound Sailfish Near Mexico Port

GUTYMAS, Mexico, Dec. 5 [Special].—A sailfish weighing 138 pounds was caught near this port recently by Charles A. Munroe of Chicago. The party of Chicago sportsmen, including Mr. Munroe and Count and Countess Cippico, landed five sailfish, a marlin, and a fine batch of dolphin.

13,859 Ton Grace Liner to Be Launched Dec. 15

Newport News, Va., Dec. 5 [Special].—The 13,859 ton Santa Teresa, built for the Grace Line under designs provided by the maritime commission, will be launched here Dec. 15. It will enter the South American trade.

BAHAMA ISLAND RESTRICTIONS ON TOURISTS LIFTED

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

NASSAU, Bahamas, Dec. 5.—Americans visiting the Bahama Islands this winter will not be subject to any passport or financial restrictions. This has been made clear by the colonial government.

On the outbreak of the war, empire-wide restrictions were imposed on all travel to British possessions. Later these restrictions were modified for travel to the Banamas, and finally they were removed entirely for American citizens.

The announcement made by the British embassy in Washington that four additional British consulates would grant visas to Americans for travel to the West Indies does not apply to this colony, for which no visa will be required.

LINERS REVISE SCHEDULES TO MEDITERRANEAN

New York, Dec. 5 [Special].—In conformity with the neutrality law revision governing ships carrying the American flag, the American Export Line has announced new sailing schedules to neutral zone ports in the Mediterranean.

On their fortnightly sailings from New York, the company's passenger liners Exeter, Excalibur, Excambion, and Exochorda will substitute Genoa, Italy, for Marseilles, France, en route to Alexandria, Egypt, and near east ports.

Under the revised schedules the ships will spend 24 hours in Genoa before proceeding eastward.

CITY LIVES ON ROOFS.

Seville, Spain, lives on its roofs. The roofs are the gardens, and the gardens are the living rooms of the family. To walk the streets below is to be unconscious of the real life of the city. Visitors who "go indoors" really go to the roof which is "outdoors."

MIAMI IS READY TO TAKE CARE OF 750,000 VISITORS

Miami, Fla., Dec. 5 [Special].—On the eve of its 25th tourist season Miami today laid claim to this distinction: It can accommodate more winter visitors than can any other city of its size in the world.

As a result of a year's building activity, the city now has 300 hotels, 2,400 apartment houses, 1,200 rooming houses, and 46,930 homes. These, it is figured, will be able to house 750,000 visitors at one time.

Building permits in the greater Miami area this year have totaled $30,000,000. Local boosters insist that there will be at least 2 million tourists here this winter, and that they will spend something like $250,000,000.

Travel Service to Bring Week-End Guests to City

Reversing the usual policy of urging Chicagoans to travel out of the city, Travel Exchange, Inc., yesterday announced a project to bring outsiders to Chicago. The plan is to provide week-end sightseeing, entertainment, and hotel accommodations for persons living within an overnight radius.

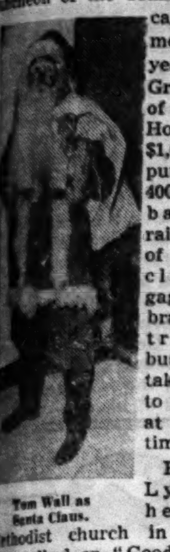
1,100 Attend 4th Annual Traffic Club Party.

The fourth annual Good Fellow luncheon of the Traffic Club of Chicago drew 1,122 men and women yesterday to the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House. More than $1,600, enough to purchase nearly 400 Good Fellow baskets, was raised. Members of the Traffic club — men engaged in various branches of the transportation business — will take the baskets to needy families at Christmas time.



Tom Wall as Santa Claus.

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, head of the Methodist church in the Chicago area, talked on "Good Fellows All," stressing the injunction that each person should try to lighten the burden of another. Santa Claus, impersonated by a club member, Tom Wall, was present. An impromptu highlight of the program came when Santa spied Gwendolyn Middleton, 5 years old, daughter of the John Middletons of Niles Center, and lifted her in his arms.

Reports Attendance Gains.

L. H. McCormick, general chairman of the club's Good Fellow work, and W. C. Douglas, president, reported a steadily increasing attendance at the annual luncheons. There were 700 at the first affair.

A program that filled two and a half hours with entertainment was presented by a cast of radio, stage, and screen stars.

There are three classifications of Good Fellows this year, each with a different plan of operation. The Basket Good Fellow will obtain the name and address of a deserving family by writing or phoning the Good Fellow bureau at 1 South Dearborn street [Superior 0100]. He will take a basket of toys, candy, and food to the family at Christmas time.

The General Good Fellow will send $1 or more to the Good Fellow fund. The money will be used to purchase baskets.

Club Good Fellow Plan.

The Club Good Fellow plan is open to all civic and social organizations in Chicago and the suburbs. The club sends the Good Fellow fund a lump sum, based on contributions of $1 a member. Baskets purchased with this money and money given by General Good Fellows will be delivered to a prearranged place by THE TRIBUNE for distribution. The Traffic club baskets, for example, will be distributed Saturday morning, Dec. 23, from the Chicago Tunnel warehouse.

Attractive Good Fellow buttons will be sent to those who take part in the campaign. Good Fellow headquarters yesterday reported the receipt of the largest single contribution to date. It was a $50 check from Edward Everett Horton, star of the play "Springtime for Henry."

SHOWMEN VOTE $500 GIFT TO RED CROSS IN CANADA

The Showmen's League of America made a $500 gift to the Canadian Red Cross last night at the league's annual banquet in the Hotel Sherman.

The gift came from the league's treasury. J. C. McCaffery, the retiring president, presented the check to Toastmaster Elwood Hughes to carry back with him to his home in Toronto, Ont.

Eight hundred persons attended the banquet. The speaker was Msgr. Edward J. Flanagan, founder of Boys Town, Neb. Frank Duffield of Chicago was congratulated upon his election to the league's presidency.

HELD TO JURY IN CAR THEFTS.

Judge Joseph J. Drucker of the Automobile court yesterday held Robert Wallace, 1226 East 47th street, to the grand jury on a charge of stealing two automobiles.

A JOB FOR DAD IS ALL THIS BOY ASKS OF SANTA

Belleville, Ill., Dec. 5 (AP). — The Santa Claus mail box on Belleville's public square was jammed with letters—but one in a childish scrawl didn't ask for the usual bicycle and toys. It was a plea from a boy, 10 years old, and read:

"Dear Santa Claus:

"Will you please get my daddy steady work so he can get me and my brother home for Christmas. We can't be home with our father and mother until daddy gets a steady job.

"Then the county judge will let me out of the St. Clair county detention home and my brother out of the home at Lincoln.

"If you do what I asked you all I want for Xmas is to be home with my mom and pop."

GIVES $4,875,000 FOR HOSPITALS IN BRITISH EMPIRE

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Lord Nuffield, millionaire motor manufacturer, has given 1,000,000 shares of stock in his organization, Morris Motors, Ltd., to start a central hospital fund for the provinces, it was announced tonight. Nuffield's benefaction is worth nearly 1,250,000 pounds sterling [$4,875,000]. He hopes to see setup thruout the provinces regional boards which will coördinate the work of all hospitals. His benefactions now amount to more than $62,400,000. Recent gifts include $5,850,000 for recreational facilities for the armed forces and $390,000 to the Red Cross.

CAR AND 5 FUR COATS STOLEN.

An automobile containing five fur coats and other merchandise valued at $1,000 was stolen from in front of 3318 Congress street yesterday while the driver, Frank Canpeglia, was making a delivery. Campeglia lives at 1100 South Racine avenue.

Eastern Rails to Reduce Return Fares Over Holiday

New York, Dec. 5 [Special].—Railroads in the east and in New England today announced they would reduce their return rates for coach travel to 2 cents a mile for the Christmas season. Tickets will go on sale on Dec. 21 and the return trip must be made by Jan. 7. For trips longer than 450 miles, the present return rate is less than 2 cents a mile and these rates will be continued. The roads will soon file a petition for continuance of the present rates after Jan. 24, when they are due to expire.

BOOKS for CHRISTMAS

South America and Mexico in Annual Survey

BY PERCY WOOD.

Book publishers who included volumes on South America and Mexico on their 1939 lists may reap more than they anticipated when they accepted the manuscripts, now that foreign business and travel opportunities are so definitely to the south.

Europe is all but closed and Asia is troubled and distant, but the republics below the Rio Grande remain open and peaceful. Several first class writers and a few less than mediocre ones reported on them this year, and both the cream and the dross of the output came this reader's way.

Two which appeared on the fall lists were especially competent—Edward Tomlinson's New Roads to Riches in the Other Americas [Scribners, $3.75] and T. R. Ybarra's America Faces South [Dodd Mead, $3]. Tomlinson's book is a first class economic portrait of the five South American republics which were liberated from the heavy hand of Spain by the great Venezuelan patriot, Gen. Simon Bolivar. They are Venezuela, Bolivia, Colombia, Ecuador, and Peru. A big volume, rich in facts, this also has a wide range of absorbing description and personal adventure.

Ybarra's ancestors fought with Bolivar, but his book is not a sychophantic pean of his fatherland. It is, instead, a hard-headed report on what is happening there today, with emphasis on Nazi and Fascist penetrations.

Another good journalist, John T. Whitaker, searched for and found similar evidence which he states excellently in Americas to the South [Macmillan, $2.50]. More concise, yet in its own way just as important as the foregoing, is Katherine Carr's South American Primer [Reynal & Hitchcock, $1.75]. Altho pocket size, it contains a shelfful of information.

Erna Fergusson's Venezuela [Knopf, $3] does for that famous republic what her "Guatemala" did for another picturesque section of Latin America, and does it freshly. About all one would want to know of modern Venezuela is here.

Those seeking the authentic historical background of Venezuela will turn from Miss Fergusson to Thomas Rourke's Man of Glory—Simon Bolivar [Morrow, $3.50]. It must be ranked with the leading biographies of 1939.

Mexico continues to intrigue and defy writers with its political hi-jinks. Expropriation of the American and British oil properties have brought a small deluge of commentaries—no two of them compatible and all a little confused.

Coming as close to agreement as any were two Catholic Englishmen—Evelyn Waugh, with Mexico: An Object Lesson [Little Brown, $2.50], and Graham Greene, with Another Mexico [Viking, $3]. Their condemnation of the antichurch campaign in Mexico was as biting as might be anticipated, but, sensitive men that they are, they become lyric in describing the beauty of the country which, of itself, made their books notable.

There were also new books defending the Mexican government. Nathaniel and Sylvia Weyl, in The Reconquest of Mexico [Oxford, $3], devote themselves entirely to the years of the presidency of the incumbent, Lazaro Cardenas, who suffers little from their sympathetic treatment. Mrs. Verna Carleton Millan is an American who married a Mexican physician and went to live with him in Mexico City in 1933. She moved in political and artistic circles and seems entirely satisfied with the way things are going in her adopted country, or so one interprets Mexico Reborn [Houghton Mifflin, $3].

A more critical view was adopted—pardonably so—by Frank L. Kluckhohn, a New York newspaperman who was expelled from Mexico because his dispatches on the oil expropriation did not suit the politicos in the national palace. He tells about it in The Mexican Challenge [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50].

Then, just as the year was closing, came a delightful novel by Arthur Davison Ficke—Mrs. Morton of Mexico [Reynal & Hitchcock, $2.50]—which tells the story of an enchanting grande dame who lived on the shores of Lake Chapala. It is a beautifully written and refreshing tale.

Reading far removed from Latin America, and a welcome diversion, led this reader thru five better-than-average early American historical novels. Hawk of Detroit, by Arthur Pound [Reynal & Hitchcock, $2.50], tells the story of the founding of Detroit by the French under the Sieur Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac, and tells it well.

The Delectable Country, by Leland D. Baldwin [Lee Furman, $2.75], and Strife Before Dawn, by Mary Schumann [Dial, $2.50], deal with the pioneering from Fort Pitt into the wilderness of Ohio, Indiana, and other parts of the Mississippi valley. Norah Lofts' Blossom Like the Rose [Knopf, $2.50] is another period piece somewhat earlier in point of time and unusually well done.

Valentine Thompson's Knight of the Seas—the Adventurous Life of John Paul Jones [Liveright, $3.50] comes up to the promise of its title.

Life of Christ in Pictures

One of the illustrations in "The Ageless Story" of Christ, told in pictures by Lauren Ford in the manner of ancient illuminated manuscripts with Gregorian chants as accompaniments.

Unique Illustrations Will Appeal to Both Children and Adults

"The Ageless Story," by Lauren Ford [Dodd-Mead, $2.50] is a unique and exquisitely illustrated book which will appeal to both parents and children. It is a slender, ethereal volume telling the story of Christ in pictures which resemble the illuminated manuscripts of old, but which have for background our own American rural scenes. Lauren Ford, the artist, places opposite each picture a portion of a Gregorian chant.

Important New Books

"Grandfather Was Queer," by Richardson Wright. [Lippincott, $3.]

In the merry pages of Richardson Wright's "Grandfather Was Queer" the reader encounters a phase of American history, a definite development in our American life, which has usually escaped or been neglected by more sober historians. Here, for the amusement of the curious, is as strange a galaxy of wags and eccentrics as could be found anywhere.

Mr. Wright encountered them in the three principal centers of waggery when America was exuberantly young—the general store, tavern, and barber shop. From these points his search took him down curious side roads where he came upon an even crazier crew of zanies and other oddsticks.

In amazingly beautiful and clear script James Johns published a newspaper for more than 60 years in his own penmanship. Samuel Patch carved an historical niche for himself by becoming an early Steve Brodie with his fabulous jumping feats. To name only another of the many queer characters, consider Andreas Everardus van Braam-Houckgeest, a choleric and wealthy Dutchman, who astonished the Delaware countryside by traveling on his barge, surrounded by Malay servants, and rowed by eight lean Chinese, clad in white. J. H. T.

Lore of American Rivers.

"Where the Rivers Meet," by Ward Dorrance. [Scribners, $2.75.]

Along the waterways whose confluences are the heart of the nation Mr. Dorrance paddles his canoe on a voyage of rediscovery. From the Osage river his craft glides out into the muddy flood of the Missouri and eventually into the Mississippi. Continuing southward he meets the Ohio and, in turn, the Tennessee, Cumberland, and the Wabash.

Steeped in the history and lore of the vast area these waters touch, the author writes colorfully of the scenes and the people. He writes interestingly also of the events and people of two centuries ago; of the French, who took this rich region from the Indians; of the Spanish, who took it from the French, and of the Americans, who took it from the Spanish. C. L.

Facts About Wild Animals.

"Animals Are Like That!" by Frank Buck and Carol Weld. [McBride, $2.50.]

Frank Buck's newest book is an entertaining answer to the countless questions the public constantly is asking about wild animals. Considerable space is given to refutation of many popular ideas about jungle beasts. Sandwiched in between his educational facts are many exciting adventures the author had in his years of animal hunting. Most of them will be new even to the readers of his former volumes. The book is well illustrated. A. C.

Family Story in Conversation.

"One Fight More," by Susan Ertz. [Appleton Century, $2.50.]

Against an English, French, and American background Susan Ertz tells a family story, the chief interest lying not so much in events as in actions of the mind. A great many present day problems are presented from the varying viewpoints of Georgina, her British husband, and their child, Sola, and from the French angle of Christine, her children, and her husband, as well as from the American standpoint as represented in old Theodore Darell, the father of the family, and Lydia, his daughter.

The English view of marriage as contrasted with the French; the elders' love of convention as contrasted with the younger generation's impetuosity; the plight of the German exile, the intellectual cast adrift, and of the young American boy who wants to earn a living, but can find no job—all these topics are discussed in conversational form. "One Fight More" is readable, and is fairly good entertainment. E. W.

Whoever said "Virtue is its own—and only—reward" might, in a cynical modern moment, have applied his neo-epigram to the art of being a gentleman. It sometimes seems that the boors are the fair haired boys.

But here comes a white knight of the drawing room to pick up the banner of good manners and lead this slightly befuddled present generation out of the etiquet maze into the starched and gracious company of the polite behaviorists. Mr. Towne not only knows his onions—he knows when not to eat them. He knows how much to tip the waiter, how to select wine, how to get married, what to do in a street car or on skates, how not to infuriate the butler, and which knee to bend when one is presented to the king of England. W. D.

Year Produces Notable Works in Poetry Field

BY RUSSELL MacFALL.

One of the year's notable volumes in verse is the story of a peacetime victor, Gen. Gorgas, and the conquest of yellow fever which made possible the building of the Panama canal. Robin Lampson calls his Death Loses a Pair of Wings [Scribners, $3] a novel in cadence. It is outstanding for effortless narrative verse, exacting scholarship, and truly epic subject.

Another majestic figure from history—Black Hawk—inspires the finest poetry in More People [Appleton Century, $2.50], most recent collection of Edgar Lee Master's work. Beside this magnificent tribute, Mr. Masters has placed sixty other poems of varying worth. From Iowa speaks the young American, Paul Engle, whose Corn [Doubleday-Doran, $2] echoes the nostalgia for his native acres which he felt while a scholar at Oxford. The poems display his witchery with words.

Another opportunity to know the significant work of Rainer Maria Rilke, greatest of German romanticists of this century, is presented in Duino Elegies [Norton, $2], translated by England's leading Rilke authority, J. B. Leishman, and one of her notable poets, Stephen Spender. These are ten short prophetic utterances in intricate but beautiful symbolism.

Several volumes of musical interest have value beyond the year. One of these is What to Listen for in Music, by the prominent American composer, Aaron Copland [Whittlesey, $2.50]. He writes for those listeners who feel the need of more knowledge of the structure of music, and for others who would refresh or augment their understanding.

An autobiography and a sketch of a publishing house depict two aspects of the last half century of American music. Olga Samaroff Stokowski, pianist and former wife of the conductor, in An American Musician's Story [Norton, $3], is wise, witty, and wide-glancing in her memories of those who have advanced formal music in this nation. Of this number she is an honored and a modest leader. Equally entertaining and valuable is From Ragtime to Swingtime, by Isadore Witmark and Isaac Goldberg [Furman, $3.50]. The principal founder of this house which published many of the popular tunes that the nation has whistled since 1886 writes of the men who wrote and the matinée idols who sang them.

As a guidebook to Shakespeare's realms of gold, Mark Van Doren has written an able chapter in Shakespeare [Holt, $3] about each of the plays, bringing to a focus the centuries of commentary on each play, and affording an excellent background for a re-reading of them.

The Irish playwright, Sean O'Casey, recalls his boyhood in a bitter Dublin which his diseased eyes could scarcely see, altho for the gentry it glittered with pleasure and pageants. I Knock at the Door [Macmillan, $2.50] is the title.

Journey to a War [Random, $3] takes W. H. Auden and Christopher Isherwood off on a random excursion thru war torn China. They range from Canton to the far north, never far from the battle lines, take photographs, write poems, and turn out an informally revealing story of the true situation of the Chinese people.

The Danube has been the high road of European history since the dawn of recorded time, and today it is again in the thick of things. A short history of the nations along its banks and of the place which it has played in the century old conflict of Teuton and Slav is told by Emil Lengyel, an authority on middle Europe, in The Danube [Random, $3.75]. The book is handsomely put together.

His Novel Unusual

Here Is Group of Outstanding 1939 Sea Tales

BY AL CHASE.

The 1939 sea shelf is not as crowded as in former years, but its comparatively few books are outstanding in their field. Here are a few of the best:

Cape Horn, by Felix Riesenberg [Dodd Mead, $5], the first comprehensive story of what the dangerous tip of South America has meant to the world's shipping. A scholarly, entertaining volume.

Captain Abby and Captain John, by Robert P. Tristram Coffin [Macmillan, $2.50], the quaint biography of a Maine skipper in the days of sail, as told in ships' logs, diaries, and letters.

An Appealing Tale of Christmas by Elizabeth Goudge

"The Sister of the Angels," by Elizabeth Goudge. [Coward McCann, $1.50.]

Here is another sweet, appealing little story about Torminster, "the city of bells," and about the family of the gentle old canon of the cathedral there. It is a Christmas story and is told from the point of view of little Henrietta, who is looking forward to a holiday visit from her father, an eccentric poet.

It is the child's dream that some day the fourth wall of her favorite chapel in the cathedral will be covered with a beautiful mural, as are the other three walls which were painted by a devout monk who died centuries ago. She has even tried to make a sketch of the Virgin and the Child, as the central figures. How the painting comes to be made is told by Miss Goudge in the same simple, warmhearted manner that made her "City of Bells" so popular. E. W.

Stephen Leacock's 'Too Much College' Sparkles with Wit

The newest book by Stephen Leacock, the humorist, is not intended to be funny, but nevertheless sparkles with his wit and sense of the ironic. Called "Too Much College" [Dodd Mead, $2], it expresses Mr. Leacock's ideas on our present day methods of higher education and is full of the seasoned knowledge gained by forty-five years of teaching experience. The author argues that "education is eating up life and that the process of equipping young people for their life work involves entirely too much time, effort, and money."

Influence of Literary Men on England of Their Time

Granville Hicks, in "Figures of Transition" [Macmillan, $2.50], makes a study of Victorianism and of British literature at the end of the 19th century. Six men of letters stand out—William Morris, Thomas Hardy, Samuel Butler, George Gissing, Oscar Wilde, and Rudyard Kipling. Mr. Hicks discusses the influence of each on the England of his day.

BOOKS for CHRISTMAS

1939 Is a Star-Studded Year in Literature; 50 of Its Best Novels Pass Again in Review

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

The year 1939, ill-starred in the history books, will be triple starred in the annals of American literature. Not since I can remember have there been in one twelve months' period more individual books which will live or a higher standard in the mine-run of literature. "Masterpiece" has been used more than once in the year's criticism, and with no minimizing of the heroic standards of the word.

Choosing 50 novels as the year's outstanding works of fiction is no easy task. Europe sent us some of them in translation, some in the physical presence of their authors [Asia one], who found in our peaceful land the "atmosphere" where they could create. But the year's most spectacular success in fiction is by an American, about Americans, written in the American idiom. In the tradition of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," The Grapes of Wrath, by John Steinbeck [Viking, $2.50], is an American epic of the new covered wagon days, of the wanderings of new pioneers toward a promised land. The great American reading public has bought 300,000 copies of "The Grapes of Wrath" since its publication in April and it is selling at the rate of 10,000 a week.

American Historical Novels

America's past was the subject of some memorable novels this year. Children of God, by Vardis Fisher [Harpers, $3], winner of the 1939-'40 Harper prize, is a panoramic epic of Mormonism, of the trek of another group of bewildered people into the promised land.

The Tree of Liberty, by Elizabeth Page [Farrar & Rinehart, $3], is a vast epic of America's beginnings, picturing this country from 1754 to 1806. Next to Valour, by John Jennings [Macmillan, $2.75], is a long adventure thriller of New Hampshire pioneer life in the "Northwest Passage" period.

Gamble's Hundred, by Clifford Dowdey [Little Brown, $2.50], is a masterful novel of tidewater Virginia in the 1750s. The Delectable Country, by Leland D. Baldwin [Furman, $2.75], lustily pictures the frontier days of the 1790s on the river from Pittsburgh to New Orleans.

The trailbreaking of lusty frontiersmen who left Ohio to settle in Illinois in the years before Andrew Jackson went to the White House gives thrills to Michael Beam, by Richard Matthews Hallet [Houghton Mifflin, $2.50]. Artillery of Time, by Chard Powers Smith [Scribners, $2.75], pictures the Yankee way of life changing before the explosion of the civil war. In Nebraska Coast, by Clyde Brion Davis [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50], a fresh and vivid picture of the development of pioneer Nebraska in the 1860s, the civil war is little more than a noise off stage.

Two outstanding historical novels by native Americans are The Torguts, by W. L. River [Stokes, $2.50], a powerful, swift tale of the last great mass movement of a whole people, the migration of the Torgut mongols in 1771, and Ararat, by Elgin Groseclose [Carrick & Evans, $2.50], a story of epic proportions of the survival of a group of Armenians massacred by the Turks [in 1895] and of the survival of one man's faith in God.

Foreign Novels

One of the year's masterpieces is The Nazarene, by Sholem Asch [Putnam, $3], a spectacular novel of the time of Christ, a vivid and living picture presented thru the eyes of three of His contemporaries. It is translated from the Yiddish, but was written in the creative peace of our land.

Another masterpiece from a pen likewise nurtured by American freedom is Moment in Peking [Day, $3], a first novel by Lin Yutang, author of "The Importance of Living," a truly unique book. Pearl Buck, who knows, says that it is "the great novel of modern China." It is a vast fascinating panoramic record of the "moment" [1900-1938] when the old China became the new China. It was written in English.

Translated from the French is The Thibaults, by Roger Martin du Gard [Viking, $3], who won the Nobel prize for literature in 1938. It is a typically French, almost clinical record of a bourgeois French family. A Belgian epic, Jean Tousseul, by Jean Clarambaux [Lippincott, $3], tells at length and often with tenderness of life in a little Belgian village before the world war, and during and following its occupation by the Germans. Translated from the Finnish is Sun and Storm, by Unto Seppanen [Bobbs Merrill, $2.50], a rugged story of Finland's struggle for liberty.

Translated from the German this year we have a thrilling novel of the slave wars of the Roman empire, The Gladiators, by Arthur Koestler [Macmillan, $2.50]; the concluding volume of Heinrich Mann's vivid fictionized life of Henry IV., Henry, King of France [Knopf, $3], and Vicki Baum's Shanghai '37 [Doubleday-Doran, $2.75], a less melodramatic "Grand Hotel."

English Novels

From abroad came James Joyce's Finnegans Wake [Viking, $5], on which the Irish author of "Ulysses," who lives in Paris, worked for 17 years. It is the most revolutionary of all modern writing and, to any one except literary Einsteins, incomprehensible, since in it James Joyce creates new words as well as a new narrative pattern. But some literary pundits say 1939 will be remembered for "Finnegan's Wake."

Three outstanding novels from England have a very contemporary political implication: The Day Before, by H. M. Tomlinson [Putnam, $2.50], an exciting novel and mystery which has as background another tense war shadowed summer in England [1914]; Mr. Emmanuel, by Louis Golding [Viking, $2.50], a touching story of the Nazi terrorism suffered by an elderly English Jew on a mission of mercy to Germany, and The Arrogant History of White Ben, by Clemence Dane [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50], a symbolical political fantasy of a future dictator in England.

Three famous English novelists have given us books this year. W. Somerset Maugham writes what I think is a cracking good tale of a vicarious participation in crime and revolution [and just that], but which some authorities think is his best novel, in Christmas Holiday [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50]. Hugh Walpole gives us another of his psycho-horror tales, this time of a mother's dominance over her grown son, in The Sea Tower [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50]. Richard Aldington, usually so bitterly satiric, offers us more of the velvet glove and less of the iron hand in Rejected Guest [Viking, $2.50], the life story of a "war baby" of the first world war.

Four outstanding historical novels from well-known English pens are: Queen Anne Boleyn, by Francis Hackett [Doubleday-Doran, $2.75], in which the heroine gets neither sentimental inflation nor clever deflation in a rollicking good story; Live and Kicking Ned [Macmillan, $2.50], a stirring sequel to "Dead Ned," an adventure story of mystery, danger, and suspense by the poet laureate of England, John Masefield; The City of Gold, by Francis Brett-Young [Reynal & Hitchcock, $2.75], a story of the fabulous gold rush days in South Africa and the events that led to the Boer war, and Watch for the Dawn, by Stuart Cloete [Houghton Mifflin, $2.50], an exciting historical romance of pioneer South Africa.

First Novels

To a great many readers the most exciting books of any year are the first novels. There the zest of discovery is added to the pleasure of reading.

The most spectacular of the year's first novels is Christ in Concrete, by Pietro di Donato [Bobbs-Merrill, $2.50], a young Italian-American bricklayer who writes in a new and savory idiom about his people.

Miss Susie Slagle's, by Augusta Tucker [Harpers, $2.50], is at the same time a human, tender, realistic, and scientifically cold-blooded story of a group of medical students in a Baltimore boarding house just before the world war. The most sensational book about the aftermaths of war is Johnny Got His Gun, by Dalton Trumbo [Lippincott, $2.50], a tale of indelible horror about a faceless, armless, legless man in a veterans' hospital.

Again the River, by Stella E. Morgan [Crowell, $2.50], is a dramatic novel about the people who live at the mercy of the mighty Mississippi. Purslane, by Bernice Kelly Harris [Chapel Hill, $2.50], is another regional novel—about farm life in the Carolinas, but so tenderly human as to be universal. Frost and Fire, by Elliott Merrick [Scribners, $2.50], is a fine solid tale of Labrador fishermen and trappers. The hero of Sam, by John Selby [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50], which won the American prize in the 1939 international prize novel competition, the story is a fantastic but real and ruthless small city business man.

American Novels

Novels by Americans but with foreign backgrounds this year include: Escape [Little-Brown, $2.50], by a very skilled and seasoned novelist who uses the pseudonym of Ethel Vance, a remarkable, gripping, melodramatic adventure of a woman's dramatic escape from a German prison; The Patriot, by Pearl S. Buck [Day, $2.50], Nobel prize winner and author of "The Good Earth," a deeply understanding story of contemporary China and Japan and their psychologies; Star Spangled Virgin, by Du Bose Heyward [Farrar & Rinehart, $2], a gay, sometimes hilarious tale of Negroes on one of the Virgin Islands, lacking the haunting beauty of "Porgy."

It Takes All Kinds, by Louis Bromfield [Harpers, $3], includes three full length novels, two novelettes, and four short stories, all previously unpublished in book form. Many of the backgrounds are foreign and all are exotic.

Two books of short stories belong with any survey of the year's best novels, for they almost attain the stature of novels. They are Here Lies [Viking, $3], a collection of all of Dorothy Parker's inimitable stories, and A Book of Miracles, by Ben Hecht [Viking, $2.75], seven long brilliantly fantastic tales of satirical and cynical whimsy.

Four books about young men in search of their destinies stand out from the year's phalanx of semi-autobiographical novels. Thomas Wolfe's posthumous The Web and the Rock [Harpers, $3] is a vast record as all-inclusive as a census, slow, almost turgid, but with pages of incomparable and exquisite prose. Seven Against the Years, by Sterling North [Macmillan, $2.50], sharply delineates the life stories of seven men of the class of 1929 in the decade after graduation, one of them autobiographically. Adventures of a Young Man, by John Dos Passos [Harcourt-Brace, $2.50], is a drivingly honest tale of the eventual disillusionment of a young communist, and Abel Dayton, by Flannery Lewis [Macmillan, $2.50], is a sensitive story of youth and its reactions to circumstances and environment.

How a career girl found her destiny is told in Kitty Foyle, by Christopher Morley [Lippincott, $2.50], one of the most surprising books of the year, for in it America's No. 1 whimsy artist turns brilliant realist. Philadelphia society is satirized in "Kitty Foyle." In Wickford Point [Little-Brown, $2.75], John P. Marquand does a thoro and delicious job of satirizing both a New England family and literary pretentiousness.

Distinguished Authors Meet

Abundant Fare in Short Story Field This Year

BY JOHN BLACKBURN.

Short story lovers will find an abundant and varied store of this kind of literary fare among books published this year. In addition to the usual annual anthologies, there have been several distinctive collections of the works of individual authors.

Edward J. O'Brien, who has been selecting and publishing annually his "Best Short Stories" since 1915, celebrated the 25th anniversary of that project this year with his Fifty Best American Short Stories, 1915-1939 [Houghton Mifflin, $3]. The collection is top notch. Also appearing were Mr. O'Brien's The Best American Short Stories, 1939 [Houghton Mifflin, $2.75] and The Best British Short Stories, 1939 [Houghton Mifflin, $2.50]. Each compilation contains many meritorious examples of contemporary short story telling.

The 21st annual edition of O. Henry Prize Memorial Award Short Stories of 1939, edited by Harry Hansen [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50], includes several exceptionally good pieces. First prize was awarded to William Faulkner for his "Barn Burning."

Altho The Story Survey, edited by Harold Blodgett [Lippincott, $2.90], was intended as a college textbook, its 62 short stories compose a fine anthology. Most of them are by American authors, but English and continental writers also are represented.

One of the year's outstanding collections of stories by a single author was Stephen Vincent Benet's Tales Before Midnight [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50], which brings together some of Mr. Benet's most recent works, including his beautiful "Johnny Pye and the Fool-Killer."

Mazo de la Roche, author of the Jalna novels, also contributed a 1939 volume of short stories, The Sacred Bullock [Little Brown, $2]. Her tales deftly intertwine the lives of a variety of animals and their masters. Irwin Shaw, a promising young author, had his first collection of short stories published. His tales in Sailor Off the Bremen [Random House, $2] deal dramatically and realistically with the every day American scene.

Altho they are far removed from the short story field, three "books about books" which came to this reader's attention this year are worth mentioning because of their unusual nature. Books that Changed Our Minds, edited by Malcolm Cowley and Bernard Smith [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50], is a group of essays by recognized scholars about books of this century which have shaped American trends of thought. Twenty-three Books and the Stories Behind Them, by John T. Winterich [Lippincott, $2.50], gives interesting anecdotes about well known classics, the men and women who wrote them, and the times in which they were written. Wilfred Partington's Forging Ahead [Putnam, $3.50] is an absorbing true story of an amazing man who made a fortune as a collector of rare books and yet was one of the most notorious literary forgers of all time.

His First Acclaimed

First Henry Miller Works Published in This Country

Until now the books of an American, Henry Miller, have been entirely published in France. "The Cosmological Eye" [New Directions, $2.50] is his first collection of writings to be brought out in this country. It presents a small potpourri of his literary activity — stories, sketches, prose, poems, philosophical and critical essays, and an autobiographical note.

BOOKS for CHRISTMAS

We guarantee YOU'LL ENJOY THIS BOOK

HERE is an amazing little book—the true story of an American woman who took hold of life with both fists, won a fortune against tremendous odds, lost it, and started all over again . . .

Like The Grapes of Wrath this book is attracting readers interested in the fighting spirit of American growth and pioneering. And it is must reading for anyone who has ever had anything to do with Oil.

"A regular Tugboat Annie epic" —says Kenneth C. Kaufman in the Oklahoma City Oklahoman—"Here is a story of unbeatable pluck, industry and humanity. Telling the story doesn't give the faintest idea of the richness, the vigor, courage, flavor that goes into it."

These Volumes Sure to Delight Small Children

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Children from 4 to 10 years old revel in fantasies, but they also are delighted by tales about other children, their play, their work, and their pets. This year has given us many excellent books for children in this age group.

Fairy stories with a real sense of humor are rare, and a fairy tale for children by W. Somerset Maugham is rarer still. Your child may have both in Mr. Maugham's Princess September and the Nightingale [Oxford University Press, $2.50]. The little volume is amusingly illustrated by Richard C. Jones.

Minnie the Mermaid, by Tom and Elizabeth Orton Jones [Oxford, 75 cents], is also a fanciful story. It's about small Mick's encounter with a very young mermaid, and has entrancing pictures by Elizabeth Orton Jones. Equally delightful, and similar in format, is Wu and Lu and Li, by Evelyn Young [Oxford, 75 cents], which tells of a day in the lives of three irresistible Chinese children.

Favorite fairy tales, seven in all, have been gathered together by Alice Dalgliesh and illustrated by Katherine Milhous in Happily Ever After Fairy Tales [Scribners, $1.50]. All are given new translations, the Grimm stories being done by the poet, John Hall Wheelock.

Parents will have lots of fun reading to their children Wacky, the Small Boy, by Fred Schwed Jr. [Simon & Schuster, $1.50], a story of a lively youngster; Augustus and the River, by Le Grand [Bobbs-Merrill, $1.50], the record of an urchin's trip down the Mississippi on a raft, and Phil

Large, brightly colored lithographs help tell the story of two little Mexican youngsters and their dog in Pedro, Nina, and Perrita, by Lily Duplaix [Harper, $1.50], and of Kobi, a Boy of Switzerland, by Mary and Conrad Buff [Viking, $2]. The 4 to 10 age group also will like A Pony Named Nubbin, by Martin Gale [Viking, $2]. Fafan in China, by Joe Lederer [Holiday House, $2], is an amusing and informative tale of a little boy's life in China.

Merry Tales from Spain, by Antoniorrobles [Winston, $1.50], contains modern fairylike tales. A boy of 11 on an island in the gulf of the St. Lawrence is the subject of Seabird Island, by Vera Andrus [Harcourt, $1.75], and The Magical Jumping Beans, by Eleanor H. Wilson [Dutton, $1.50], is a story history of Mexico.

Gertrude Stein's first book for children, The World Is Round [Scott, $2.50], has already been reviewed enthusiastically on these pages. It comes in this age group, as does the delightful On a Rainy Day, written by Dorothy Canfield in collaboration with her daughter, Sarah Fisher Scott [A. S. Barnes, $1]. Boys and girls from 6 to 9 will enjoy discovering how children in this book invent games for themselves.

The childhoods of two of our Presidents, Jefferson and Lincoln, are the subjects of Tom Jefferson, a Boy in Colonial Days, by Helen A. Monsell [Bobbs-Merrill, $1.25], and Abraham Lincoln, by Ingri and Edgar Parin d'Aulaire [Doubleday-Doran, $2].

Going on Nine, by Amy W. Stone [Lothrop-Lee, $2], is about a child of 50 years ago. Other books of other days are All Over Town, by Carol R. Brink [Macmillan, $2], and Skippack School, by Marguerite de Angeli [Doubleday-Doran, $2], a tale of Mennonite children in Pennsylvania in the 1700s. Peter Peppercorn, by Ethel C. Phillips [Houghton Mifflin, $2], takes the youthful reader to the early settlements of the Dutch in America.

Books with a musical flavor are: Maxims to Music, which Sigmund Spaeth has set to tunes he has arranged from folk songs and from melodies of great composers [McBride, $2], and Curtain Calls for Joseph Hayden and Sebastian Bach, by Opal Wheeler and Sybil Deucher [Dutton, $2], which contains two short plays about the lives and works of these famous composers together with bits of their music for boys and girls to act out and to play.

Delightful books about animals include: Animals of American History, by Paul Bransom [Stokes, $2]; Barney of the North, by Margaret S. Johnson and Helen L. Johnson [Harcourt, $1.75], and The Long Grass Whispers, by Geraldine Elliott [Putnam, $2].

Youngsters who like Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse will adore having copies of Walt Disney's The Ugly Duckling, adapted from Hans Christian Andersen [Lippincott, $1]; Disney's version of Pinocchio [Random, $1], and his Donald Duck and His Friends, Mickey Never Fails, School Days in Disneyville, and Little Pig's Picnic [Heath, $1 each].

Billy Forget-Me-Not, by Maude M. Tanner [Follett, $1], was written by a dentist to lure small children into taking care of their teeth—and it does!

A Story Book Little Girl

An Array of Amusing Books to Please the Very Little Tot

There are some amusing books for very young children which have not been previously reviewed on these pages and which may be exactly what gift buyers are looking for. Our advice is to go to your favorite bookseller and look at all of the books offered for the age group in which your Christmas problem children are classed before you choose.

A picture book for the very youngest called The Noisy Book [Scott, $1] gives them a wonderful time supplying appropriate noises to illustrate the pictures. The Jolly Jump-Ups, by Geraldine Clyne [McLoughlin, $1.25], is a trick book with three dimensional cut-outs jumping up when the pages are turned. Time for Bed, by Inez Bertail [Doubleday-Doran, 50 cents], is a simple bedtime story, mostly in pictures.

My Little Counting Book, by Gilbert Cousland [Collins, $1], happily teaches, with full page photographs, counting up to 10 and simple time telling. Jonny, by Eleanor Francis Lattimore [Harcourt Brace, $1.25], pictures a lively 2 year old's day, and Lulu, by Charlotte Steiner [Doubleday-Doran, $1], is a little girl's adventure.

Friendly Little Jonathan, by Dorothy and Marguerite Bryan [Dodd Mead, $1], pictures a little Sealyham; 170 Cats, by Zhenya Gay and Pachita Crespi [Random, $1], tells with pictures and a mere framework of text about cats in a lumber camp. Stripey, by Hamilton Williamson [Doubleday-Doran, $1], illustrated by the Haders, is a story of a zebra. Herbert the Lion, by Clare Turlay Newberry [Harpers, $2], is a reprint in fancy dress of a book which delighted grown-ups as well as children—a delightfully improbable tale.

The Adventures of Michael and the Pirates, by Terence Tiernan [Little Brown, $1.25], is another highly improbable tale told in pictures. Mr. Scrunch, by Helen and Alf Evers [Rand McNally, $1], also is fantastic, as is The Whale and the Ferryboat, by Josephine De Witt [Nelson, $1], and Little Toot, by Hardie Gramatky [Putnam, $1.50].

Some books with more text, but still copiously illustrated, are: Dody and Cap-tin Jinks, by Helen Ferris

"Little Toot," the youngest tugboat in New York harbor, has a gay time in a fanciful tale for children told and illustrated by Hardie Gramatky.

[Doubleday-Doran, $1.50], a true story of a little girl and a canary; Kattor, by Georgia Travers [Coward McCann, $1.50], about a toy tiger; Cats for the Tooseys, by Mabel Guinnip La Rue [Nelson, $1], full of pleasant cats drawn by Kurt Wiese, and Scampy, by Dorothy K. L'Hommedieu [Lippincott, $1.50], a story of a little black cocker spaniel with illustrations by Marguerite Kirmse, a famous depicter of dogs.

Recommended for Readers of Ages 10 to 13

Children 10 to 13 years old are going to find a lot of brightly illustrated, interesting books under the Christmas tree this year. Following are a few of the many worthwhile stories that have been written especially for them.

A mountain lion's life is the subject of Chita, by Dorr Yeager [Penn, $2], and the wanderings of an elephant in Africa are told in Tembo, the Forest Giant, by W. J. Wilwerding [Macmillan, $2], who also illustrates his tale. Phil Stong writes a delightful book, The Hired Man's Elephant [Dodd Mead, $2], in which this huge, clumsy creature comes to stay on an Iowa farm. The amusing drawings are by Doris Lee.

Companion volumes, tho not so intended by their publishers, are Quetzal Quest, by Victor W. Von Hagen and Quail Hawkins [Harcourt, $2], and The Silver Fawn, by Ann Weil [Bobbs-Merrill, $2]. The first is about the hunt by two American naturalists for a strange tropical bird, and the second describes adventures in Mexico. Both books are illustrated with verve and gayety.

There's a new juvenile edition of Pilgrim's Progress too, illustrated with fantasy pictures by Robert Lawson [Stokes, $2]. The text has been shortened and retold for modern children by Mary Godolphin.

A good way to insure young interest in operas is to give your children the very entertaining little books by Robert Lawrence. Four in one box are versions for the very young of Aida, Carmen, Lohengrin, and Hænsel and Gretel [Grosset & Dunlap, $2]. Another four at the same price tell the story of Wagner's Ring. Each book is illustrated in color.

James Daughtery has both written and illustrated with robust, vigorous drawings Daniel Boone [Viking, $2], the story of "the farmer who wouldn't stay put."

Peggy Bacon has created an unusual, funny, and exciting book in The Mystery at Eat Hatchett [Viking, $2] which tells how small, red haired Eric comes to the aid of dusky Dilemma when she is accused of stealing a pin belonging to an old lady. S. O. S. Geneva, by Richard Plant and Oscar Seidlin [Viking, $2], has as its theme the strange trek of three children, homeless because of a Danube river flood, to Geneva to appeal to the league of nations for help for their inundated country.

How young Dale, brave and plucky, earns her living in other families' homes is told appealingly by Margery Bianco in a beautifully written book for the eldest of the sub-teeners, Other People's Houses [Viking, $2]. For the same group is an adventure story of Inner Mongolia, The Valley of the Larks, by Eric Purdon [Farrar & Rinehart, $1.75]. The book is illustrated in black and white by Graham Peck.

Instructive Volumes for Young Readers Deal with the West

Two books that tell children about the western part of our country and that hold the interest while they instruct are "California, the Story of Our Southwest Corner," by Grace S. Dawson [Macmillan, $2], and "Farthest West," by Laura Adams Armer [Longmans, $2.50].

The first, which is intended for boys and girls from 8 to 12 years, describes the history of California from the earliest days and goes on to the time of the discovery of gold. The second pictures a group of children who wanted to save a great grove of age-old redwood trees from destruction. It teaches the importance of conservation.

Thoughtful Miss

Three Absorbing Stories of Travel on Land and Sea

"Windjammer Boy," by Roland Barker. [Winters, $2.]

Aloha Baker, who has circled the globe three times in the last eight years, tells in "Call to Adventure" about her first jaunt around the world when she was a 16 year old schoolgirl. Her account of this unusual journey with an American, equipped with a film camera and a specially built Yankee car, is one of the most entertaining stories of true adventure in several seasons. It is packed with exciting episodes, is well written and well illustrated, and has end paper maps.

Howard Pease, author of nearly a dozen lively sea mystery-adventure yarns, recently visited Mexico over the Pan-American highway. With that as a background in "Highroad to Adventure" he has taken the redoubtable Tod Moran, third mate on the Araby and hero in several former books, to our neighbor across the Rio Grande. Tod has as startling a lot of adventures on land as he ever did at sea. This is one of the author's best.

"Windjammer Boy" is an authentic, humorous, and well written account of the author's own experience when a boy on a windjammer voyage around Cape Horn from Australia to England. His father, James P. Barker, author of "The Log of a Limejuicer," was captain. As a colorful picture of an era of sail now almost extinct, this is a worthwhile addition to the sea shelf of any one's library. Altho primarily adult reading, "Windjammer Boy" should be lively entertainment for any boy or girl.

'Bonanza Inn' Is Rare Piece of Americana

"Bonanza Inn," by Oscar Lewis and Carroll D. Hall. [Knopf, $3.50.] Published Friday.

The story of the fabulous old Palace hotel, built in San Francisco in 1875 and the center of the city's most spectacular doings until 1906, when it was destroyed by the great fire, is the subject of this rare bit of Americana.

Between the day when the behemoth was raised—painted pure white [which turned all too soon to the usual gray of cities], studded, apparently, with gold nails, with a fish globe bay window to every room and a central court which had a swish of the Alhambra about it—until the day when even its supersolid foundations were rocked by the great earthquake and its glories went up in smoke, the Palace hotel housed the most succulent of San Francisco's history. The most spectacular bonanza schemes were launched inside the oriental splendor of its walls. Reputations made and lost were in its annals. Foreign royalty adorned it by their presence and bogus titles were more than once penned on its register.

When it burned the élite of the Metropolitan Opera company rushed from its portals clad in various bizarre effects, with, as the authors put it, "notable gaps in their costumes." Paul Plancon "appeared in top hat . . . and with his inevitable boutonniere." "His sangfroid was marvelous," another member of the company reported, but he had forgotten to dye his beard, which he did every ten to dye his beard, which he did every morning, and it was a bright green. Caruso was in a lather. He and Scotti managed to hire a wagon by bidding $300 to transport them with the belongings they had been able to save to the home of a friend at the edge of town. But Caruso refused to sleep under a roof and passed the night under a tree in the yard.

That is the sort of vivid material with which "Bonanza Inn" is filled—intimate stories of famous men and women, infamous gamblers, beautiful gold diggers, and the élite of the gaudiest social life in American history. Mr. Lewis and Mr. Hall, both Californians, have plucked from contemporary source material the brightest flowers of entertainment.

There is, for instance, the tale of the suit brought by the "lady" who came to be known as "Rose of Sharon." She sued the fabulously wealthy Senator Sharon for divorce and a division of property, the suit hinging on the truth or falsity of her claim that she was Mrs. Sharon. The suit delighted San Franciscans for months, and its echoes delighted them for years, and the authors give it a hundred of the 341 pages.

San Franciscans will be goggle-eyed over this book. Juicy morsels of local gossip will be rolled on tongues, and old timers will add their private bits of embroidery to the already brightly stitched tales. Readers elsewhere will be more detachedly intrigued but none the less titillated by "Bonanza Inn."

Tells Hotel's Story

Phil Stong's Latest Novel

"Ivanhoe Keeler," by Phil Stong, [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]

Longer ago than the bonanza days of San Francisco, a century ago, the hero of this novel fiddled his way here and there in the wild middle west, up and down the Mississippi, to Cuba, to the Mexican war, back to a farm in the midwest.

Ivanhoe Keeler is a broken hearted rejected suitor as the book opens—thrice rejected, for not only has his beloved married but she has produced twins. Beginning on practically the first page, Ivanhoe drowns his sorrows in drink and cozens himself with quantities of food, enough to stock a relief station these days. At his very first supper of mourning after he discovers that his heart is broken he puts away so much that the innkeeper is worried about the carpet bag stuffed with $20,000, because it is obvious that Ivanhoe is going to have a good long spell of unconsciousness.

This is a picaresque story of a man "honin' for trouble" [as they say down south], but who always manages to escape it. The half-free Negro whom he takes from a Mississippi river boat captain is not only his perfect valet but philosopher and friend to him. The half-freedom was managed thus: The river captain had paid $800 for the gigantic Negro in New Orleans, but being married to a lady who was a violent abolitionist, the captain had sold the slave back to himself, letting the Negro pay as much on himself as he could each year. Four hundred dollars was still due the captain, and Ivanhoe took the slave at cash value, much to the captain's relief.

"Ivanhoe Keeler" is not Mr. Stong's best novel, and at least part of it bears traces of haste in the writing. But it is a good story.

Bernard Shaw's Kinfolk

"Bernard's Brethren," by C. M. Shaw. [Holt, $3.] Published Monday.

Here is a most amusing literary tidbit—a book by an Australian cousin of Bernard Shaw about not Bernard Shaw himself but his "brethren," the Shaws of Australia and Dublin and their forebears. It was written, so the author explains in "Why I Am Writing This Book," because he had to listen to a lecture about Bernard Shaw without clouting the lecturer, since the audience was a polite one in the swankiest suburb of Melbourne and he was behind "a swollen shirt front, shrinking as far as my bulk would permit me into the wings of my tall collar." That lecture, the memory of another public dissecting of G. B. S. by Frank Harris in his biography, and the fact that Mr. Charles M. Shaw has retired from his desk as a bank manager and from his golfing were the reasons for this book. As he disarmingly says: "I have time on my hands. I have never known what to do with time because I've always worked and therefore I am writing this book."

Down on paper, in that trenchant fashion, went "Bernard's Brethren," and when it was finished C. M. S. sent it to G. B. S. and Bernard was so delighted with it that he scribbled notes all over the manuscript. And here are original book and Bernard Shaw's comments [printed in red] to shed really considerable light on the Shaw background. This is one of those literary curiosities that turn out to be more than mere trivia and become real museum pieces. F. B.

Unusual Books Might Answer Gift Problems

For the person who has everything, even all of the latest books, you may find the exactly right Christmas gift among the unusual items listed here:

Old Possum's Book of Practical Cats, by T. S. Eliot [Harcourt Brace, $1.25], nonsense verses about cats by one of the most distinguished poets of our generation. For the Eliot fan especially, or for lovers of "tigers in the house."

Davy Crockett [Rockland Editions, $5], a collection of extravagant tales and grotesque contemporary engravings from an old and rare file of the Crockett almanacs, published between 1835 and 1856. Howard Mumford Jones contributes a foreword. Good for any one who collects Americana or likes tall tales.

Cora Scovil's Lady's Book, edited by Blair Leonard [Harrison-Hilton, $3.50], a book, "as Mr. Godey might do today," of text and pictures concerning 1940 chic in "literature, fine arts and fashions, foods, behavior, bathroom ballads, and needlework." Amusing for that girl friend who always wants to be the first to know about everything.

The Gentleman's Companion, by Charles H. Baker Jr. [Derrydale Press, 2 volumes, $15], a Tantalus set de luxe, handsomely printed and bound, one volume "An Exotic Cookery Book" of recipes "collected faithfully on three voyages and a quarter million miles around the world," the other "An Exotic Drinking Book," including "a personally collected regiment of world famous, lively, liquid masterpieces." For the man who likes to dabble with spoons, pans, and jiggers, the perfect—and we mean perfect—present.

The Last Flower, by James Thurber [Harpers, $2], who splits sides with his drawings and here does a very nice job of heart splitting about what the world may come to. Destined for practically any one.

John Black's Body, by Ben Martin [Vanguard, $1], another memorable pictorial indictment of war, destined for men. A former soldier especially would think it was grand satire.

The 1940 New Yorker Album [Random House, $2.50], an annual laugh inducer of reprints of the magazine's funniest pictures. For the sophisticated, but not necessarily the ultra.

Pierpont [Scribners, $1.50], with very few words by Maurice F. Hanson and very funny drawings of foxhounds acting all too human by D. T. Carlisle, tells the story of a new deal for dogs. Incidentally Mr. Hanson is a Chicago advertising man, if you know some one who would like "Pierpont" for that reason, but practically any man would love it for itself alone.

Novelist at His Bookshelf

Cookbooks Make Appropriate Gifts for Many Women

Cookbooks often make appropriate Christmas gifts. Practically every woman loves a cookbook. The newest on the market, which are the menu-recipe type, include: The Day-by-Day Cook Book, by Demetria Taylor and Gertrude Lynn [Harpers, $2.50]; Delectable Dinners, by Anna J. Peterson and Nena Wilson Badenoch [Dutton, $2.50]; The Discriminating Hostess, by Ella Liner Lambert [author, $2.50], and Party Menus and Recipes, by Margaret Hewett [Holt, $1.50].

Two cookbooks with regional specialties are The South American Cook Book, by Cora, Rose, and Bob Brown [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50], and Good Maine Food, by Marjorie Mosser [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50].

The most unusual cookbooks of the season are the appropriately titled Fit for a King, edited by Ramiel McGehee [Longmans, $5], and Mary Grosvenor Ellsworth's chatty individual recipes, Much Depends on Dinner [Knopf, $2.50].

For modern time saving cooks there are The Canned Foods Cook Book, by Virginia Porter and Esther Latzke [Doubleday-Doran, $2.49]; Irma Rombauer's recipes for frosted foods, Streamlined Cooking [Bobbs, Merrill, $1.75], and Half Hour Dinners, by Marjorie Abbott [Harian, 50 cents].

To add zest to your dinners the food loving Browns—Cora, Rose, and Bob—have written Soups, Sauces, and Gravies and The Vegetable Cook Book [Lippincott, $1.75 each].

Authors and Their Work

During the 14 years that Carl Sandburg was working on his monumental "Abraham Lincoln: The War Years" he traveled back and forth over the face of America with his guitar singing songs from the "American Songbag" and meeting both the simple and the great, searching out every one he heard of who had had any memories of Lincoln, either first or second hand, keeping a living touch with the dead hero and the forever living myth. That is one reason why, according to his friend Oliver Barrett, one of the intimates to whom the book is dedicated, this intensively documented record is no stiff, statistical, scholar's record, but a simple, moving human story.

Reginald Birch, famous illustrator whose drawings were responsible for the Little Lord Fauntleroy clothes which made small boys of the late '80s feel like sissies, is now 83 years old. His hand is naturally shaky, but, by the strange power of will, it becomes perfectly firm the moment it grasps a pen. This year he made eight water color and 18 pen drawings for the beautiful new edition of Dickens' "Christmas Novels" issued by the Heritage Press. A selection from the famous books which he has illustrated was published this fall in "Reginald Birch—His Book," edited by Elisabeth B. Hamilton [Harcourt, $2.50].

Max Siegel, Chicago bookseller and author of "Boys' Club" [Houghton-Mifflin, $2], had a letter not long ago from India, where two boys had been reading about what lucky American boys do with their spare time. "This is the start of the beetle season," they wrote, in explanation of their own pastimes, "and we go beetle hunting."

Books on Hitler and Stalin Top a Reader's List

BY WILL DAVIDSON.

The despotic ideologies of Adolf Hitler and Josef Stalin are vividly analyzed in two "books of the year" on this reader's list.

The Revolution of Nihilism, by Hermann Rauschning [Alliance, $3], describes Hitler's national socialism as a world revolution, manned by leaders whose sole allegiance is to themselves—a revolution with no goal except its own preservation, completely destructive of every old ideal, and entirely without honor. It is perhaps the best analyses of Nazism.

Equally scholarly is Marxism, an Autopsy, by Henry Bamford Parkes [Houghton Mifflin, $3]. He seeks to show the essential similiarity between Stalinism and Hitlerism by pointing out that dictatorship becomes the inevitable end of the Marxist-Leninist-Stalinist chain of logic.

Union Now, by Clarence K. Streit [Harpers, $3], should be included here because, in proposing a constitutional federation of 15 "states" of the world, it gives a guidepost in these muddled times.

Hitler should be compelled to read at least one chapter from Twilight of Man, by Earnest A. Hooton [Putnam, $3]. That chapter is the one in which the iconoclastic little professor gives a sane, thought-provoking, and fair analysis of the Jewish problem. Prof. Hooton's book, on the whole, is vastly stimulating.

On the American scene is the sturdy narrative of a great industry in Iron Brew, by Stewart H. Holbrook [Macmillan, $2.50]. There also are the lusty tales of the early west and the cattle kings, tales such as We Pointed Them North, by E. C. Abbott and Helena Huntington Smith [Farrar & Rinehart, $3], and The Trampling Herd, by Paul I. Wellman [Carrick & Evans, $3].

Five Cities, by George R. Leighton [Harpers, $3.50], also is a valuable addition to the Americana bookshelf, because of its keen analysis of the pasts of representative communities.

On the Night of the Fire, by F. L. Green [Macmillan, $2], a swiftly paced psychological study that has all the vitality of a corking mystery yarn. Insanity, theft, murder, catastrophe, and pursuit are handled with impressive restraint.

Abel Dayton, by Flannery Lewis [Macmillan, $2.50], a sensitive story of a boy's reaction to the rough existence of a desert way station, the adventures of school, and a frustrating calamity.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

What book would you like most for Christmas?

Where Asked.

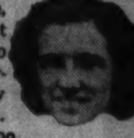
The Answers.

Miss Ruth Schaaf, 42 East Chicago avenue, writer—"Man's Hope," by Andre Malraux. I have just read it, and it is the most moving, exciting, really vital book I've picked up for a long time. It is a book about the recent civil war in Spain.

Andrew Coburn, 333 North Michigan, advertising man—I would like to own Carl Sandburg's new biography of Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln was a great man and a great President, and Sandburg is a great writer. Sandburg's work will do justice to the Great Emancipator.

Miss Ethel Eyre, 42 East Chicago avenue, writer—The work I would like most for Christmas would be Vernon Parrington's "Main Currents of American Thought." It is a review in three volumes of all American writing of quality since the days of the colonists.

Carmen De Salvo, 3041 Flournoy avenue, tailor—If I could have what I wanted for Christmas I'd ask for the new Encyclopedia Britannica. I've been wanting one for years, and I've especially been interested in the new edition.



Miss Rachel Brand, 55 Bellevue place, book sales clerk—Carl Sandburg's "Lincoln." I've read the first volume, and it gives the most revealing insight into Lincoln's life and character of any biography ever written, I believe. It reads like poetry, too.

Moods of Mankind Studied in Sketches by Cartoonist Steig

William Steig, whose unique and humorous drawings of children's pranks and escapades, called "Small Fry," have made thousands laugh, has done something completely different in "About People" [Random House, $2.50]. The sketches in his volume portray moods, emotions, attitudes, and states of mind, most of them common to all mankind. Following are the titles of some of the drawings: "Guilelessness, Show-off, Courtship, Dilemma, Absent-mindedness, Loneliness, Poise, Nausea, and Ennui."

Carl Sandburg's

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

THE WAR YEARS

"Sandburg was born for this particular job, and it has waited for him. A great American democrat has come at last to his most sympathetic and, at the same time, his most searchingly detailed portrait at the hands of another great American democrat. And the portrait seems, at this writing, destined to be one of the tallest sycamores in the forest of American literature, one of the landmarks in the history of our writing."
—Lloyd Lewis, New York Herald Tribune "Books"

"The greatest historical biography of our generation.... Lincoln, 76 years ago this month, made one of the great speeches of all time at Gettysburg.... One sentence a reviewer inevitably feels impelled to paraphrase as judgment of this monumental biography of Lincoln: 'The world will very little note nor long remember what we say here; but it can never forget what he did here.'"
—Fanny Butcher, Chicago Tribune

"Not until Carl Sandburg undertook his great study did any biographer show even a hint of Lincolnian stature.... Even the reading of these four tremendous volumes adds inches to one's height.... When we reach the final moving lines we feel that we have lived and died with Lincoln."
—Sterling North, Chicago Daily News

—Governor Henry Horner of Illinois

Smart Designs Decorate New Silk Squares

BY RHEA SEEGER.

No one who appreciates beauty will want to tie the new printed silk squares around her head. These gay and lovely silk squares are much too beautiful to be used in such a dull fashion.

These are made in America. The colors are delectable and unusual, gage green with magenta, black with tangerine, green with vermilion, gaudy pink with brilliant blue.

The designs are exceptionally effective . . . spotted horses, bustled ladies, beaux of granny's time in mauve trousers, beaver hats, and fancy waistcoats. The very modernistic map effects of plane views of large buildings at night, with each window lighted, make the black and cerise beauties just as exciting as a scarf from Paris.

Just as eye catching are the ascots of printed duvetyn, brilliant roman stripes. These ascots and silk squares have just been unpacked for the raids of the gift seekers. The stores will show you a dozen different ways of tying these squares around the neckline.

Other new gift ideas. . . the glamor bags for evening, breath taking models of embroidered gold or silver thread, glittering sequins, semiprecious stones, some flat envelopes that look like a page from an illuminated missal . . . these positively take your last and best adjective at the first view.

Sophisticates will gloat over the feminine small bags of winking black jet beads. Some are frosted with frames set with rhinestones, others with seed pearls and some all black. Drawstring bags revived for the full skirted gowns of Victorian elegance and charm have long satin ribbons and come in velvet, brocades, and ostrich feathers.

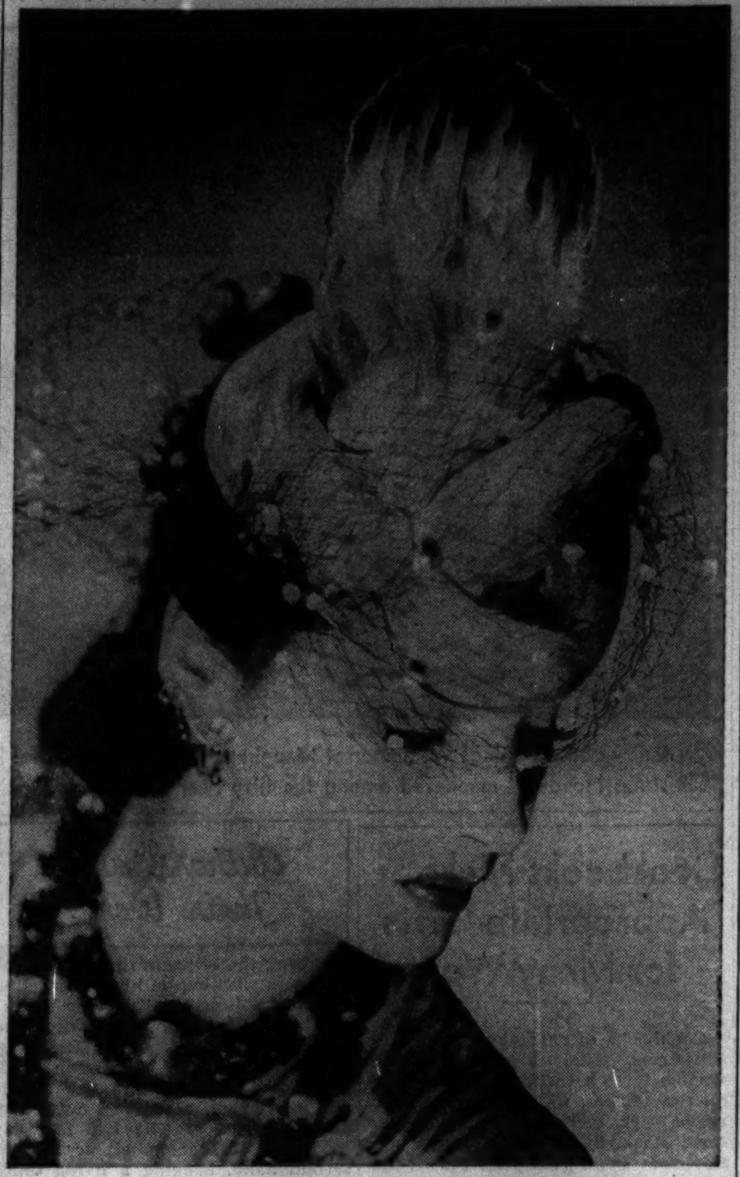
The Housewife

A floor length mirror is well nigh a necessity for every woman, so if you don't happen to have one in your present apartment or house you'll be glad to know about an inexpensive and practical substitute. It's a floor view mirror that is placed at an angle so you see the hemline of your dresses with no difficulty at all. It's no larger than a good sized framed photograph, the mirror frame being similar to a picture frame.

You can carry it around from place to place, and it takes up practically no room. EDITH WEIGLE.

Feather Hats Go with Fur



Soft and infinitely becoming feather hats are effective top contrasts for fur coats, long or short. This model is of heather pink and heaven blue feathers worked in a flattering tricorne. The veil is of navy blue with huge chenille dots of the same pink as in the hat.

Rudolf Serkin Goes to Top of Pianists' Heap

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Rudolf Serkin, an assuming looking young Czech-Russian, who has become one of the world's finest pianists, included in last night's Orchestra hall recital three major works which are seldom — almost never — heard in public.

Bach's "Capriccio on the Departure of a Beloved Brother," a piece full of freshness and sly humor, opened the program. The movements bear such provocative subtitles as "A representation of the various casualties that may happen to him [the beloved brother] in a foreign country," and the music is delightful in the impression it conveys of a great creative mind at play. Certainly the fugue based on the notes of the postillion's horn is as light and pat an example of musical humor as the pianist's répertoire affords.

The obscure Beethoven sonata in F sharp major [Opus 78] followed the Bach. This is an introspective work of little brilliance which most pianists avoid as if it were the plague. Avoided for quite a different reason is the Reger Variations and Fugue on a Theme by Bach with which Mr. Serkin closed the first part of his program.

Here is a monumental work of genuine sublimity but fantastic difficulty. It uses the piano's every resource in an effort [a successful one] to do justice to the loftiness of the musical subjects with which it deals.

These three works profited in their differing ways by the magnitude of Mr. Serkin's gifts. His tone had a gray richness about it which was partly the result of highly skilled pedaling. Mechanically he seems to know no difficulties, and can toss off the most supernatural pages as if they were "Chopsticks." He used all of his technical resources simply to communicate to the audience what he found in the music. Color, dynamics, and all the rest fell naturally into place.

The second part of the evening turned into a sort of virtuoso's field day, with Mr. Serkin playing such student pieces as the Schubert Impromptus and the Mendelssohn "Ronda Capriccioso" at breakneck speed. I am not sure that this sort of thing is so good. In the first place it is sad to think of the students in the audience going home and throwing away their music in despair. In the second place, I wonder whether these naive, dewy little pieces appear at their best under such treatment. Schubert marked E-flat Impromptu allegro, if I remember aright, and not prestissimo. Maybe he would have been as troubled as the students if he had heard last night's performance.

Two of Mr. Serkin's most sensational presentations were the F minor and A minor Etudes of Chopin. With the exception of Godowsky no one I have ever heard could excel Mr. Serkin in the combination of such facility with such loveliness of tone.

ORGAN PIECE BY HINDEMITH

BY CECIL SMITH.

For its scholarship concert in Kimball hall last night Gamma chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota musical fraternity enlisted the services of Virginia Auyer, contralto, and Edward Eigenschenk, organist. Edgar Nelson accompanied the singer.

Mr. Eigenschenk played the second organ sonata by Paul Hindemith, a little known work which, by curious coincidence, had also been performed the preceding evening at the First Unitarian church by Gilman Chase.

The sonata consists of three brief and concise movements, written in a sound organ style that has its roots back in the seventeenth century, for all its modern devices of dissonance. The first movement is an energetic allegro built on a single highly rhythmic theme. The slow movement follows the baroque Siciliana form. The finale is a somewhat acrid fugue. Mr. Eigenschenk measured up well to all its technical demands.

Looking at Hollywood By Ed Sullivan

Closeups.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 5.—At Carmel Myer's party Charles Boyer and Annabella, both of whom have clippered across the Atlantic, engaged in an aerial difference of opinion. . . . "On my last trip," said blonde Annabella, "we had 51 passengers." . . . Boyer said, "Not 51, dear." . . . Annabella persisted: "Fifty-one." . . . "Maybe from Bermuda," said Boyer, apologetically. . . . She thought carefully: "You are right, Charles—only from Bermuda."

Boyer was certain because the captain had told him that only from Bermuda, which requires less gas, could the clipper carry more than 30 passengers.

Miss Dietrich, having curled the world's most publicized legs under her on the couch, continued the discussion of "Destry Rides Again" which we had initiated. . . . "It was the first time that I ever recorded my songs on a sound stage, instead of recording them directly on the set," she pointed out.

"In 'Blue Angel,' when I sang, they recorded the song as I sang it. Nowadays you go thru the motions of singing in a scene, and then later record the song and fit the words to your lip motions. It was all very difficult, particularly for me, because I'm not a fine singer. All I've got is a certain style of 'delivery.'

"My clearest recollection of rerecording my songs in 'Destry' is that of the one very serious man, an expert in synchronization, who kept his eyes fastened on my lips to see that I sang the words just as I'd dummied the song on the set. I'd sing the song beautifully, as I thought, and he'd say, 'You were out of "sync" on the third line of the chorus.'

"When the picture was over I gave him a cigaret case with my lips traced in gold on the cover, so that every time he lights a cigaret he'll have to see if I'm synchronized."

The slimly attractive Marlene, who has taken on a new lease of professional life since her smash success in the George Marshall flicker, is most pleased because in contrast to her Paramount $1,500,000 extravaganza this "western" was completed by Joe Pasternak for $700,000.

"That is what a picture should cost," she observed, "and at that price the performers in it can be assured that the picture will make money. When a picture goes to one million and a half the performers carry a staggering burden."

"Pasternak then knows his business," I suggested.

"I'll never make another picture," she said, "unless he tells me to make it."

Ilona Massey, who will be a big star in this business after "Balalaika" is released, leaves for New York tonight. . . . At luncheon yesterday she was telling me the difficulties a Hungarian has in learning English. . . . "In our language, which has no resemblance to any other," she said, "there is no equivalent to your sound of 'W' and 'th.' I've had to take English lessons three hours a day for the last two years. The chief difficulty for a foreigner is that she thinks in Hungarian and then must translate that thought into English."

There are other difficulties to be overcome. . . . At the sneak preview of "Balalaika" the attractive Miss Massey first wears a peasant costume and then, when she divests herself of that, she is discovered in a slinky evening gown. . . . Immediately the youngsters see this sophisticated beauty, there is whistling and applause. . . . In Hungary whistling is the death knell of a performer, indicating an audience doesn't want to see any more of him or her. . . . So when the audiences started whistling and applauding Ilona thought she was a flop.

But it is in regard to diet that a foreign femme performer is most astounded. . . . In her native Budapest, for instance, eating is a ceremony and lunch time is a two hour ritual quite dissimilar to the drug store sandwich which is gulped hastily in the land of the free and the home of the nervous stomach.

Ilona had her first American lunch at the M.-G.-M. commissary with Billy Grady. . . . In Hungarian style she ordered a soup, a meat dish, a salad, some pastry, and coffee flavored with whipped cream.

Grady's eyes were popping out of his head as she wandered thru the menu. "Miss Massey," he suggested, "the screen exaggerates your weight. You'll have to go on a diet." . . . Since then she's taken off 12 pounds. . . . At lunch yesterday she was eating raw carrots, celery, and ripe olives.

Museum of Science Will Have Complete Miniature Railway

The world's largest and most complete miniature railway system will be installed in the Museum of Science and Industry. The model railway will be open to the public about May 1.

Dr. Philip Fox, museum director, announced that he has accepted the miniature railway as a gift from Edward J. Engel, president of the Santa Fe railroad. The exhibit will be operated continuously and will show not only the railway system but the many industries which it serves. Scenic attractions along the Santa Fe trail also will be shown.

Occupying about 5,000 square feet of floor space, the railroad will be viewed both from the floor and balcony of the east court of the museum.

Bishops Will Explain Plans of Methodists

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The first meeting of the bishops of the Methodist church since the unification of three principal branches of that church last spring will open today in the Stevens hotel and continue thru the week. Thirty-seven of the 43 active bishops will attend.

The visiting bishops will present to Chicago congregations on Sunday the purposes of Methodist advance, the idea of which was formulated at Kansas City last April. The principal features of the advance are:

To carry thru the United States the sense of spiritual oneness so conspicuous at the uniting conference.

To project a program of service commensurate with the latent powers and unparalleled opportunity of the new church.

To proclaim the gospel as embodying the values of life everywhere threatened, and to face the church with a challenge to summon all men to behold the redemptive power of Christ.

To disseminate among Methodists information concerning the history, genius, theology, policy and program of the Methodist church.

To inculcate a new loyalty to Methodist institutions.

To interpret unification to Methodists and to weld them together.

To emphasize the world-wide missionary enterprise.

To promote Christian stewardship and stimulate a greater liberality in the benevolent work of the church.

To lay bare the social and personal sins of our time, and call men to repentance and reformation.

The first event in the Methodist advance program will be a united watch-night service, to be observed in all churches thruout the country on the evening of Dec. 31.

Guedallas to Be Guests at Small Dinners

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN charming Mr. and Mrs. Philip Guedalla come to Chicago every one who has had the pleasure of meeting them on previous visits is delighted and wants to entertain for them. Since they come primarily for Mr. Guedalla, noted English historian and biographer, to lecture, however, they never have time to accept many invitations. On their present visit, which starts tomorrow and ends on Monday, they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker.

Mrs. Meeker has planned a small dinner party for her guests tomorrow night at the Meeker home in Lake Shore drive, and on Saturday she is giving a slightly larger dinner at the Casino. Mrs. Walter R. Kirk has asked a few people to have tea with the Guedallas tomorrow at the Kirk apartment in Lake Shore drive. Mr. Guedalla has been in this country lecturing since late September.

Another popular foreign scholar and author who comes to Chicago to lecture almost every year is the Abbé Ernest Dimnet, who arrived last night. He is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Max Epstein at the Drake hotel. The abbé is lecturing Sunday afternoon at the Palmer House before the Charles Carroll Forum. His subject will be "The Basic Problems of Europe Today."

Many Invitations for Debutante Set.

The daily mail brings invitations to parties galore for the debutante and subdebutante sets. Just received are invitations from Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Logan Garnett for Wednesday, Dec. 27, from 4 until 7 o'clock at the Blackstone hotel. The party will be a tea-dance for the Garnetts' debutante daughter, Miss Shirley Garnett.

Also out are invitations from Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jewell Dick to a debut tea-dance for their eldest daughter, Miss Virginia Dick, from 4 until 7 o'clock the afternoon of Sunday, Dec. 24, at the Dick home, 1206 Tower road, Winnetka.

Adding to the subdebutante gayety during the Christmast holidays is a small dance six young women of the north shore are giving on Dec. 22 at the Indian Hill club. The youthful hostesses will be Barbara Bowes, Ann Northrop, Nancy McCloud, Joan Mercer, Betty Magie, and Sue Marie Sullivan. Miss McCloud, Miss Magie, and Miss Mercer attend the Roycemore school. Miss Bowes and Miss Sullivan go to the Warrenton Country Day school in Virginia and Miss Northrop is at the Baldwin school in Pennsylvania.

Mission of Help Committee Attends Luncheon Today.

Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson is entertaining at luncheon at the Casino today for the benefit committee of the Church Mission of Help which is sponsoring a performance of the Ballet Russe on Dec. 29. Plans will be made at the luncheon for an intensive campaign to sell tickets. The first two performances of the ballet on Dec. 26 and 27 at the Auditorium theater will benefit the National Council of Jewish Women.

Mrs. Arthur Krock had planned to come to Chicago this week to attend the Assembly ball Friday night. Instead she is coming today for the funeral of her father, Alfred Hoyt Granger, who died on Sunday at his home in Roxbury, Conn. Mrs. Krock will accompany her sister, Mrs. Chester Shepard, to Menasha, Wis., for a brief visit before returning to Washington early next week.

Teas Will Open Art Exhibitions.

A tea at the Arts club this afternoon will open two exhibitions, paintings and drawings by Karl Hofer, and water colors by four American painters: Charles Demuth, Preston Dickinson, John Marin, and Jules Pascin.

An interesting tea party tomorrow will be one at the Quest galleries in Tower court that will open an exhibition of new works by Maude Phelps [Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins]. Twenty-two oil paintings and three new pieces of sculpture are in the show.

Doctors W. O. and Phoebe K. Thompson are receiving congratulations on the birth of their third child, a daughter, on Nov. 28 at the Presbyterian hospital. The baby has been named Nancy Kirsten. She has two brothers, Willard Owen, 11, and Frederick C., 10. The Thompsons are known in medical circles for their research work in endocrinology.

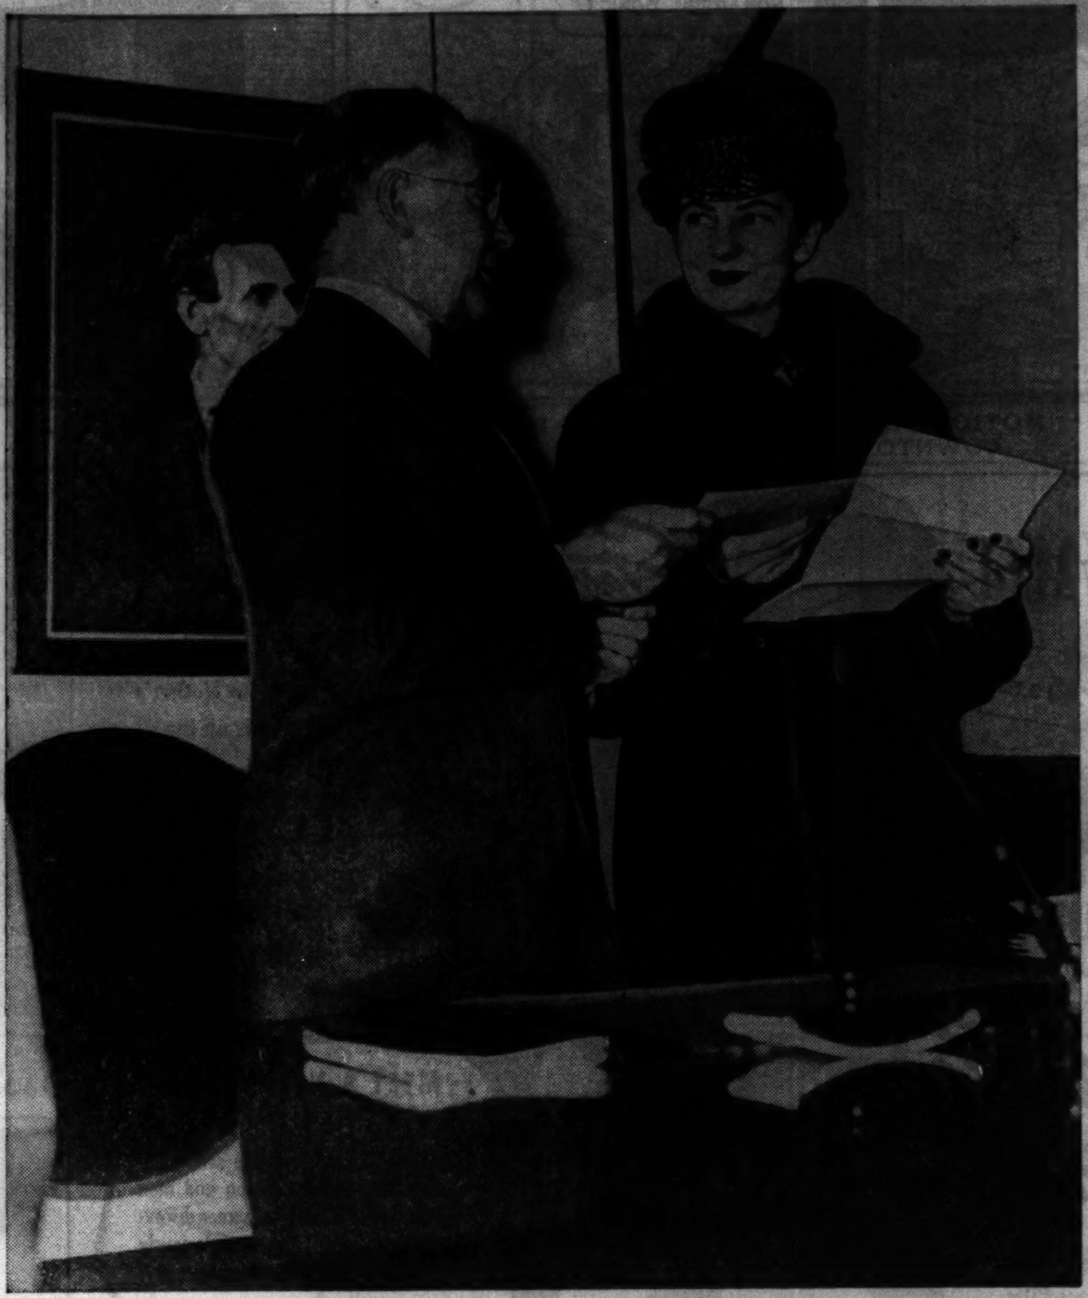
Ravinia Festival Makes a Refund



Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., one of the guarantors of the Ravinia Music festival, yesterday morning received a check for 50 per cent of her contribution from Percy B. Eckhart, chairman of the Ravinia Festival association. Mrs. Dewey's check is one of 275 that were sent to the guarantors of the 1939 season. Mr. Eckhart announced yesterday that the summer concerts by the Chicago Symphony orchestra have been put on a more permanent basis as the result of a new agreement with Mrs. Louis Eckstein, who each year donates the use of the park. Mrs. Eckstein has promised that the park will be donated for at least five years. A record attendance of 68,682 persons heard 24 concerts last summer. All members of the association have been reëlected.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

After looking the field over, we honestly feel that the gifts for men are more original and attractive than they've been in many years past. The head of the house should fare very well this season; the harried women shoppers can easily get away from the dull old stand-bys.

As always, the toilet goods counters are good shopping centers. Shaving aids predominate, nicely packaged and nicely priced, but colognes for men and special bath preparations that suit their maculine tastes are also in abundance.

Lavender remains a fragrance acceptable to all men, so that's a safe bet any time. One of the best sets we've seen offers three preparations in this clean, fresh scent, neatly boxed together and costing remarkably little.

The most important item in the trio is a shaving bowl. The soap is wonderful, as thousands of men users can testify. They like its blandness and its crisp fragrance. They like the wooden bowl, which resists moisture and makes the soap last indefinitely. The beauty of the wooden bowl is that the cake doesn't slosh around in it; it stays firm and can be used down to the last smidge.

Its companion piece is an after shaving lotion, also lavender scented. The gentlemen tell us that this is one of the most pleasant of fresheners and that its mildly astringent zip is just what they like.

The third article in the threesome is invisible talc, soothing, fine and flesh tinted.

Lack of Time No Excuse in Beauty Realm

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"It is not unusual to hear career women complain that they do not have the time to take care of themselves,' says Edith Meiser, author. "They feel that they have a legitimate excuse in apologizing for their dowdy personal appearance when they say they are too busy. Actually, this is merely a cover-up for laziness or negligence."

Miss Meiser, who is a very busy woman herself, tells us that taking care of one's health and beauty is just a matter of developing a habit, the same as brushing your teeth or bathing.

"All women who are busily engaged in work certainly find time to brush their teeth. There is no reason," she says, "why they cannot work out a schedule which would include a few minutes of personal attention to their figures.

"I know there are a number of women who do not enjoy trekking around to beauty salons, nor can they spare the time. But I think they will find the few slimming exercises they do at home will do the trick."

There is no special equipment necessary, she says. The exercises may be taken at night or in the morning, as one prefers. Miss Meiser usually takes her exercises before going to bed because she believes it helps induce sleep and restfulness.

She suggests one good "setting up" exercise. Stand in front of a table, chair, or your piano. Then place one leg on a piece of furniture so that it rests easy from the knee to the foot. Bend from your wast, with arms outstretched, so that your fingertips can touch the tips of your toes. Then straighten up. Repeat this at least 15 times and then alternate, using the other leg. This workout is excellent for removing excess weight on the hips or around the waistline. It also strengthens the muscles in your thighs so that there is no flabby skin.

WEDDING

Miss Mary McMahan and John Emmett Hogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hogan of Chicago, will be married in St. Ignatius' church after the holidays. Their engagement was announced in California by Miss McMahan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas George McMahan of Beverly Hills and Chicago. Miss McMahan was graduated from the Marymount school. Her fiancé was educated at Loyola university. The McMahans will be in Chicago until after the wedding.

Antiquarians Greet Wife of New Curator

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The wife of the new curator of decorative and of industrial arts at the Art institute nearly stole the show from the galleries of the new Allerton wing that were previewed at a tea the Antiquarian society of the institute gave yesterday afternoon.

"He has such a pretty wife," members of the society commented to one another after they had met Meyric R. Rogers, the new curator, and Mrs. Rogers, who was making her first "official" appearance at the institute. Mrs. Rogers, who is slim and lovely looking, and the Rogerses' two children, Edith Elizabeth, who is 10, and Meyric Kirk, 7, won't move here from their home in St. Louis until next spring, after the school term.

Robert Allerton, who gave the wing to the institute, was not present. He expressed delight in having the Antiquarians sponsor the preview—his mother, the late Mrs. Samuel Allerton, was a member of the society—but excused himself from the party and left for his home in Honolulu at the time the invitations went out.

In the wing, which will be opened to the public today, are displayed many of the gifts of the Antiquarians to the institute and many beautiful old pieces that have been loaned to the Antiquarians or the institute. A stunning 16th century French tapestry that has been loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer hangs in the first room. It is flanked by a pair of 13th century iron Spanish candelabras that were the gift of the late Martin A. Ryerson.

The Institute of Medicine last night cited Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen and Edward L. Ryerson Jr. for citizen fellowships in the organization at its 24th annual meeting in the Congress hotel. Both received the citation for their outstanding accomplishments in social service.

In presenting Mrs. Bowen, Dr. James B. Herrick recalled her part in the founding and development of the Juvenile court, her work with the Juvenile Protective association, which she headed for 35 years, and similar activities in which she participated as a leader in the Woman's City club. Mrs. Bowen, who is 80 years old, was born in Chicago. She was Louise De Koven before her marriage.

Mr. Ryerson was presented by Dr. Vernon C. Davis. The fellowship was conferred upon him particularly for his work with the Community fund, the United Charities and the Council of Social Agencies.

Dr. William C. Danforth, Dr. Ludvig Hektoen and Dr. Grant H. Laing were elected to the governors' board of the institute for five years.

Cinderella House.

This is a kind of Cinderella story—of a house. The old gray structure at 856 North State street has long worn a sorrowful, hang-dog expression. Its windows were dusty and rain-spotted, its interior caked with the dirt of disuse. The paper hung in tatters from the walls, and the doors creaked eerily in the breeze that blew thru broken panes.

"Just the place for our headquarters," said Roy Hudson, director of the Hudson players, an enterprising Chicago theatrical guild. The thirty members of the group agreed, with dubiety in their tones.

The thirty members got to work. As most of them are employed by day, it meant that their evenings, Sundays, and holidays were spent renovating and repairing. Floors were scrubbed by candlelight and with cold water, until arrangements could be made with the utilities. A rehearsal stage miraculously sprang up at one end of the double room on the main floor; color brightened the walls and moldings; odd bits of furniture found their way in.

Two plays have been produced—Noel Coward's Tonight at 8:30 and The White Sister. The Wodehouse comedy, Baa Baa Black Sheep, is next, and other plays scheduled are Wingless Victory, Kiss the Boys Good-bye, No. 9 Pine Street, and Dark Victory.

• • •

The fact that the initial remodeling has been completed and that the second floor living quarters and dormitories are in running order does not mean that work is done. Usually on Saturday you'll find a scenery crew making a set, or a cleanup crew routing out a week's dust. Each week-night rehearsals and classes are in progress. At the end of a strenuous evening the "kitty" provides tea, and crackers, and cookies. The old house rings to laughter, and voices, and young enthusiasm.

Subway Riders.

"Ah, pigeon fancier?" said an acquaintance.

Overheard

Danger on the Border

By FREDERICK R. BECHDOLT

[Copyright: 1939: By Frederick R. Bechdolt]

INSTALMENT XXI.
A TIMELY RESCUE.

The smoke was thick, it was like a black fog on the wet flatlands by some eastern river. There were several men sitting about the sides of the room, their forms were vague and gray, they were like the forms of disembodied spirits. Their cigarets made little red spots and the faces behind these spots were pale blotches in the dimness. The only things which seemed to be alive were the eyes, and they remained fixed, they did not move. The man who had opened the door and slammed it shut when Anna screamed, was lying in a corner, stunned.

The noises beyond the partition were growing louder. Leonard was starting toward the door which led into the corridor, when Mestres and Plutarcho passed him on the run. He saw a revolver in the former's hand, he heard Mestres say:

"We two will handle them. Go and look for her."

One of the smokers was stirring, the vague form swayed under the pungent wreaths which hovered lazily, twining and unwinding midway between the floor and the low ceiling. He was murmuring impatiently. Then the movement ceased and the querulous murmur died to a long sigh. There was no sign of life in the room when Leonard followed his two companions.

They were standing in the narrow corridor, and the door which led into the gambling room was open, the players were surging toward it, the place was in wild disorder, the chairs were overturned. As Leonard looked, a table tilted and went over with a crash, spewing cards and chips and money on the floor. Two men were struggling to pass each other within the narrow doorway. One of them was the lank crap dealer, his sallow face was without any sign of excitement save for the eyes; they were glowing like two coals, the pupils so widely dilated that none of the iris showed about them. Mestres was holding his revolver leveled; he was saying:

"You will get back now, everybody."

"Drop it and put your hands up." As the other complied, Mestres reached forth with his left hand, he plucked the weapon from its belly holster and thrust it behind his back.

"Take it," he called. But Leonard had already gone on by. He ran up the hallway, carrying the picture of Mestres with the two weapons in his hands, of Plutarcho standing half a pace behind him with a long bladed knife balanced on his huge palm. He heard the former saying:

"Do not move, any one." And after that there was silence.

The stillness was as violent, in its contrast, as the uproar which had preceded it. It held the tight suspense of unknown elements, of unseen things. It was laden with a hundred threats.

The scream had come, as nearly as he was able to judge, from the rear portion of the building. There were three doors ahead of him. He opened the first.

It was black dark inside the room. He stepped across the threshold and slid along the wall, all in one swift movement; he stood there, listening. The faint light of the hall lamp cut a widening pathway upon the floor covering of gleaming linoleum, it was divided into squares of blue and red, with a white calla lily in the center of every square. He saw the lower portion of a table leg projecting downward from the darkness, and the corner of a kitchen stove. He felt the warmth of a dying fire. He was holding his breath, striving to catch the slightest sound.

Something stirred ahead of him. He stood rigid, and the slight movement became more definite. He heard a grating, as of one stone against another. Then he realized that it was a mouse gnawing the woodwork under the floor. He breathed again and slipped out into the corridor.

From the side of his eye he had a glimpse of Louis Mestres and Plutarcho. They had not moved since he had last seen them; there was no sound in the room which they were facing.

He gained the next door and threw it open. The light was burning here. He looked upon the spotless bedroom with its immaculate white furniture; it was empty of life. Then he heard some one moaning in the room beyond.

A moment later he was standing in the doorway.

Anna was on her knees. The interval that had passed since Pat took the cup and flung its scalding contents had been filled with large action, yet it was so brief in point of actual time that the brown stain was still spreading over the front of her white dress. Her head was in her hands and she was moaning. As Leonard's eyes fell on her, she started to rise.

He saw the cots beside the wall, and on the nearer one the girl whom he was seeking. He saw the reddish bruise where fingers had been clutching her soft throat. Her eyes were wide with horror; they were fixed upon the man who stood over her. In that instant while death hovered above her, she was unconscious of all other things.

The doctor was standing with his back toward the door. He held a leather blackjack in his hand; his arm rose until the weapon hung limply above his shoulder. He was gazing down upon the girl, picking the spot where the blow was to fall. There was no trace of feeling in his big pale face; it was as cold and passionless as if the bludgeon which he held were a scalpel, as if he were bending over a patient on the operating table, selecting the exact spot where he was about to make the incision.

Anna's hands dropped to her sides. Her face was twisted with pain, the mark of the scalding liquid lay across her pallor like a red brand. She uttered a sharp cry, and she was pointing at Leonard when the doctor whirled around.

The hand that held the blackjack was still upraised, the large white face had not taken on a shred of expression.

Anna was running toward the two men as they leaped at each other. They met in the middle of the room, and the doctor struck. It was a vicious blow; it was aimed at the vulnerable spot on the temple beneath the wide rim of the cork helmet.

Leonard saw it as it started, and he swerved his body from the hips; he felt the wind from the blackjack brushing his face as he threw his left fist across the outstretched arm. His knuckles stung from the impact on the heavy jaw.

The doctor staggered and Leonard was lashing out with his right fist when Anna leaped upon him from behind and the blow went wild. He saw the blackjack swinging upward again; it was about to fall, and he knew that if it did he was thru for good and all and in this moment when he had come to her the girl on the cot was about to die.

It was no time for fair fighting. The amenities, which have grown into a tradition during the generations since the prize ring became an Anglo-Saxon tradition, were as out of place in this room as they are wherever lives hang on the issue of a battle. And he remembered something which he had learned while he was a youngster.

It seemed a long time ago; it was in point of fact only a few years. He had been a student in Freiburg then, one of a flock of mining engineers and geologists who had come from all over the world to perfect themselves for their professions, and he had learned this Gaelic trick from a young Frenchman.

Anna's arms were about his shoulders; he could feel her sharp nails tearing the flesh on his face; her weight was bearing him down. He summoned all his strength for the effort as he lifted one foot and swung it back. And now, as he spun on the other foot, launching the kick, the burden which had hampered him before was giving him added force. His toe sank deep into the doctor's midsection far below the waist.

The blackjack thudded on the floor and the three of them crashed down beside it. The fingers which had held the weapon twitched and were still. For several seconds the only sound in the place was the moaning of the doctor. Leonard threw the woman from his shoulders and snatched the weapon as he rose. He stepped across the two prostrate forms and he ran to the cot; he picked up Pat. She started to say something.

"It's all right now. Don't try to talk," Leonard bade her. He was conscious of sudden elation. It was not triumph. It was a feeling of tenderness, of possession; it was as if the soft burden in his arms was something which he had been seeking for a long time, something which he had gained by great effort and would never relinquish.

I can't think of another food which excels sauerkraut in its ability to stimulate the appetite. Cold sauerkraut served as a salad is tantalizing; sauerkraut and tomato juice can't be beat as an appetizer, and hot sauerkraut with spareribs or Thüringer sausage, German style, is a dish to be regarded lovingly in the eating.

If you don't want the house to have a krauty odor, don't overcook the fermented cabbage. Don't overcook it anyway, for it tastes much better when slightly crisp rather than completely wilted.

Thüringer sausage is a cured, cooked product, and doesn't need long heating, either. Simmer it, covered, in a small amount of water, just long enough to heat it thru. Sauerkraut may be heated with it, or separately. Ten minutes cooking time should be sufficient for both foods.

To complete a quick but satisfying supper, add other edibles after the fashion of this menu.

Thüringer Sausage with Sauerkraut
Creamed Potatoes
Buttered Frozen Peas
Tomato-Cottage Cheese Salad, Thousand Island Dressing
Rye Bread
Pears in Ginger Sirup
Coffee

Peel potatoes and cut them into rather small pieces to save time in cooking. Boil in salted water until just tender, then add to a medium white sauce and serve at once, or keep hot in the top of a double boiler until the rest of the meal is ready.

To make the salad, place a slice of tomato on lettuce or other greens for each salad, top with a scoop of cottage cheese, and add the dressing. French or mayonnaise may be used.

The pears should be cooked as soon as potatoes have been set to boil. Peel, cut in halves, and core fresh pears, one for each person to be served. Drop them into a sirup made by boiling 1 cup sugar and 1 cup water together for 5 minutes. Add a teaspoon or two of chopped candied or preserved ginger, and simmer gently until pears are tender. This amount of sirup is enough for four pears.

Chill the ginger pears and serve them in sherbet glasses with the sauce poured over them.

Plain cookies may be served with the pears, if desired.

N. U. to Hold Conference on Vocational Guidance

Problems facing young men and women about to embark on business and professional careers will be discussed at a vocational guidance conference at Northwestern university tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday. The conference will be held on the Evanston campus. The following group meetings will be held: hotel and restaurant management, transportation, physical science, applied art, clinical psychology, secretarial jobs, manufacturing, politics, homemaking, and engineering.

Physicians Open Offices to Fight Political Rule

The opening of national offices here for the National Physicians' committee for the extension of medical service was announced yesterday by Dr. Austin Hayden, secretary of the organization. The offices are at 700 North Michigan avenue. "The committee, which is nonpolitical and nonprofit, has been organized to educate the people in the fallacies of the argument for political control of organized medicine," said Dr. Hayden.

Your Stars Today
By WYNN

Wednesday, Dec. 6.

A rather strong and somewhat pessimistic vibration lurks just below the surface today, especially during business hours. Avoid yen to get revenge, to feel sorry for yourself. Evening sees this fade: opportunity to improve self.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead is opportune—think hard, work hard, merit, especially Feb. 26-April 4. Romance, affection, stimulated; more pleasure. Avoid new upsets with regard to health, inferiors, neighbors, now to mid-March. Danger: Sept. 8-20, 1940.

Tomorrow.

Routine the morning; take nothing for granted in afternoon.

You can now get your 1940 individual interpretation for your own personal date plus the balance of this year. Every important period is indicated for you, according to the laws of astrology. Send 10 cents to Wynn, Tribune Astrologer, 288 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Write plainly your name, date of birth, and address.

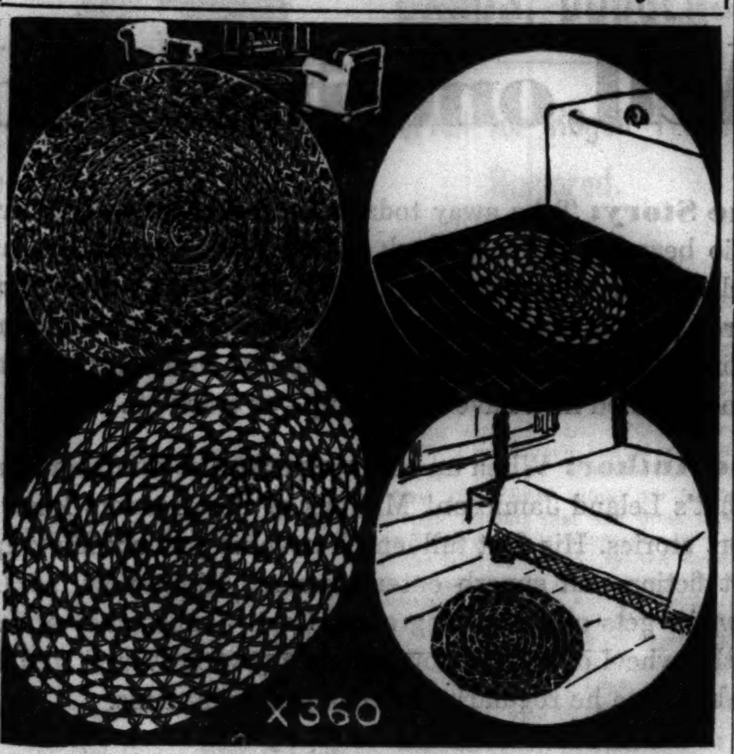
Rug Made from Castoff Hosiery



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

The ideal crocheted rug is made from castoff silk hosiery or men's socks and two shades of carpet warp. These rugs may be used in any room, and may be either round or oval, with the color scheme matching that of the room. Boilproof carpet warp makes the most satisfactory rugs, and in case there is not enough silk hose, strips of discarded dresses may be used.

For instructions in crocheting the round and oval rug of silk hosiery and carpet warp, No. X-360, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

"At our table the bidding proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	2 diamonds	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	2 no trump
Pass	Pass	Pass

"East-West took a bottom on the board, as we set them two tricks. The West player, who is considered one of the local experts, took more than a minute to bid his two no trump. After the play he asked me: 'Your partner's double was for a take-out, wasn't it?' I answered: 'Yes, it was a take-out double.' As soon as I answered he wrote 'passed out' on the traveling score sheet and called the director. He repeated the above conversation to the director and the latter told us that we would have to accept the neutral score. I could read the director's mind and his sympathy for me, so I did not talk further and left West satisfied.

"When I passed to North's take-out double it seemed to me that it would be better to try to set them than to bid two spades or three clubs. They were vulnerable and we were not. Should I have said 'It is a take-out double, but I pass for penalties' when West asked me? Anyway, I learned that I must speak very carefully and must study the bridge laws. I can't understand, however, that it was right to give a neutral score on this board. Please give me the reason and your judgment."

I have deliberately omitted even the initials of the above correspondent because I fear that he will be in trouble with his erstwhile opponents and the director when they see my answer.

From time to time instances of outrageous directorial rulings come to my attention and this is a thoroughly typical one. It is perfectly obvious that people are running duplicate games, and sometimes even minor tournaments, who have no license to be in a bridge club or playing room. Either they know virtually nothing about bridge laws, or their conceit and arrogance are so overwhelming that they take it upon themselves to supersede those laws.

In the case in question my correspondent, South, was not only entirely within his rights in passing to the take-out double made by his partner, but, moreover, took precisely the correct action and the one that would be taken by every expert. As almost every bridge player knows [and certainly as duplicate directors should know], a double intended for a take-out can be converted by a pass to the penalty variety any time the supposed responder feels like converting it. No doubt it will come as a shock to this particular director when I say that bridge conventions are made for the guidance and convenience of the pair that uses them, not for the benefit of their opponents, and that said conventions may be abrogated at any time, provided, of course, that no private, secret understanding exists between partners.

It may and may not impress the director in this case to be informed that he took part in a piece of highway robbery. West's claim for a neutral score should have been laughed out of court.

Child Attaches Importance to Gifts You Make

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The longer I live and the more I see of older boys and girls, and the closer I get to them thru casual remarks or actual confidences, the more I believe that they live a life of which we are not aware.

Listen to their snatches of reminiscence about their childhood, hear them open up when sick or "low" or convalescent, and you'll realize what I mean. Things that happened when they were little—the furnishing of the house you tried to make attractive—the geranium filled window boxes you had always for your living room, a little elephant lamp that you drew over to their supper tray when they were sitting up in bed with a cold—these or other things you may discover were important or enchanting or observed by them when perhaps you hadn't realized it. All sorts of events and objects that you little suspect add up to an interesting childhood and are retained later in happy memories of one.

Christmases, I think, are not only among the loveliest events of childhood, but the fondest to remember. As I recall those of our earlier years, the blend is so rich I can hardly separate it into its parts, but in thinking of presents, one sort of thing stands out. The presents that my mother made always gave me a special thrill.

If Christmases come and go without your contributing any of your handiwork to them, I think you've missed something and I think your children have. "My mommie knitted this little sweater for my baby doll." My mommie made this little silk quilt for my Susan dolly's bed. My mommie made this red coat and cap and socks for my big doll." There's love as well as attractiveness mingled in doll's clothes you've made yourself.

"Christmas Gifts Mother and Father Can Make" is a leaflet obtainable on request. Inclose a large self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, Chicago Tribune.

ENGAGEMENTS

From Waltham, Mass. comes the announcement of the engagement of Miss Elisabeth Willson Anthony to Roldon Philip Dressler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roldon Franklin Dressler of Wheaton. Miss Anthony, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred William Anthony Jr., is a graduate of the Colby Junior college and is attending the Boston School of Occupational Therapy. Her fiancé was graduated from Dartmouth college and is attending the Harvard law school. No date has been set for the wedding.

Rabbi and Mrs. Emanuel Sternheim of Lafayette, La., announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth R., to Stanley J. Burger of Chicago. The wedding will take place in Lafayette early in January.

Blouse in Latest Versions

WOMAN'S AND MISS' JACKET BLOUSES.

The latest costumes for daytime and both informal and formal evening wear are featuring the blouse. It is a glorified version of the style, often with embroidery, applique, beads, metallic braid, or some other trimming to distinguish it from the run of the mill variety of topper. The two patterns today create blouses you will like to wear for afternoon parties, the theater, dinner, and formal affairs. They are cut along figure-hugging lines, and are trimmed with gold or silver applique, made with pattern No. E-11185, available for 10 cents extra. The blouses themselves may be either woolen or crêpe.

Style No. 2730 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material for long sleeved blouse.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Schoolgirl Is Wise to Pick Friends Well

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 15. I spend most of my evenings at home studying, sewing or reading, while my girl friends sit in parked cars with boys. They think their way of enjoyment is much better than mine. Which do you think is the better, and why?
"A READER."

Our guess is that they'll get the short end of happiness if they persist in following this idea of fun. They'll not only acquire shady reputations, but they are taking the kind of chances we prefer not to mention.

Keep on the way you're doing, Reader. By studying you're getting a good education. By sewing you're learning how to make attractive clothes, and other nicknacks which should prove useful. By reading you're not only improving your mind, but you're making yourself into a much more interesting personality than you would be were you neglecting this source of information. We hope you're including in your reading routine instructive material.

We urge you, however, not to develop into too much of a stay-at-home. At your age you should have sensible contacts with boys and girls your own age. Be interested in extra-curricula activities at school. Invite your girl friends to your home. Ask your parents to let you include a few nice boys, occasionally, in your group. Make it a habit to go window shopping now and then to keep up with the latest style trends. Read the newspapers daily. Listen to the radio.

Go to the movies. And, above all, without being too "snooty," choose your friends. By that we mean have good friend to boys and girls alike. Make them think of you as a good pal. If you will make your friends proud to know you because you are as attractive looking as you can make yourself, as good a friend as can be had, you will have lots of dates when you are old enough to have them.

CAR LINE OWNERS FINISH PLEA TO COURT'S ADVISER

City Is Offered Chance to Reply Today.

Hearing on the objections of security holders of the city transit lines to certain provisions of the unification ordinance proposed by Mayor Kelly was concluded yesterday before Walter A. Shaw, special master of the Federal court. Shaw then asked William H. Sexton, special transit counsel for the city, if he wished to answer the objections.

"I have nothing to say at this time," Sexton replied, "for I do not formulate the city's policy. That is up to the mayor and the local transportation committee. The mayor has explained his position previously and the matter must be threshed out before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson next Monday."

Judge Wilkerson was to have heard the leading points of controversy between the city and the lines this week, but because he is ill at home with a cold, he directed Shaw to conduct the sessions. Shaw continued the hearing to this morning in the event Sexton does decide to make a statement.

URGES RELIEFERS TO TAKE JOBS AND FEAR NO PENALTY

Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief administrator, assured relief clients yesterday that their status will not be endangered if they accept temporary employment. He made the announcement as the result of a conference with a number of aldermen in whose wards reliefers said they feared they might be penalized by taking such work.

"We wish to make it clear to every employable person being aided by the Chicago Relief administration," Lyons said, "that employment is the final solution to his problem. We are, therefore, calling his particular attention to the fact that he will not be penalized for taking temporary employment."

Under the arrangement those reliefers who lose their jobs after working less than three months will be given immediate assistance upon application. If the job lasts more than three months the reliefer's application will be given immediate attention so that aid may be given as soon as the applicant's needs are verified.

WANTS INMATES TO BUILD REFORM SCHOOL'S ROADS

William T. Harmon, superintendent of the St. Charles School for Boys, yesterday was awaiting an opinion from Attorney General John E. Cassidy on the legality of his plan to put 50 incorrigible inmates to work building roads at the site of the proposed new security home. The site, 273 acres on the Fox river near Sheridan in La Salle county, was chosen Monday by a state commission.

Harmon said his plan would remove from St. Charles without delay a group of older boys who cause the most trouble. They would live in army style barracks and work under guard.

Senator Thomas P. Gunning [R., Princeton], commission chairman, and several other legislators opposed Harmon's proposal. All contended the inmates might not be housed securely enough to satisfy public opinion.

Seventy-six St. Charles inmates have escaped this year.

MOTHER CLAIMS BOY SHE LOST IN SHOPPING RUSH

Paul Felcyn, 7 years old, who became lost from his mother in the loop shopping rush Monday and spent the night in the Juvenile home, was back with her yesterday in their bungalow at 2604 New England avenue. Judge Frank Bicek of the Juvenile court warned the mother, Mrs. Irene Felcyn, to exercise closer watch over the boy and ordered an investigation of their living circumstances.

After he was lost, Paul was taken to the Central police station and his mother was notified. She said she had been having trouble with him and didn't seem worried, so Paul was removed to the Juvenile home. Later Mrs. Felcyn, sobbing, tried to get her son out, but she was told he would have to stay in the home overnight.

Yesterday morning she told Judge Bicek that she had misunderstood the police and thought the boy was waiting for her in a courtroom, not in the station.

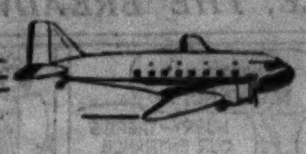
TODAY IS POST DAY



WHY DOESN'T AN AIRLINE PILOT WRITE A NOVEL ABOUT FLYING?

Well, one just did!

The Story: Take away today's lighted airways; take away radio beams and you're back in the '20's . . . with the hard-shelled pilots who flew the mail "by the seat of their pants." Here's a novel of one reckless flyer who inherited a bankrupt airline, a handful of insubordinate pilots, and a girl manager who predicted he'd have to grow up—or crack up.

The Author: When an expert flyer is also an expert writer—that's Leland Jamieson! Millions of Post readers know his short stories. His first full-length novel is part autobiography, part fiction—all superb entertainment. Right now, as High Frontier gets off to a flying start, Capt. Jamieson is probably at the wheel of a DC-3 somewhere between Miami and New York, where he regularly flies day and night runs.

HIGH FRONTIER

In this same issue:

HOLLYWOOD HUSBANDS HAVE SO-O-O MANY PROBLEMS! Reuben Rosen, Hollywood's Boy Wonder, was a wow at changing scripts into happy endings. But could he kill his wife's infatuation for her new leading man? (Quick, get the script-girl!) A short story, Suggestion for a Happy Ending, by Edith Fitzgerald.

THE PLAIN PEOPLE FACE THE WAR. The author of the article on page 8 of the Post, John W. Vandercook, recently talked with French shopkeepers, peasants, heard their stories; then motored into Germany and spent hours with Nazi small-town leaders. New insight on how the common people of two countries are taking it.

THOMASHEEN JAMES AND THE DEEP-SEA-PILOT CAP. Have you been following the rascally misadventures of this man-of-no-work? In this week's Post, he borrows ten shillings for a flying trip to the pawnshop. Object: to buy dress pants. Puzzle: How ever could he have got so drunk and disorderly with only ten bob? (See page 18.)

WILD COYOTES BREAKFASTED WITH US! Snowed in eight months of the year, seven thousand feet up in the High Sierras, the author of this unusual nature article and her husband actually tamed wild coyotes, taught them "table manners" if you please! Read The Coyotes Come.

MARRY FOR LOVE—REPENT AT LEISURE. A boy of nineteen marrying a woman of thirty-one? It won't last, people were saying. But the wife, desperately in love, had the courage to find out. Read Please Let Me Come Home, by Helen Deutsch.

THE WINDBAG. Bill Russell had a jaw that wagged like perpetual motion. When Sabitha, the minister's daughter, heard that the boys were whipping up a little sweepstakes on whether she would marry him or not, he was in one fix his galloping tongue couldn't cure! A humorous short story, He Sort of Got to Talking, by David Lamson.

IS IT STILL SMART TO BE RED? An article on page 25 by Eugene Lyons gives you a Who's Who of Communism's élite . . . how they line up unsuspecting professors, naive clergymen, writers, and "society" folk with intellectual pretensions as a front for their propaganda . . . and how they put the heat on authors, editors, and book reviewers who dare to criticize Stalin's "democracy."

You will also be interested to read, on the Editorial page of this week's Post, the label the Editors have for "one calling himself an American citizen who . . . receives and executes in this country political instructions from a foreign source."

"TOO YELLOW TO PLAY FOOTBALL?" He was on the sidelines now. He was the guy who had broken Billy Cooper's leg. The guy 85,000 people were waiting to boo. And today was Game Day. A short story by Paul O'Neil.

ARE THEY AMERICANS OR POLES? Do emigrants—Poles, for example—make good American citizens? Louis Adamic traces the history of Stefan Meleski and his family, who came to the Land of Opportunity, and shows where they have gone in two generations. They Came From Pomerania.

AND . . . HELEN HAYES' FIRST PROPOSAL. More in the intimate letters of Helen Hayes' life, written by her mother. . . . The conclusion of Nordhoff and Hall's new novel of comedy in Tahiti, Out of Gas . . . poems, editorials, Post Scripts, cartoons. All in the Post—out today.

THE GUMPS—HELPLESS

N. U.'S 2D HALF DRIVE DEFEATS CARLETON, 30-14

Veterans Stir Purple After Slow Start.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

At the end of 10 minutes last night in the inaugural basketball game in Patten gymnasium, Northwestern's Wildcats were trailing Carleton, 6 to 0. Then the veteran forwards, Al Butherus and Charles Melchoir, came from the sidelines to stir their lethargic mates and Northwestern finished the half leading, 9 to 7.

Thereafter, Carleton's tired youngsters, who were beaten Monday evening by Wisconsin and by Iowa last Saturday, were highly erratic and Northwestern, led by Dick Klein, who had replaced Don Clawson at center, romped ahead easily. The final score was Northwestern, 30; Carleton, 14.

A Long Haul for N. U.

Carleton duplicated the Wildcats' slow start in the second period, failing to score until after 10 minutes. Then Edward Berry lost his guard in the defensive shuffle and was uncovered under the backboard. His goal cut Northwestern's lead to 21 to 9 and it was followed a few minutes later by a follow shot by Quintus Nelson for the fifth and last Carleton field goal of the game.

Northwestern needed 10 minutes to overtake Carleton. Melchoir followed his opening field goal with a free throw. Klein's follow up of a missed penalty shot was capped by Bob Shepard's long goal for a 7 to 6 lead. Capt. Ad Vance hit with a one hand toss after which Nelson's free throw for Carleton left the count 9 to 7 at the intermission.

Klein Leads Wildcats.

Klein topped the Wildcats in scoring with four field goals, three coming in the second period. Four of the Northwestern's goals in the second half were from under the back board. Altho Carleton was only two points behind in the first half the team declined four penalty shots, preferring to take possession of the ball out of bounds as is permitted this year. Altogether the Carls declined six penalty shots. Northwestern declined three in the second half, twice on the second throw of a double shot foul. Linups:

MAROONS VS. TEACHERS

The opening game in the University of Chicago basketball team's 1939-40 campaign to continue the renaissance begun last year when it rose from its accustomed tenth place to a tie for seventh position in the Big Ten standings will be played in the Midway field house tonight against the Chicago Teachers college starting at 8 o'clock.

Coach Nelson Norgren, who begins his 19th season as basketball coach on the Midway, has at his disposal three 6 feet 4 inch letter men, Capt. Dick Lounsbury, center, Joe Stampf, forward, and Ralph Richardson, guard. Paul Zimmermann, a small but flashy sophomore from Dallas, Tex., and Art Jorgensen, a minor letterman and also a member of the championship Maroon tennis team, round out the Chicago starters' height at a 6 feet, 2 inch average. The Teachers' quintet, which was trounced 44 to 25 by De Paul last week averages less than 5 feet 10 inches.

Out of the Past

WILLIAM (DUMMY) HOY.

Dummy Hoy—Remember? So Did Old Timers

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 5 (AP).—A little old man came slowly thru the smoky mist of the hotel lobby and wrote on a slip of paper, "Do you know where I can find Connie Mack and Clark Griffith?"

A quick look around showed neither and the little man wrote again, "I am William Hoy. I used to play with them. They called me Dummy. I haven't seen Griffith since 1901, when I was on his White Sox.

Telephoning to their rooms produced nothing and even veteran page boys could locate few people in that lobby. Hank Gowdy, coach of the Cincinnati Reds whose memory goes back to George Stallings and the 1914 Braves, came up.

Flashes a Greeting.

He did. The Old Fox of Washington came to the cigar stand, took one look, and haltingly greeted "Dummy" with his fingers.

"Dummy Hoy," he said aloud. "My old leadoff man when we won the pennant in Chicago. One of the great players of baseball. One of the first to play center field short.

"I had to learn the sign language to talk to him then and I can still do it. Let's see. . . . This was the hit-and-run sign."

He spelled it out slowly on his fingers and "Dummy" waved a bat and started for first.

They Finally Get Mack.

"We'll get him out," Griffith announced. He spelled out "Wait right here."

Shortly he returned with the great man of Philadelphia. Connie raised his hand, thought a minute, and then gave the sign for the letter "S."

"Steal," Griffith translated and Hoy laughed.

The three of them sat down. Hoy, as happy a man as ever found old friends, told them of all that had happened to him.

He lives a retired life in Cincinnati now, but the big baseball meeting brought him something he had wanted for a long, long time.

34 WILDCATS TO GET LETTERS AT ANNUAL BANQUET

Thirty-four letters, six minor letters and 36 numerals will be awarded members of Northwestern university's varsity and freshman football teams at the annual football dinner in the Stevens hotel Saturday night. The most valuable player for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE award and next year's captain will be elected.

Coach Elmer Layden of Notre Dame will be the principal speaker. A capacity crowd of 1,500 alumni is expected.

Russ Bauers Making Good Recovery After Car Accident

Lakewood, Wis., Dec. 5 (AP).—Russell Lee Bauers, right handed pitcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was making a strong recovery tonight from a severe head injury suffered in an automobile accident, and the attending physician said he was out of danger. Bauers was at the wheel of his automobile when it skidded off a highway near Carter late Sunday and overturned.

CUBS WILL TALK SHORTSTOP WITH CARDS, DODGERS

Bartell for Rogell Trade Rumored.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 5.—The Cubs, even tho they accomplished nothing except the wearing down of another pair of rubber heels on the shoes of Trader in Chief Clarence Rowland, remained in the spotlight today when the big leaguers went thru the second 24 hours of their annual attempt to juggle baseball talent.

The Cubs still think, for some strange reason, that the most outstanding of their numerous weaknesses is at shortstop. So the struggle to get a man for that particular position continues without results. They have tried to deal, without success, for Billy Myers of the Reds, Arky Vaughan of the Pirates, and Eddie Miller of the Bees.

Today May Be the Day.

But tomorrow, says Rowland, there'll be a new attack on what Manager Gabby Hartnett considers a problem. There'll be a discussion among the Cubs, Cardinals, and Dodgers. If this three cornered argument can be settled amiably the Cubs expect they might wind up with a shortstop now enlisted in the Cardinals' expansive chain store system.

As soon as Rowland admitted his date with Branch Rickey of the Cards and Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers speculation, on which this kind of convention subsists, reached a new high. The gossips figured Catcher Gordon Phelps and Outfielder Ernie Koy of the Dodgers might be involved. The same prophets predicted the conference might have something to do with Joe Medwick and Don Padgett of the Cards, as well as the great unknown shortstop. Nobody was bold enough to anticipate the man or men the Cubs might give up. But who is to get who and why isn't clear except that the Cubs would like to possess Padgett and MacPhail would be delighted to see Medwick in a Brooklyn uniform.

Bartell for Rogell?

If the Cubs can't do anything better about their shortstop problem, if it is such, they may deal with Detroit's Tigers of the American league for Billy Rogell. These arrangements to date are that Rogell will come to the Cubs and the Tigers will take Dick Bartell off the hands of the Chicago club. Waivers have been obtained, supposedly, on both men so this feature of baseball law has been cleared up, making the interleague swap possible if the participants don't change their minds at the last moment.

Jack Zeller, general manager of the Tigers, apparently thinks well of the proposition. He went to the expense

Teacher of Mankind.

Since first the Christ Child knelt at Mary's knee
To spell His way through our poor earthly lore,
And learn the lessons of humanity
That she repeated for Him o'er and o'er,
Woman has been the teacher of mankind;
And those who would be virtuous and wise
Must in a mother's simple counsel find
Such precious knowledge as the prudent prize.

He who unrolled the rainbow for His mirth
Who folded up the strata of the earth
Like pictured pages in a story book,
Hearkened to Mary's teaching, and since then
Women have been the guiding stars of men.

Meet Friday in a Return Stadium Match.

Sammy Angott, foremost contender for the lightweight championship held by Lou Ambers, and Davey Day will finish boxing drills in Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon for a 12 round return bout in Chicago Stadium Friday. Day sparred three rounds yesterday with Nick Castiglione. A little later Angott went three rounds against Gene Ward. They will follow the same program today.

Day was within easy reach of the stipulated 137 pounds after his workout, while Sammy was down to 134.

Lots of Sparring.

After this afternoon's drill Angott will have sparred 55 rounds during a two weeks' training program. Before he arrived from Louisville Monday Sammy boxed 49 rounds against Johnny Durso, his welterweight stablemate, in the Hibernian gymnasium there. Charley Jones, the slugger's manager, said Sammy never has sparred more than 50 rounds before.

A crowd of 8,185 contributed a gross gate of $17,856 to see Angott pound out a close victory over Day in an earlier fight in the west side arena on Oct. 6. Tickets have been selling so briskly that box office men predict as large a gathering will be on hand for the encore. It will be the last boxing show in the Stadium this year.

Angott Wins Rematches.

The Day achievement was Angott's 15th consecutive triumph. Sammy has not suffered a setback since July 25, 1938, when Leo Rodak won a split decision over him in Pittsburgh. At the same time, the defeat was Day's first in 17 Chicago appearances.

Angott, like Day, has been highly successful in rematches. After beating Wesley Ramey in Louisville May 6 of last year Ramey protested "the decision was a robbery," and Angott agreed to a second contest in Louisville the following Sept. 16. Sammy won again, but more decisively this time. He also defeated Jimmy Christy twice. Following his setback at the hands of Rodak Angott stopped Leo in one round. In addition Sammy conquered Billy Marquart in Pittsburgh last Aug. 28 after Marquart had scored two decisions over him.

Others End Drills.

Asked whether he would overcome the jinx Angott seems to have over two-time opponents, Day smiled. "We'll see Friday."

Boxers on the supporting card also will end workouts today. These include Tony Zale, middleweight stablemate of Day, who faces Ernest [Babe] Orgovan in eight rounds; Eddie Lander, west side junior lightweight, who opposes Nick Castiglione, also in eight, and Pete Ferrand, South Chicago welterweight, who tackles Bobby Ryan in four rounds.

The 30th ward organization will sponsor its annual amateur boxing show in the 132d Infantry armory, Madison and Rockwell streets, next Monday. Eight contests will bring together Billy Johnson and Walter Baker, 112 pounds; Dick Stone and Eddie Baka, 116; Hank Carfew and Ernie O'Neil, heavyweights; Lou Owens and Al Lieberman, Carlo Ratazzi and Buster Crow, Warren Tikup and Jimmy Crow, all 135 pounds; Vito Rizzo and Gene Roberts, 118; Walter Kanzer and Fred Wright, 175. Lou Talaber, former middleweight wrestling champion, will referee a mat clash involving George Kontalas and Mike Adler.

Cornell, Champion of East, Receives Lambert Award

New York, Dec. 5 [Special].—Cornell's undefeated football team was named the 1939 eastern gridiron champion and its Coach Carl Snavely received the August V. Lambert trophy symbolic of the title at a dinner here tonight. A poll of more than 50 sports writers and radio announcers named the Big Red team from Ithaca for the award, which was presented by Henry L. Lambert and Victor A. Lambert in memory of their father.

Texas A. & M., Tulane to Play in Sugar Bowl

New Orleans, La., Dec. 5 (AP).—The New Orleans mid-winter sports association announced tonight that Tulane university and Texas A. and M. college had accepted invitations for their football teams to play in the Sugar Bowl here on New Year's day.

Texas A. and M., undefeated and untied in ten games, is currently ranked as the nation's No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll of sports editors. Tulane, which has been tied by North Carolina but won all the rest of its games, is No. 5.

The Sugar Bowl announcement climaxed a day in which an offer of $85,000 each to Texas A. and M. and Tennessee to play in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas failed to bring results.

SELECT TEAM SATURDAY.

Corvallis, Ore., Dec. 5 (AP).—Prof. C. V. Ruzek of Oregon State college, president of the Pacific coast conference, will announce the west's Rose Bowl representatives here Saturday night.

He instructed the ten member schools today to telegraph their selections after Saturday's game between Southern California and University of California at Los Angeles.

Prof. Ruzek explained he was without authority to advise the Trojans and the Bruins to feel out possible opponents for the New Year's day football classic.

TENNESSEE WAITS.

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 5 (AP).—The University of Tennessee athletic council announced tonight that no decision would be made on a post-season bowl game until after the unbeaten Volunteers have completed their season against Auburn Saturday.

LOOKS ELSEWHERE.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP).—The Orange Bowl committee widened the scope of its negotiations tonight as it appeared Missouri might be considering a bid to the Dallas Cotton Bowl.

While the committee made no official statements, it was learned authoritatively Fordham, Boston college, and Clemson were the newest possibilities to provide opposition for Georgia Tech. Duquesne and Georgetown, both unbeaten, also still were under consideration.

DELAY AT MISSOURI.

Columbia, Mo., Dec. 5 (AP).—The Missouri university committee on intercollegiate athletics tonight delayed making an announcement whether Missouri would accept an invitation to play a post-season bowl game.

Halloran to Referee

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 5 [Special].—William Halloran of Providence, R. I., was named referee of the National Football league championship game Sunday by Carl Storck, league president, here tonight. Other officials will be E. Cochrane of Chicago, umpire; Dan Tehan of Cincinnati, field judge, and Tom Thorp of New York, head linesman.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

New York's Giants, widely renowned as the football team with a line, a place kicker and a horseshoe, moved out of their Polo Grounds stronghold for the west tomorrow, prepared to continue their assault on tradition when they tackle the Green Bay Packers in Milwaukee Sunday.

Demand for tickets has exceeded all expectations, Packer officials reported yesterday. Workmen have begun installation of 700 more seats bringing to 32,000 the capacity of the park. Ten thousand, all the tickets available, were sold in a few hours in Milwaukee Monday afternoon and 2,000 more were rushed there from Green Bay. They were snapped up in two hours yesterday morning. The demand is even more terrific in Green Bay.

This Year May Be Different.

The Giants will arrive in Milwaukee Friday morning, according to present plans, to complete their training there for the National Football league championship playoff. Their first assault on tradition terminated successfully Sunday when they became the first National league team to retain a division championship after appearing in the Chicago Tribune's All-Star game since the Bears turned the trick back in 1935. No team has gone on from the All-Star game to retain the league championship.

Green Bay enters the game with much more encouraging prospects than it did a year ago when the Giants eked out a 23 to 17 decision in the championship game in New York. Don Hutson, whose presence in the lineup has a distressing effect on the defense whether the Packers pass to him or not, was laid up with a bad leg for last year's meeting. Bobby Monnett, veteran half back who since has retired, also was injured. Both got into the game, but Hutson particularly was not sufficiently recovered to be much of a menace.

Packers in Good Condition.

Further handicaps were placed on the Packers when Coach Curley Lambeau found it impossible to schedule an exhibition game so late in the season and had to send them into the 1938 title playoff after a three weeks' layoff. Effects of the layoff were evident immediately. Blocking and tackling were slovenly and the Packers' offense was as ragged as a relief case in the early part of the game.

Missed blocking assignments permitted Jim Lee Howell and Jim Poole, the Giants' veteran ends, to block Clark Hinkle's first two punts and put the Giants ahead 10 to 0 in the first few minutes of the game. The Packers finally regained most of their poise and early in the third period forged ahead, 17 to 16. They were on the way to another touchdown when a disputed decision by Head Linesman

N. Y. Postpones Thomas Meeting Until Friday

New York, Dec. 5 (AP).—Arch Ward, sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which published Heavyweight Harry Thomas' statement that his fight with Max Schmeling was fixed, today promised to appear Friday at the next session of the New York state athletic commission's investigation of the bout.

Announcement of Ward's promise to appear came during the fourth hearing of the investigation, after Thomas testified he "believed" it was his signature on a photostatic copy of a portion of an affidavit which accompanied The Tribune story. This explained that he had deposited $4,500 in two checks in the Eagle Bend, Minn., bank after his bouts with Schmeling and Tony Galento, which he also claimed was a fake.

After listening to Thomas and Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, and Frank [Doc] Bagley, a second in Thomas' corner the night of the Schmeling fight, Dec. 13, 1937, the commission continued the investigation until Friday. Both Jacobs and Bagley insisted the fight was "100 per cent on the level," while Thomas, in reply to all questions concerning the fight, repeated his previous refusal to reply "on the grounds it may incriminate me."

PICKING WINNERS IN HORSE SHOW IS EASY FOR JUDGES

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The city fellows who have been filling the seats every night at the International Horse show have been having a great time despite the fact that they've been puzzled quite a bit by a few of the things that have been going on.

For instance they've watched 15 or 16 beautifully built saddle horses come striding smoothly into the ring, each one looking so perfect that there would seem no way of choosing among them.

While all this has been going on several calm but sharp-eyed gentlemen carrying canes hooked over their arms, have been sizing up the field. With a minimum of hesitation they award ribbons of various colors with such good judgment that a complaint is seldom heard from owners of the contestants.

It's Done Systematically.

These gentlemen with the canes seem so austere and remote in handing down their decrees that the average spectator just takes those decrees entirely for granted after wondering for a very brief moment whether, like ordinary humans, the judges are ever torn by doubts or have any trouble arriving at their apparently inevitable decisions.

But last night one of the best of them, Mr. Harry McNair of Chicago, told about his job and in so doing revealed that horse show judges are just human beings after all who have to organize their work on a systematic basis if they're going to get it done at all.

Mr. McNair, who has judged at every important show in the United States and Canada, gave some idea of how he goes about his business when confronted by 15 five-gaited horses which he has never seen before. Ordinarily the judges have 15 minutes to observe these animals and arrive at a decision.

Eliminate Poorest First.

If you try to pick the best one right away you'll get so confused that you won't know where you are, Mr. McNair observed. The only way to go about it is to start eliminating those that you consider unworthy of the prize. After you have crossed off all but five or six you begin from the other end and start looking for the best.

Then things begin to get very complicated, Mr. McNair admitted. An animal that is beautifully formed and that is able to walk, rack, canter, and do the slow gait like a poem may not be able to trot as well as the coal man's horse. And so it goes.

Many gallery fans are disturbed when their favorite starts to prance about a bit while most of the others have their fore and hind legs stretched out rigidly while posing motionless before the judges. But Mr. McNair says he doesn't bother to give a horse a black mark for cutting up a bit. He already knows the horse's conformation before the animal goes into his stance, so, good or bad, it's usually too late then. Summaries:

Willman Seeks Midget Victory Before Home Folks

Sunday will be Milwaukee night in the 124th Field Artillery armory, where Tony Willman, nationally known auto race driver, will be the host to racing fans from his home city. Tony will try to reward the home folks with a feature victory, his first of the year on the armory oval. He finished second to Duke Nalon last Sunday, after driving past Harry MacQuinn, Ted Duncan, Wally Zale, and Bob Muhlke.

Theel Rolls 300 Game at Stevenson's

George Theel, lead-off man for the Budweisers, rolled a perfect game and a three game total of 704 to set the pace in Stevenson's Major Bowling league last night. Theel started out with 223, got 300 in his second game, and dropped to 181 in his final game.

While the Budweisers won the first two games from the Sexauer and Krueger five, the Sexauer and Kruegers rolled a final game of 1,144, high for the league this season. Their series of 3,221 was high for the evening and exceeded the Buds' total by 35 pins.

The entire Sexauer and Krueger team rolled more than 600. Pete Konopka was high with 684 and Lee Hile second with 672. Other high men for the Budweisers were Don Pinc with 672 and John Small with 664. Scores:

PACKERS READY FOR TITLE GAME; AWAIT GIANTS

This year the Packers have a full complement of workmen ready and eager for assignments against the Giants. Hutson is having one of his best seasons and is in perfect condition. Trainer Dave Woodward has notified Coach Lambeau that there is not a bruise on the squad.

Equally important to the Packer cause is the fact that they have been busy every Sunday and will be in full stride when they step out on the Wisconsin state fair grounds gridiron to battle the Giants for the winners' share of the purse, amounting to approximately $650 a man, the league championship and the right to play in the Chicago Tribune All-Star game next August.

When Will This End?

The speculatively inclined have made the Giants a slight favorite, largely on the belief that some special diety showers blessings on the New Yorkers. "When," your favorite commissioner will ask, "has an important decision ever gone against the Giants? Remember last year's playoff? Remember the Bear game this year? And remember last week's game with Washington?"

The Washington incident last Sunday remained the chief item of argument in professional circles yesterday. Still shots developed from the motion pictures of the game were received in Chicago and seemed to uphold the Redskins' contention that Bo Russell's field goal in the waning second of the game had slipped inside the upright. Referee Bill Halloran ruled it had gone outside. Photographic experts, familiar with camera angles and negative perspective, ventured the opinion that the kick had been good, but would make no positive statement to that effect.

While the Packers and Giants applied themselves to the serious business of offense and defense, the Bears packed their uniforms and departed for their homes. Plans for next season were discussed at a meeting of the club. Most of the players assured Coach George Halas they would be back next year. Halas, himself, spent the time studying scout reports on graduating college stars, preparatory to attending the annual draft meeting in Milwaukee Saturday.

GOV. HEIL VERY NEARLY HAD NO PACKER TICKETS

Madison, Wis., Dec. 5 [Special.]—Gov. Julius P. Heil will attend the Green Bay Packers-New York Giants championship game in Milwaukee Sunday, but it was no easy matter for him to get tickets, he revealed today.

Gov. Heil called the Milwaukee ticket office to order 30 of the $4.40 tickets for his party. "This is the governor," he began.

"O, yeah," came the sharp reply.

"The governor," he repeated.

"Now listen, mister, don't kid me. I'm busy and being pestered to death. Who in the hell are you?" the ticket seller snarled.

"I'm not kidding you," the governor pleaded. "This is Gov. Heil. I want 30 . . ."

BRUINS TO START PRO BASKETBALL SEASON TONIGHT

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Bruins, 1939-'40 model, will open their National Basketball league season tonight at the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets, where they will meet the Oshkosh All-Stars in the first battle of a 28 game league schedule. It will be the first appearance of a Chicago professional league basketball crew since 1930, when another Chicago Bruin outfit represented our town.

6 Foot, 9 Inch Center.

The Bruins rightfully may be called a Chicago team, since 80 per cent of their starting lineup tonight against Oshkosh will be composed of local lads. Two of them, Mike Novak and Wibs Kautz, more than distinguished themselves last season as members of the Loyola university team which played on this same hardwood. Their Chicago colleagues are two former De Paul university stars, Willie Phillips and Frank Linskey. The stranger is Eddie Oram, 1937 captain of the University of Southern California team and a member last season of the M-G-M squad which took third place in the National A. A. U. tournament.

Phillips and Linskey will open at forwards, the 6 foot 9 inch Novak at center, while Kautz and Oram will be stationed at the guards. Kautz also was listed as a guard during his fancy Loyola career, but actually played forward, as attested by his record of 341 points last season, and a total of 817 for his three undergraduate years.

Tonight's curtain raiser, involving the Spencer Coal Girls and the Cicero Co-Ads, will begin at 8 o'clock. The professional battle will start approximately one hour later.

The Bruins' opponents of the evening have been around more than somewhat themselves. Last year they won the western division title, losing the league championship battle to the Akron, O., Firestones. The Oshkosh All-Stars are headed by Le Roy Edwards, formerly of the University of Kentucky, who is rated one of the finest pivot men in the league. The Oshkosh forwards are Ray Adams, formerly of De Paul, and Willard Pederson of Western State college of Colorado. Ed Mullen of Marquette and Herm Witasek of North Dakota are the guards.

The other teams in the league, with each of whom the Bruins will play two games at home and two away before the conclusion of the regular schedule, are Hammond, Ind., Sheboygan, and Oshkosh in the western division, and Detroit, Indianapolis, and the Akron Firestones and Akron Goodyears in the eastern division. Winners of the two sectional races meet for the league title after the regular season.

New Blood in Pro Game.

Chicagoans who remember the old New York Celtics, Cleveland Rosenblums, and Washington Palaces of former local professional campaigns will find a different set of players in this league, the complexion of which is almost as entirely collegiate in recent backgrounds as those of present day professional football teams.

The Akron Firestones, defending champions, include, for instance, in their roster three former Notre Dame stars—Johnny Moir, Paul Nowak, and Tom Wukowits. Detroit boasts of Irving Torgoff, captain of the Long Island university quintet which halted Loyola's 21 game winning streak in the final of last year's Madison Square Garden tournament, and Urgel Wintermute, leader of Oregon's national collegiate champions.

Tom Nisbet of Illinois and Chuck Chuckovits of Toledo are members of the Hammond team, which is being coached by Lou Boudreau, formerly of Illinois and now shortstop for the Cleveland Indians. Jewell Young, ex-Purdue captain, is with Indianapolis, and Ben Stephens, late of Iowa, is in the Akron Goodyears' lineup. Sheboygan lists Otto Kolar of Chicago and Dave Quabius and Ed Sokody of Marquette.

LOYOLA QUINTET MEETS ARKANSAS STATE TONIGHT

Three Veterans to Start for Ramblers.

Loyola university of Chicago opens its 17th basketball season under Coach Lennie Sachs tonight against Arkansas State at Loyola. Loyola has won eleven games and lost none in their series with the Razorbacks.

Five juniors have been named tentatively as the starting Loyola lineup. Capt. George Wenskus, the only regular from last season at guard, and the veteran forwards Vinny Graham and Ed Schell will carry the burden of the work until the other ten men in the squad receive enough experience.

Although Sachs has been working Augie Durso, Jack Crowley, and Joe Ptacin at center, Graham may start at the pivot post, due to his experience. If one of the other three new men start, however, Vinny will open at guard in place of Danny Cahill.

Ed Lee, a transfer student from the former St. Viator's college, will be the tallest man on the starting five, standing 6 feet 1½ inches. Cahill at five feet eleven inches, is the smallest, since the three veterans hover closer to an even six feet.

Arkansas State brings to Chicago a veteran squad which finished third in the state championship race last season. Keller and Settlemire played the entire game against Loyola last year.

DE PAUL TALL TEAM

If good basketball players come tall, Coach Tom Haggerty of DePaul will have one of the finest basketball teams in the country this winter, since he can call into action 11 men who measure 6 feet or more in height.

And to hear Haggerty tell it, he'll need all the height he can muster in the face of a 24 game schedule. In addition to DePaul's regular games, the Blue Demons will face eight hand picked opponents on double-header cards at the Coliseum, starting Monday night, Dec. 18. Loyola will be co-host on the twin bill programs.

MAROONS TO PICK CAPTAIN BEFORE EACH 1940 GAME

The University of Chicago held its annual football banquet last night, but failed to elect a captain for the first time in many years.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy said no captain would be chosen for 1940, but that he would appoint a captain before each game and that an honorary captaincy would be given one of the boys at the end of the season.

About 400 students, alumni, high school students, and Maroon athletes attended the banquet. Shaughnessy revealed in a brief speech that 35 upper classmen had volunteered to tutor the freshman players to insure their remaining eligible for the 1940 season. The 1939 freshman team was considered the best that has attended the school in many years.

Cubs Are Still Dickering for a Shortstop

of phoning California to ask Bartell what he thought about being turned into an American leaguer. Bartell conceded it was a good idea. It is a fair bet that Zeller's real purpose in the phone call was to determine what Bartell might consider a fair salary. He was getting $20,000 from the Cubs this season but is not in that class of talent. Anyway the Tigers' decision must be held off until Owner Walter Briggs arrives and until the Cubs make certain they won't get a shortstop from any other source. Rogell is merely 35 years of age.

Bonura's Name Brought Up.

Other rumors tied up the Cubs with Zeke Bonura, ex-White Sox first baseman, whom the Giants insist they will peddle at a price. Bill Terry, the Giants' leader, is supposed to have informed Hartnett the Cubs could have Bonura either for $17,500 in cash or even for Phil Cavarretta. The Cubs, according to information available, didn't think much of what Terry said. The Chicago club never will be able to buy a hitter any cheaper and they certainly can use a few bat wielders. Zeke has already announced that he thinks about $19,000 will be a satisfactory salary for next season.

Dave Fleming, president of the Los Angeles club, helped to keep the Cubs in the spotlight by declaring that he would not sell Outfielder Lou Novikoff to the Chicago club as previously rumored. Novikoff is the fellow who for the past few seasons hasn't made many fancy catches altho he has murdered Three I, Texas, and Coast league pitching. Fleming's declaration might be 100 per cent correct, but could easily be ruined on short notice if P. K. Wrigley, who owns the Cubs, should decide to make a deal with P. K. Wrigley, who owns the Angels. If the Cubs don't get a hitter of some kind out of the current ivory mêlée Wrigley might sell himself something he already owns.

James Dykes, the White Sox manager who does his own dealing, was still pretty chummy today with President Don Barnes and Manager Fred Haney of the St. Louis Browns. They started whispering among themselves yesterday, the conversation being mainly about Outfielder Myril Hoag for one of the Sox flychasers. In a kidding way Dykes said he might even give Bill Dietrich for Vernon Kennedy who hasn't had any luck since Dykes traded him to the Tigers exactly two years ago.

Brown May Become a Brown.

Now the two clubs are reported to be talking a two for two deal with excellent prospects for getting somewhere. The Browns wouldn't listen to a proposition concerning Hoag, but would talk about Julius Solters and Dykes proved agreeable. He even went a bit farther by admitting that he really would consider Kennedy. So now the prospective swap includes Solters and Kennedy, the consideration being Clint Brown, the tireless relief pitcher, and Outfielder Rip Radcliff. Solters might furnish the Sox outfield with a little more power.

The Sox today released outright to the Shreveport club the services of Infielder George Meyers. The kid was with that club last season, after doing a short stretch with the Sox at the fag end of the 1938 campaign.

The Cubs announced tonight that Ed Carnett, southpaw pitcher whom they took from Los Angeles a year ago and then turned over to Milwaukee for the 1939 season, had been sent unconditionally to the Kansas City club. The Cubs owed the Blues one man in the deal whereby they took service a few months ago to Clyde McCullough, a catcher.

Another Chicago athlete reported ready for shipment is Gene Lillard, one time third baseman who was listed as a pitcher on the Cub staff during the recent National league race. Lillard is to be sent to the Los Angeles club. Several other Cub youngsters also will be parcelled out shortly, some of them to the Tulsa team.

McCarthy Is Coy.

Joe McCarthy, the Yankee manager, arrived today and while he has a team that nobody can come even close to beating he said he would listen to trade talk, but he had a sort of cat swallow the canary grin on his face when he talked. He won't go out looking for a trade, but will listen to any proposition submitted. Joe won't be bothered by propositions.

Austin Eleven Plays Friday in Tennessee

Austin's football team, west section champion in the Public High School league for four consecutive years, yesterday completed arrangements to play Jackson, Tenn., High school in Jackson Friday night. The squad will leave Chicago tomorrow night over the Illinois Central and will arrive in Jackson Friday morning.

William C. Heiland, Austin coach, said 25 players will make the trip. It will be Austin's second meeting with the southern school. Bill De Correvont led the West Siders to a 13 to 0 victory over Jackson in their first game two years ago in Memphis.

Austin suffered only one defeat this season. It scored nine consecutive victories and then was beaten by Schurz, 27 to 13.

WILDCATS PLAY BEFORE 368,000 IN EIGHT GAMES

Northwestern university's football team played before 368,000 spectators during the last season, an increase of 42,000 over last year, it was announced yesterday by Ted Payseur, ticket manager. The attendance at each of the five home games was: Oklahoma, 45,000; Wisconsin, 40,000; Illinois, 36,000; Purdue, 39,000; Iowa, 41,000. The three away from home were: Ohio State, 62,000; Minnesota, 52,000, and Notre Dame, 53,000.

Fessenden Is Installed as C.D.G.A. Head

Maynard Gay Fessenden, a lively gent who is usually identified by the nickname of "Scotty," and nearly as much by the soubriquets of "Tornado" and "Tiger," will henceforth be known as the president of the Chicago District Golf association. Fessenden, who registers from Bob o' Link, Oak Park, and Flossmoor, last night was installed as president of the C. D. G. A. at the 26th annual meeting of the organization in the grand ballroom of the La Salle hotel.

Scotty succeeds Allan W. Hale of Medinah, who has served two terms and who will hold an ex-officio status on the 1940 board of directors as well as the chairmanship of the 1940 nominating committee. Hale was presented with a movie camera and projector, while Joseph G. Davis, longtime golf editor of THE TRIBUNE, who remains as C. D. G. A. executive secretary, was the recipient of a mammoth cake to mark yesterday, his 77th birthday.

Other new officers of the association are E. A. [Barney] Dolan of Park Ridge, vice president; Thomas G. McMahon of Skokie, secretary, and Lowell D. Rutherford of Medinah, treasurer. Charles E. McGuire of Oak Park remains as general counsel. The other two members of the next nominating committee, along with Hale, are John Lehman of Olympia Fields and Walter G. Leininger of Oak Park.

There was much jovial dissension among the members of Bob o' Link and Oak Park as to which of the two Fessenden should register as president, but the Bob o' Link address finally won out.

New directors for the next season are Lynn Broaddus of Elmhurst, Howard A. Brundage of Butterfield, R. Donald Cameron of Evanston, Gordon G. Crowder of Midlothian, Elmer A. Eulass of Calumet, Dr. J. Earl Harris of Olympia Fields, Melville Keim of Northmoor, John P. Kiely of South Shore, Charles S. MacFerran of North Shore, William Otter of Westmoreland, F. M. [Ted] Quinn of Riverside, and Robert F. Zeddies of Exmoor.

IRISH TO OPPOSE CINCINNATI U. FIVE TONIGHT

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 5 [Special]. —Notre Dame's warm-up stage of the basketball campaign will come to an end tomorrow night when the Irish face Cincinnati here. Notre Dame has subdued Kalamazoo, 62 to 34, and Valparaiso, 63 to 26.

The battle for starting positions will continue tomorrow as the Irish prepare for the Wisconsin game here a week from today.

Shore Returns to Help Bruins Beat Americans, 2 to 1

Boston, Mass., Dec. 5 (AP).—The Boston Bruins celebrated the return of Eddie Shore by defeating the New York Americans, 2 to 1, tonight before 10,000 in the Boston Garden.

The triumph enabled the Stanley cup champions to move into a second place tie with the Canadiens.

Shore had been excused for the remainder of the season by the Bruins to enable him to devote all of his attention to his own Springfield International-American club. The All-Star defense man volunteered, however, to fill in for Bill [Flash] Hollett, absent because of the death of his small son.

Shore registered the unassisted goal that enabled the Bruins to come from behind in the second period.

Illinois Alumni Honor Football Team and Staff

With undercurrents of dissension concerning the school's athletic policy still evident in their ranks, University of Illinois alumni in Chicago and vicinity will hold their annual banquet tomorrow night in the Knickerbocker hotel, with the Illini football squad and coaching staff as the honored guests. Dinner will be served at 7:30 o'clock.

Zuppke, Wilson Present.

In contrast to last year's banquet, following on the heels of the attempted ouster of Coach Robert C. Zuppke, both Zuppke and Athletic Director Wendell S. Wilson will be present tomorrow. Wilson declined to attend the 1938 dinner after presenting, a week previously, Zuppke's resignation, which the university board of trustees refused to accept.

A week ago it was believed that a year's time had healed the wounds within the Illini athletic department. Several days ago, however, Donald Seaton, former Illini track coach, and Don Karnes, a former Illinois basketball player, started agitation in favor of Wilson's removal.

President to Speak.

Monday Wilson announced that he had signed a two year contract with the board of trustees, adding that it had been signed secretly last summer.

Among the speakers at tomorrow's banquet will be Zuppke, Wilson, Arthur Cutts Willard, president of the university, and officials of the Illini club of Chicago, including W. L. Berleman, president.

Wilson will be the principal speaker tonight at the annual banquet of the university's college of dentistry in the Lake Shore Athletic club. Dr. C. W. Forslund will serve as toastmaster.

PLYMOUTH ROCK OF POINTERS—THAT'S BLANCHE

She Freezes on Covey and Stays That Way.

BY BOB BECKER.

Her name is Blanche. She's a rather small liver and white pointer and she never could win any ribbons in a dog show. But when it comes to holding a point a long time and never getting impatient, Blanche can collect any number of ribbons.

On our recent trip to Hazlehurst, Miss., to see how the Bob Whites behave in the pine woods and test our marksmanship against them, we joined J. V. L. and J. H. V., our hunting partners, in doffing our hats to Blanche for the way she handled one big covey in the open.

In less than 30 seconds her wide cast located the birds. They were at least two blocks from us. She pointed in the open where there was no grassy cover at all. All of us dismounted and crawled under a fence. Blanche still held her point—a beautiful picture against the green grass beneath the pines. It was decided to hold the other dogs, a pointer and a black setter, because they were none too steady. To take them up took several minutes. But Blanche was as immovable as a rock. She still was holding those birds on almost bare ground.

After catching the dogs we had to hustle over to Blanche. Our hunting partners moved up behind her. Then we decided to make several pictures. We scampered around to shoot pictures from all angles. There was much talking and the guns behind Blanche had to change their positions. By this time Blanche had been on point for six or seven minutes. She still hadn't moved a muscle. Then J. H. V. said: "Good grief, hurry up. I'm so close to the birds that I can count three of them right here under my feet."

Then we put down our camera, picked up the over and under and joined our hunting partners for the covey rise shot.

Better Quality Better Value every year

At no time in cigar history has so much quality been given for so little money— 10¢

EL PRODUCTO CIGARS for real enjoyment

El Producto has always followed one policy. That policy is "give the smoker the greatest value." Today in the 10c sizes—the Bouquet, Blunt and Panetela—you get Quality which sold in the millions at 15c only a few short years ago.

El Producto is America's leading high-grade cigar because the quality of Havana and other choice tobaccos, the quality of blending, the quality of workmanship, wrapper, binder and filler always have been the finest that the times could produce.

El Producto maintains that position today with the cigar that gives the greatest enjoyment value your money can buy. Try it!

HOG RATES FIRM TO 10c LOWER IN ACTIVE TRADING

Brisk Demand Follows Early Deadlock.

An active market developed for hogs yesterday after a deadlock lasting several hours in the forenoon had been broken. The large supply in the pens at the stockyards sold at prices steady to 10 cents lower than the average of Monday. Top loads were off 10 cents at $5.65, while the day's average at $5.40 showed 5 cents decline.

Buying was stimulated by reports of a good clearance for fresh pork at steady prices and the fact that slaughtering of hogs was smaller than Monday and Tuesday of last week.

Price Reductions Resisted.

As a result early demands for reductions in prices were resisted. The range of loins in Chicago was from $11.00 and $13.00 a hundred pounds. The top was equal to the highest price paid for loins since Nov. 16, and $1.50 over a week ago.

Eleven leading markets on Monday and Tuesday received 211,000 hogs, a decrease of 24,000 compared with the two days of last week. However, this supply was 69,000 larger than a year ago and 40,000 above two years ago.

A large share of the run of hogs in Chicago consisted of good 190 to 260 pound averages that cashed mostly from $5.40 to $5.60. A fair showing of lights topped at $5.65. Most 270 to 300 pound butchers sold at $5.15 to $5.35. Sows weighing 350 to 500 pounds bulked from $4.60 to 5.00.

Lamb Prices Advance.

Competition for slaughter lambs was brisk at advances of 15 to 25 cents. Packers and shippers paid the $9.25 top for Colorado fed lambs, while other fed westerns and natives sold downward from $9.15. Shorn lambs carrying a good growth of wool brought $8.60, while stock shorn recently went at $8.00.

Best steers and yearlings held steady, but others sold weak to 15 cents lower. Steady prices were paid for heifers, canners, cutters, and replacement cattle. Bulls were firm. Beef cows sold steady to a little lower. Calves advanced fully 25 cents.

Harris Trust to Reduce Savings Interest Rate

Executive committee members of the board of directors of the Harris Trust and Savings bank yesterday voted a reduction in the interest rate on savings deposits to 1¼ per cent annually beginning Jan. 1, 1940. The present rate, established in 1936, is 1½ per cent. The Harris action is in line with similar reductions voted in the last two weeks by four other leading downtown institutions.

Gardeners Meet.

THE vegetable gardening industry ranks first among all plant industries in value of products. This information, with figures that make it seem convincing, was brought out at the thirty-first annual convention of the Vegetable Growers Association of America at the Sherman hotel today. The meeting is being held in connection with the ninth annual convention of the Illinois State Vegetable Growers association with the Cook County Gardeners and Farmers association acting jointly with the state group as hosts. Commercial vegetable growers from many states are attending.

Nearly a million carloads of vegetables are hauled from farms to city markets in this country each year by railroads and trucks. Vegetables are grown on 7,500,000 acres.

2,000,000 Tons of Tomatoes.

It takes 100,000 trucks each year to haul the tomatoes grown on approximately 425,000 acres to canning factories. The figures place the total crop sale in a single year in the United States at more than two million tons.

More than a million tons of coal are used annually for heating 2,400 acres of space in greenhouses where vegetables are forced into production out of season. There are about 667,000 families engaged in commercial vegetable gardening in the United States, according to the vegetable growers' figures.

Reports showed that in Illinois alone commercial gardeners last year grew 68,340 acres of fresh vegetables with a farm value of $5,238,000. In addition they grew cucumbers, peas, sweet corn, and tomatoes for canning on 192,160 acres, and these crops had a farm value of $3,661,000. In 1937 Illinois ranked second only to California in production of asparagus for canning with 222,268 cases of green asparagus that year.

Illinois Crops Told.

Illinois was mentioned as the home of two special vegetable crops—onion sets and horseradish. About 65 per cent of all the onion sets planted in the country each year are grown in the southern part of Cook county, and about 75 per cent of all the horseradish used annually is produced in the area around East St. Louis.

Among the many subjects being studied by the delegates to the joint convention are trade barriers and agreements, vegetable marketing, horticultural equipment, quality and nutritional value of vegetables, asparagus culture, and vegetable hybrids.

A large exhibition hall in the hotel is filled with exhibits, one of which shows vegetables growing in moist air insead of soil or water. The meeting will continue thru Dec. 7.

AMERICAN RADIATOR.

What position does American Radiator have in the plumbing and heating field? I would appreciate some detailed information about the company's operations.—G. D.

Answer: American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation is the world's leading manufacturer of plumbing and heating equipment and accessories. Its wide-flung sales organization reaches all important world markets, distributing the products of 37 plants on the American continent and 16 plants operated by European subsidiaries.

During 1938 the company dissolved 15 of its smaller subsidiaries and in January this year absorbed its two major operating units, American Radiator company and Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company.

Foreign sales of the company, mostly of heating equipment, comprise about one-fourth of its total trade. War restrictions upon foreign exchange and earlier monetary control by European countries have impeded the company's full realization of its foreign earnings.

Retirement of all funded debt and bank loans was effected this year. In April the company announced it was free from all bank obligations and probably would not have to borrow for current operations the rest of the year. On Nov. 1, the entire issue of American Radiator company 4½ per cent debentures due 1947 [assumed by the parent company] was called for payment.

Capitalization is now composed of 47,864 shares of $7 cumulative preferred stock, 10,044,956 shares of no par common stock, and $5,698,399 in subsidiary preferred stock.

1936	7,345,000	.70	$ .45
1937	7,206,000	.68	.60
1938	*424,000	*.08	.15

*Loss. [Note.—In 1936 and thereafter operations of the Spanish subsidiary were not included and in 1938 those of the German and Italian subsidiaries were excluded.]

Net sales rose to a peak of 120 million dollars in 1937 but slumped to 87 million dollars in 1938, excluding sales of German and Italian subsidiaries in the latter year.

Net income in the first nine months of 1939 amounted to $1,428,000, or 12 cents a common share, compared with a loss of $752,835 in the same period of 1938. Because of the war, earnings of the foreign subsidiaries were excluded in the comparative report of the nine month periods.

A dividend of 30 cents a common share is payable Dec. 26 to holders of record Dec. 1. The balance sheet of the company at the end of 1938 showed current assets of $52,062,000 against current liabilities of $6,972,000.

Other Firms Make Extra Payments.

Pepsi-Cola company, soft drink maker, yesterday declared a dividend of $15 a share on the capital stock, one of the largest to be voted for payment during the pre-Christmas season. Several other companies authorized extra and special dividends. Numerous regular payments were authorized.

The Pepsi-Cola payment will be made Friday to holders of record Thursday. The chief recipient will be Loft, Inc., confections enterprise. Loft holds about 78 per cent of the Pepsi-Cola stock. The last previous payment by Pepsi-Cola was $2 a share in 1936.

The company's directors also decided to pay employés a Christmas bonus equivalent to two weeks' salary for those employed one year or longer, and one week's pay for others. Pepsi-Cola's earnings have been expanding recently.

Penney Declares $2 Extra.

J. C. Penney company's directors voted an extra dividend of $2 on the common stock, in addition to the quarterly payment of 75 cents. Both will be paid Dec. 20 on stock of record Dec. 8. The dividends will raise to $5 the amount paid this year, from $4.25 in 1938.

Gardner-Denver company, maker of rock drills, air tools, and related products, declared an extra dividend of 25 cents, payable Dec. 23 to holders of record Dec. 15.

Mack Trucks, Inc., declared a year-end dividend of 50 cents, payable Dec. 28 to shareholders of record Dec. 15. The last previous payment was 25 cents on March 31, 1938.

Special Payment Voted.

Southern Natural Gas company announced it will pay 25 cents a share as a special dividend on Dec. 30 to holders of record Dec. 20. Page-Hersey Tubes, Inc., Canadian maker of steel and iron pipe, will pay an extra dividend of 50 cents a share on Jan. 2 to holders of record Dec. 15.

Diamond T Motor Car company of Chicago declared a dividend of 40 cents a common share, payable Dec. 23 to holders of record Dec. 15. This will be the first payment on the stock since April 1, 1938, when 25 cents was paid.

Larger Group Offered Share in Utility Deal

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP).—Middle western investment houses, staging what one spokesman termed a "revolt" against monopoly of financing by New York firms, were denied the right today to intervene formally in a Securities and Exchange commission hearing.

The SEC announced, however, that bankers connected with Otis & Co., Cleveland, O., and others who had sought to intervene would be permitted to produce testimony and cross-examine witnesses. Officials said that this restricted them, but allowed them to be heard.

The case was that of Consumers Power company, Jackson, Mich., a subsidiary of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, headed by Wendell L. Willkie. Consumers Power applied to the commission for permission to issue 125,000 shares of common stock to Commonwealth and Southern, and sell $28,594,000 of 3¼ per cent bonds to the public.

Tell of Better Offer.

Otis & Co. announced it had been prepared to make a better underwriting offer for the bonds than that made by 27 underwriters, headed by Morgan, Stanley & Co. and Bonbright & Co., of New York.

Willkie, a witness, asserted that overnight he had decided to apportion among Michigan investment firms $1,000,000 of the bonds originally allotted to the Morgan, Stanley and Bonbright companies. He said he did this after learning that Chairman Jerome Frank of the SEC favored handling of securities in the areas in which utilities operate. Willkie said the offer would be made to six Michigan houses.

Armstrong Outlines Stand.

Harold H. Armstrong of Detroit represented a group of Michigan dealers who joined Otis & Co. in a request to intervene. He said they wanted to know whether middle west houses would be given an opportunity to bid on the bond issue and whether the power company would consider a proposal to sell the common stock for distribution to investors.

"These questions," Armstrong said, "spring from a middlewest revolt against the attempt of New York bankers to monopolize the investment banking business."

The bond issue is scheduled to be offered to the public on Thursday. Consumers Power has offered a stipulation that the commission agree to its being offered as scheduled, provided that if the SEC should rule against the application, the underwriters would turn their profits from the transactions over to Consumers Power.

CHRYSLER UNITS' CARS AGAIN ROLL INTO CHICAGO

Automobiles manufactured by the various divisions of the Chrysler corporation are rolling into Chicago as the result of resumption of full production at the company's plants, it was disclosed yesterday. Full operation was started Monday after key men had returned to their posts late last week. The labor trouble was ended Nov. 29.

About 57,000 men are at work in the Chrysler plants. The various divisions, including Plymouth, Dodge, Dodge truck, De Soto, and Chrysler, have a combined production total of more than 5,000 cars a day.

With the dispatch of cars to Chicago, dealers handling Chrysler corporation cars are again making deliveries against the large banks of unfilled orders that accumulated during the troubles in Detroit. In the nine months preceding the labor strife, which started with a "slow down" early in October, Plymouth held either first or second position in Cook county automobile sales, and Dodge was in fourth place.

Butter Institute Fights Laws to Restrict Output

The American Butter institute took a stand last night against any legislation which would restrict the production of dairy products. It adopted a resolution at its annual meeting in which it said it believed there was no overproduction of dairy products and that, consequently, no restriction was necessary.

Rock Island Railway Cuts Chicago to Joliet Fare

The Rock Island lines will reduce the $1.45 round trip Chicago-Joliet fare to $1 effective Jan. 1, A. D. Martin, passenger traffic manager, announced yesterday. The Rock Island operates 12 suburban trains between Chicago and Joliet on week days, with special service on Saturdays and Sundays.

Atlas Corporation's Net Asset Value Shows Gain

Atlas corporation yesterday reported that the indicated net asset value of its common stock on Nov. 17 was $12.53 a share, compared with $11 on June 30.

AMERICAN GAS PLANS REFINANCING OF 65 MILLION DOLLAR DEBT

New York, Dec. 5 (AP).—American Gas and Electric company, a major utility holding company in the Electric Bond and Share group, today announced a $65,000,000 debt refinancing plan.

The company called a special meeting of stockholders for Jan. 3 in New York to act on a proposal for issuance of new preferred stock and debentures to retire existing issues. Adoption of the plan would effect savings in interest and dividend payments.

For replacement of the present 355,623 shares of $6 no par preferred stock the company would issue a like number of new preferred shares of $100 par with a dividend rate of not more than 5 per cent. The plan calls for a share for share exchange with adjustment in cash to compensate for the difference between the offering price of the new stock and the redemption price of $110 a share for the old.

Retirement of the $30,000,000 of 5 per cent debentures would be accomplished thru a new $30,000,000 issue, with coupon rate and maturity to be determined later.

FISK CONSIDERS PURCHASE OFFER BY U. S. RUBBER

New York, Dec. 5 (AP).—Directors of Fisk Rubber corporation today studied a tentative offer by United States Rubber company to purchase the former's properties.

Francis B. Davis Jr., chairman and president of United States Rubber, second largest company in the industry, announced his organization was negotiating for the acquisition of Fisk and planned to make wider use of the Fisk plants if the deal is concluded.

It would merge the properties and assets of Fisk, with a balance sheet total of $14,000,000 with the $180,000,000 capital and physical structure of United States Rubber.

Sale Meets Opposition.

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 5 (AP).—A spokesman for a minority group of Fisk Rubber corporation stockholders served notice today that he might seek an investigation by the Securities and Exchange commission or the courts of an offer by the United States Rubber company for the purchase of the Fisk properties.

MEXICO MOVES TO SET VALUES ON OIL SEIZURES

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 5.—Judge Ponciano Hernandez, president of the First Civil court of the federal district, today issued citations to all the expropriated oil companies giving them three days to appoint experts who, with government experts, are to establish the value of the expropriated properties or the amount of compensation the government should pay the companies.

The citation warns the companies that if they do not appoint experts within the appointed time the court will do so. Sixty days time will be given the experts to reach their conclusions.

It could not be learned tonight whether the companies would comply with the citation. Some observers feel they will not. It would imply acceptance of the expropriation.

Officers Again Cut Holdings in Own Concerns

Sales of securities by corporation officials outnumbered purchases during October, according to a monthly summary made public yesterday by the Securities and Exchange commission. The amount of stock which changed hands during the month was slightly smaller than that reported in September, but the ratio of sales to purchases remained at about 5 to 1.

The commission's report on security transactions of corporation officials and major stockholders disclosed a continuance of a trend evident in recent months. Sales were largely linked with advancing markets.

Chrysler Sells 3,500 Shares.

Walter P. Chrysler of New York, board chairman of the Chrysler corporation, cut his common stock holdings by 3,500 shares, disposing of blocks ranging from 200 to 1,700 shares in five transactions. This reduced his holdings to 75,232 shares as of Oct. 31. Chrysler had sold 11,900 shares in September, 8,100 in August, and 1,000 in July.

K. T. Keller of Detroit, Chrysler corporation president, sold 200 shares in October, reducing his holdings at the end of the month to 10,860 shares.

William A. Fisher of Detroit reported he reduced his interest in General Motors corporation common stock by 1,500 shares. At the end of October he held 18,916 shares. Fisher, a vice president and director of the company, had sold 7,000 shares in September.

Fisher Cuts Holdings.

Lawrence P. Fisher, Detroit, also a vice president and director of General Motors, trimmed his common holdings by 6,000 shares, retaining 47,284 shares. He had sold 11,000 shares in September.

In four transactions Ralph H. Norton, Chicago, disposed of 1,450 common shares of Acme Steel company. He held 42,331 shares at the close of October. Norton, president of the company, had reduced his interest by 1,750 common shares in September.

Harold F. McCormick, Chicago, cut his common holdings of International Harvester company by 1,300 shares. McCormick, a director, retained 85,760 shares at the end of the month.

Sells Air Line Stock.

Ernest T. Weir, Pittsburgh, Pa., board chairman of National Steel company, tranferred 40,000 common shares to a trust. This reduced his direct holdings to 19,495 shares at the end of October.

Max C. Fleischmann of New York, director of Standard Brands, Inc., sold 6,250 common shares in October, retaining 561,326.

FCC TO PROPOSE WIRE MERGER INCLUDE TWO OF A. T. & T. SERVICES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5 [Special].—The coming report of the federal communications commission recommendation on the unification of the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph companies will propose in addition that the new concern be permitted to take over the leased wire and teletype services of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, it was authoritatively reported tonight. The plan is to bolster the revenues of the consolidated organization.

The commission's report to congress, expected within the next 10 days, will for the first time inject the national defense factor into the long standing argument for merging the two major telegraph companies. The degree of obsolescence in equipment of both companies is such as to constitute a threat to national security in time of war, according to a resumé of the report.

It is the commission's conclusion, after an extended investigation, that the financial disorganization of the two companies, due to lack of business, is sufficient to warrant its recommendation that congress authorize their consolidation.

URUGUAY TRADE TREATY ASSAILED AND SUPPORTED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5 (AP).—Manufacturers' representatives advocated today a trade agreement with Uruguay and extension of the reciprocal trade program under European war stimulus.

Agricultural representatives, also testifying before the committee for reciprocity information on the proposed Uruguayan agreement, opposed tariff cuts on imports which would compete with domestic farm products.

Agents of the manufacturers asserted the war had cut off most European supplies of industrial products and forced Latin American countries to obtain those commodities in the United States. The situation therefore was favorable, they said, to obtain modification of Latin American restrictions which in some cases amounted to an embargo on United States products.

"It is worth more to the economy of our country to furnish the American farmer with purchasing power thru protecting his markets than it is to permit the importation of competitive farm crops in order that we may be able to sell manufactured commodities on foreign markets," said Representative Carlson [R., Kas.] in opposing treaties.

Jansen & Co. Given Week to Settle with Customers

Jansen & Co., 135 South La Salle street, yesterday was given until Dec. 12 to complete settlement of customers' accounts before being called by the Illinois securities department to show cause why its state registration as broker-dealer should not be revoked. The Securities and Exchange commission recently denied the firm a broker-dealer registration after Frederick E. Jansen, president, admitted the company was insolvent.

NET EARNINGS OF MONTGOMERY WARD SET PEAK

Profit $3.29 a Share in Nine Months.

Montgomery Ward & Co. and subsidiary yesterday reported the highest quarterly and nine months' earnings in the organization's history. Sales last month and for the first ten months of 1939 also reached record breaking levels.

Net income during the nine months ended Oct. 31 increased to $18,248,488, equivalent after dividend requirements on the $7 class A stock to $3.29 a common share. Earnings were more than one and one-half times those shown in the corresponding period of 1938 when net income totaled $11,500,490, or $2 a common share. The previous record earnings for any nine months was set in 1937 when profit was $15,287,874, or $2.73 a share.

Figures for 3 Months.

Earnings for the three months ended Oct. 31 aggregated $7,932,680, or $1.45 a common share, compared with $6,360,964, or $1.15 a share, in 1938, and $5,892,633, or $1.06 a share, in the three months ended July 31 this year. Earnings for the October quarter last year set the previous high mark.

November sales reached the highest level for any November in the company's history. They totaled $47,764,241, a gain of 12.93 per cent over $42,295,372 for November, 1938.

Sales for the first ten months this year topped those in 1938 by 15.63 per cent and were the highest for any 10 months in the company's history. Dollar volume in the 10 months was $405,815,108, against $350,960,427 in 1938.

Typewriter Firm Gains.

Royal Typewriter Company, Inc., and subsidiaries reported net income of $506,859 during the three months ended Oct. 31. Earnings were equal, after preferred dividend requirements, to $1.64 a common share. Net income was $392,848, or $1.22 a common share, in the three months ended Oct. 31, 1938.

Bank of Manhattan, New York, estimated its 1939 earnings, exclusive of security profits, at $2,225,000, a decline of about $150,000 from 1938.

COURT APPROVES LOAN BY RFC TO MILWAUKEE LINE

The Milwaukee railroad yesterday was authorized by Federal Judge Holly to sell $5,080,000 of 2½ per cent equipment trust certificates to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Proceeds will be used to finance 80 per cent of the purchase price of 2,000 new 50 ton all-steel box cars and 10 high speed steam freight locomotives to handle increased business.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan authorized the Chicago Great Western to execute a lease involving $200,000 on 100 flat cars from the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company. The plan provides for eventual purchase. It permits the railroad to apply on the purchase price amounts paid on the lease.

American Telephone Gains 81,000 Stations in Month

New York, Dec. 5 (AP).—The American Telephone and Telegraph company announced today an increase of 81,000 telephones in service in November, compared with a gain of 86,900 in October and an increase of 60,300 in November, 1938. In the first 11 months the net increase in telephones in service in the Bell System totaled 695,300, compared with a gain of 363,800 a year earlier.

Cotton Export Subsidy Cut 50 Per Cent

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5 (AP).—A 50 per cent reduction in the government's subsidy on cotton exports was ordered today by Secretary Wallace. He cut the cotton export bounty from 1½ to ¾ cent a pound, or from about $7.50 to $3.75 a bale, effective at 12:01 a. m. [E. S. T.] tomorrow.

The reason for the reduction was that the government already had agreed to pay out more than $32,000,000 of the $36,000,000 supplied by congress for subsidizing foreign sales of the staple. The cotton marketing season opened Aug. 1 and has nearly seven months to go, with the big bulk of subsidy funds already pledged.

Expects Favorable Sales.

"The sales for export to date under the program have been very satisfactory and the apparent export demand indicates probable continued favorable export sales with the reduced payments," Wallace said. "The reduction in payments will make possible continuation of the program for a longer period with the available limited funds."

Wallace said he believed the lower subsidy rate would "result in greater total exports than would be possible if the present rate were kept up until it became necessary to discontinue the program entirely."

The secretary reported that export subsidy agreements had been made on 4,344,354 bales betwen July 27 and Dec. 4 of this year. He said this was 982,000 bales more than were exported during the entire 12 months of the 1938-'39 season.

Exports Reached Low Level.

Decline of cotton exports last season to about 3,500,000 bales—one of the smallest export totals in American history—was one of Wallace's principal arguments for the subsidy program. Funds were obtained from congress only after a sharp battle with some legislators from cotton states.

Wallace said previously that the subsidy program should enable the United States to export 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 bales of cotton annually. The export subsidy total announced today indicates his figure may be attained before the season ends on July 31.

Under the subsidy program, exports of finished cotton goods also are subsidized. Wallace said agreements for export of these products in the July-December period were equivalent to 226,000 bales of raw cotton in addition to the 4,344,354 total.

The department announced a new schedule of export subsidy rates on cotton goods which was said to involve "equivalent reductions."

Issue Import Figures.

The customs bureau announced that up to Dec. 2 imports of staple length cotton 1⅛ inches or more long comprised 10,637,684 pounds of the 45,656,420 quota for the year ending next Sept. 20. Egypt and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan accounted for 10,483,663 pounds, and Peru 153,990 pounds.

Imports of staple under 1⅛ inches amounted to 1,015,348 pounds, against a 14,516,882 pound quota. Principal shipments in this group included those from India, 662,063 pounds; Brazil, 297,951 pounds, and Mexico, 46,367 pounds.

DISCUSS TERMS OF ST. LAWRENCE POWER SALES

New York, Dec. 5 (AP).—Gerald V. Cruise, executive secretary of the New York State Power authority, said today negotiations were under way for sale to public utility companies of power the authority hopes to develop on the St. Lawrence and at Niagara Falls.

He said John C. Bonbright, chairman of the authority, had conferred with Floyd C. Carlisle, chairman of the board of both Niagara and Hudson and Consolidated Edison, dominant power companies in the state. Any formal contract must await ratification of a seaway treaty by the United States and Canada.

Bonbright said the proposed contract would be for about 40 years, long enough to amortize the bonds to be issued by the authority for the cost of development. The contract would specify the wholesale price of electric current and rates at which private companies would resell the power to consumers, he said. Present plans would be to have one rate for the New York City metropolitan area and another for the rest of the state.

CASH WHEAT UP TO $1 AS FUTURE PRICES RISE 3c

Poor Crop Outlook Stimulates Gain.

Cash wheat reached $1 a bushel in Chicago yesterday and futures jumped as much as 3¼ cents in a rush of buying that accompanied estimates that the winter wheat crop will be the smallest, with one exception, in 40 years.

Trading was the most active since the war boom of early September. The cash price of $1 was paid for a carlot of No. 3 red winter wheat and was the highest level reached since March, 1938. December futures rose 2⅝ cent a bushel to 96 cents, and the July contract advanced 3¼ cent to 90⅝ cents.

Corn and Oats Advance.

A yield of 389 million bushels for the wheat crop to be harvested next summer was forecast by Chicago statisticians. This compared with 551

A winter wheat crop of 389 million bushels, the smallest in more than 40 years, with one exception, was forecast by Chicago statisticians in estimates issued yesterday. The prospective yield compares with 551 million bushels harvested in 1939, and a 1928-'37 average of 560 million bushels.

Condition of winter wheat in the last week in November was placed at 59.4 per cent of normal, a new all-time record low, comparing with the

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Dec. 5 [Special.]—The stock market displayed a firmer tone today. A majority of representative issues worked fractionally higher, while "blue chips" posted gains of as much as 2 points. Most of the activity was ascribed to professional traders, as there were few developments calculated to shake the list out of its listless state.

After a mixed opening a mild recovery began under the lead of steel and aviation shares. The bulge attracted selling, however, and prices were pared. In the afternoon prices again worked higher, but light selling near the close halted further advances.

United Airlines, most active issue of the day, was ½ point higher. Steels were uniformly higher with United States Steel active. Douglas Aircraft was a feature on the upside in the forenoon and succeeded in holding ½ point of its early gain. Sperry Corporation added a point and the inactive Wright Aero spurted 2⅞ points, while others in the group hovered around previous finals. Active motors, notably Chrysler and General Motors, closed unchanged.

Most rubber and copper stocks ruled higher. Merchandising issues found it difficult to make any headway. Oil stocks closed little changed.

In the chemicals Du Pont was up about 2 points at one time, but lost all but ¼ of that gain before the close. Westinghouse spurted nearly 2 points. Farm implement shares were on the upside.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 5 (AP).—Finnish government bonds advanced today, moving counter to the general foreign loan list. As Finland's army blocked, at least momentarily, the drive of Russian forces, the country's 6 per cent bonds ended at 36⅞, up 2¾ points from yesterday's final quotation which was nearly 21 points below Saturday's close.

Other Scandinavians, however, declined again. Oslo city 4½s tumbled 10⅛ points at 71 and Danish and Norwegian governments fractions to three points. Elsewhere in the foreign list, virtually the only other gainers were Latin Americans.

United States government loans, which held firm for most of the session, slipped toward the end and finished as much as 14/32 point lower. Transactions, however, were moderate. Corporates in general were slightly higher.

Chicago Stocks.

Gains of ⅛ to 1 point were recorded by most leading issues on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Elgin National Watch set a new 1939 high at 25⅝, up ⅝ from the preceding close. Turnover was 24,000 shares.

Commonwealth Edison, most active issue, added ⅛ at 31⅛ on sales of 3,650 shares. Middle West, United Air Lines, and Fuller Manufacturing were other trading favorites ended on the plus side. E. L. Bruce gained 1 at 11¼. Marshall Field lost ½ at 15¼. Central and South West and Chicago corporation closed unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago Title and Harris Trust stock each rose a point in quiet bank stock trading yesterday, closing on bids of 123 and 311 respectively. Other issues were steady.

COTTON

Cotton prices were sharply higher early yesterday on trade buying and in sympathy with Liverpool. Part of the upturn was lost later on profit taking and hedging sales. Closing trades on futures were 0.10c higher to 0.06c a lb lower.

Bombay was reported to have been a good buyer of cotton futures in Liverpool. Indian cotton is quoted at a premium of about $7 a bale over New York. This is said to be without precedent.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .02c higher, with New York, 10.33c; New Orleans, 10.17c; Galveston, 9.79c, and Houston at 9.75c a lb. Prices follow:

Commodities

Silk, wool tops, and cottonseed oil future prices climbed yesterday in the commodities markets. Most other contracts for staples made only narrow swings or closed lower.

The silk futures soared as much as 20 cents a pound. The largest gain was in the No. 2 December contract, the current delivery not being subject to the 15 cent maximum which the more distant futures are permitted to rise.

The contracts subject to the rule closed with the full 15 cent permissible gain. The No. 1 December contract closed at $3.65 cents a pound.

Cottonseed oil futures rose 0.15 to 0.25 cent a pound, pushing the July delivery up to 7.04 cents a pound, the highest level reached this season. An increased consumer cash demand for cottonseed oil was reported.

GREED IS BLAMED FOR WASTE OF OIL WEALTH IN STATE

Water Damage Traced to Excessive Drilling.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Centralia, Ill., Dec. 5.—What overcrowding of oil wells does to deplete petroleum resources is indicated at Sandoval, where some of the wells are pumping water with the oil. Experts attribute this largely to reduction of gas pressure of reservoir energy, due to overrapid production.

One case recently reported to the state planning commission concerns a tract of less than one acre near Sandoval, six miles from here, on which four wells were sunk. On one tract of land, a well was drilled near a common corner for four farms. To protect the owners of the three other farms, another producer who owned the oil leases on the three, drilled three offsetting wells. They went down some 3,000 feet to an oil producing formation about six feet thick.

Water Peril Explained.

The report of the planning commission expert is that the oil bearing layer which was struck is porous and cavernous, much like a Swiss cheese, with a great water pressure and easy access to the oil bearing strata when reservoir pressure got too low. The report says that if one well to 20 acres had been sunk, the water might have been controled. With four pumps on one acre, however, the water has become a problem.

Centralia itself is cited as an illustration of too much drilling. When oil was discovered, wells were drilled on town lots. Owners of oil rights on adjoining property sunk offsetting wells. It was a madcap race to get to the oil bearing strata first with the most wells to get all possible oil, which the courts hold is migratory and belongs to the man who captures it.

The town lot drilling is held wasteful, meaning financial waste, because too many wells are drilled for the amount of oil pumped up. Worse than that, waste increases through the diminishing amount of petroleum recoverable from the rocks when gas pressures are reduced below a proper ratio.

Average 11 Barrels a Day.

Statisticians of the Independent Oil Producers association, with headquarters here, say that 539 wells in Centralia are producing about 6,096 barrels a day, or an average of about 11 barrels each. September production was 182,805 barrels. One-third of the wells are said by the association to be producing little.

About one-half of the potential recovery from this field, the association says, has been piped up by the wells, but with production down to an average of 11 barrels a day per well, they say it is a question of how much finally will be recovered and how much left behind as waste.

In the Centralia field a peak of production was reached in August, 1938. Then it declined. Close spacing of wells in part of the area within the city limits already is leading to abandonment of some of them. Wasted reservoir pressure, engineers say, is responsible.

Sold Under the Market.

The landowners, the association argues, have been victims of overproduction. It estimates that of 80 million barrels produced in the new Illinois oil fields in the 21 months ending in September, one-fifth was sold below the market price, due to the glut. This reduced royalties to the farmers as well as profits to the producers.

In Illinois there is no regulation of oil production. Agitation for state legislation of some sort has been accelerated by fears that unless some form of control is set up, federal control of the oil industry, with possible price fixing, may come. This is being discussed pro and con in the fields.

Spacing of wells—one well to so many acres, possibly 10 acres, in sandstone and 20 acres in lime—and proration of oil to be taken out are first recommendations made by some groups.

Other Safeguards Discussed.

Other items suggested are coöperative agreements for development of fields, the plugging of abandoned wells, the keeping of well logs at all wells, the maintenance of a proper gas-oil ratio, and the prevention of physical waste. It is placed on a basis of conservation of natural resources to save them from rapid depletion.

"There is only one oil crop in Illinois; we must not squander it," say prorationing advocates.

On the other side the Illinois Oil Producers Equity association, with headquarters here, claims the word "conservation" is a misnomer to cover up regulation and prorating that would operate to the advantage of the major companies and put the independents out of business. This group says experience in states with proration has been such that allowable output of wells has been reduced to a point where independents have suffered financially and they say that a large proportion of the Illinois pools have been discovered by independents.

Find Oil in Deep Test Well in City of Centralia Pool

Centralia, Ill., Dec. 5 (AP).—Operators of Lilly and Associates No. 1 Love Gum, a well in the city of Centralia pool just west of the city limits, said late today they recovered a show of oil in Devonian lime at an undisclosed depth. They said they had not decided whether to set casing to the formation to test its productiveness. It is the first deep test in the city pool. Business men contributed financially to the venture, hoping for a new townsite drilling campaign similar to that of two years ago.

BALDWIN LOCOMOTIVE TO BUILD AND CARRY ENGINES IN STOCK

Philadelphia, Dec. 5 (AP).—The Baldwin Locomotive works today announced an initial investment of "more than $2,000,000" is being made for facilities and stock to build a group of 28 Diesel-electric switching locomotives of 1,000 and 660 horse-power.

The statement said the engines will be completed for sale from stock "regardless of whether orders for them are received beforehand." It was added that "completion of smaller type locomotives for stock purposes is a new policy for Baldwin."

mon share holdings by 8,091 shares, retaining ownership of 2,686 common shares directly. Paul Moore, who succeeded Thompson as president, acquired 1,000 shares to boost his holdings to 1,600 shares as of Oct. 31.

Mrs. J. S. Walker, large shareholder of Lockheed Aircraft corporation, sold 6,200 shares held in trust, and at the end of October held 5,000 shares.

General American Transportation corporation, Chicago, reduced its common interest in Pressed Steel Car company by 4,000 shares, retaining ownership of 13,000 shares at the end of October. General American's interest in Pressed Steel Car's convertible first preferred stock was retained.

De Seversky Cuts Holdings.

A. P. de Seversky, director of Republic Aviation corporation, sold 6,800 shares of the company which formerly bore his name. Seversky retained 63,429 shares at the end of October. He had disposed of large holdings in preceding months.

On the buying side, Edgar Palmer, New York, acquired beneficial ownership of 6,500 shares of General Baking company common stock. This boosted his beneficial interest to 201,500 shares.

Eugene G. Grace, New York, president of Bethlehem Steel corporation, bought 400 shares of the company's 7 per cent preferred stock. He had previously held 1 preferred share. Grace retained ownership of 12 common shares.

Adams Buys Oil Stock.

Kenneth S. Adams, president and a director of Phillips Petroleum company, added 1,000 common shares to his holdings. At the end of October, Adam, who lives in Bartlesville, Okla., held 2,222 shares.

Charles C. Bunker of Chicago, vice president of Marshall Field & Co., added 400 common shares, increasing his ownership to 1,300 shares. Earl B. Kribben of Chicago, secretary of the company, acquired 400 shares to boost holdings listed in his name to 1,000 shares at Oct. 31.

Employés of the W. A. Sheaffer Pen company, Fort Madison, Ia., will receive a bonus of 15 per cent of their earnigs for the six months ended Nov. 30, C. R. Sheaffer, president, announced yesterday. The payment is a 50 per cent increase over the 10 per cent bonus paid for the 1938 period.

This is the ninth profit-sharing payment since the plan went into effect some years ago. The vacation payment made June 28 was 12½ per cent of 6 months' earnings and earlier payments ranged from 4 to 10 per cent.

More than 1,200 employés, including those in Chicago, will receive the bonus payments on Dec. 15. Sheaffer said sales are near the 1929 levels, with employment at an all time high.

"This 15 per cent profit sharing payment is justified by earnings, achieved in a large measure by the harmonious team work of employés and the management," he said.

CHAIN STORE TAX IS CONDEMNED BY PRODUCERS

Special taxes on chain stores—described as "golden goose killers"—were denounced yesterday by the National Vegetable Growers Association of America. Approximately 400 delegates from all parts of the country voted unanimously to adopt a resolution condemning "taxes of all types designed to favor or penalize any select group."

The delegates are meeting in a national four day convention at the Sherman hotel. The convention will close Thursday.

Pre-vote discussion of the resolution revealed that farmers and produce growers have revised their opinions of the so-called "punitive" taxes. Altho the taxes originally were designed to "protect" the individual dealer, the consensus of the delegates was that the taxes have increased costs to consumers and limited production of both agriculture and industry.

United States Purchases from Argentina Up 50 Pct.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 5 (AP).—A 50 per cent increase in United States purchases from Argentina in the first 11 months of this year over the like 1938 period was disclosed today by a United States consular report. The United States has bought $55,478,994 worth of goods from Argentina so far this year, compared with $36,482,912 in the first 11 months of 1938, the report showed.

SOUTH'S COTTON KING TELLS HOW TO RUN A FARM

Able Management Main Need, He Declares.

Oscar Johnston of Scott, Miss., the man known as the cotton king, came up from the south yesterday and told a national convention of farm managers how one of the world's largest plantations has applied the principle of management to crop production.

Oscar Johnston.

He is president of the Delta and Pine Land company and of the Delta Planting company.

He wears cotton socks.

He told the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers, in session at the Great Northern hotel:

How 2,800 members of 821 Negro families and 200 members of 60 white families in Bolivar county, Mississippi, live and work on the two companies' 53,000 acres which he managed for 13 years.

Solves Serious Problems.

How "doodlum books," containing trade coupons, solved a serious medical problem and an economic problem, but met opposition from plantation preachers. [You can't drop "doodlum" in the hat at the Sunday meetin'.]

Johnston, comparing the efficiency of independent, tenant, and corporation managed farming, also told the delegates:

1. That the independent, home loving land owning farmer who takes orders from nobody is the most inefficient of all.

2. That the farmer who works for a share, and provides only his labor, working on a clocklike schedule requiring him to take orders from an efficient management, is the most efficient.

The thing that farmers need to emphasize, Johnston declared, is "intelligent management," and he said the trend is in that direction. He said that in the case of the enterprise which he heads, the companies make a profit on cotton at present prices but that the average grower cannot.

Companies Get Benefits.

The companies comply with the government's cotton acreage program. They collect a total of $20,000 a season [$10,000 is the maximum for each grower] under the soil conservation program. They also share in the 1.6 cents a pound federal parity price adjustment payments. The companies get half of this and the tenants half.

The Delta companies no longer devote their operations to cotton exclusively. Of 25,300 acres devoted to crops, 13,300 are in cotton and 12,000 are used for growing corn, oats, alfalfa, field peas, soy beans, clover, and other legume crops. Only cotton is grown on the share basis. The tenants do the work on the other crops, but they get cash for that work.

Last year, Johnston said, the tenants sold enough of their share of the cotton to pay off $154,000 advanced by the companies as trading credit, and have $128,000 of cash left. In addition they were paid $60,000 in cash for working on the other crops.

The company began issuing merchandise coupon books every two weeks to tenants early in the depression when it learned that pellagra was spreading because of the unbalanced diet of the workers.

Johnston said the tenants had been spending their money on luxuries and skimping on food. The coupon plan assured an ample expenditure on food, and since then, he said, pellagra has been nearly wiped out.

International Paper Holds Prices Steady to June 30

New York, Dec. 5 [Special].—R. J. Cullen, president of the International Paper company, announced today that the company will extend its present newsprint prices until June 30, 1940. The continuance of the present price during a time when conditions are becoming increasingly difficult is evidence of the company's desire to maintain an orderly market," Cullen said.

previous low of 68.9 per cent on Dec. 1, 1932. The yield in 1933, following the unfavorable start of the crop in 1932, was 376 million bushels. At this time in 1938 the condition was 72 per cent. The 10 year average is 80 per cent of normal.

The poorest condition of wheat is found in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas, the experts said. These states raise most of the surplus hard winter wheat of the country. Their prospective yield is placed at 145 million bushels. The four states produced 232 million bushels last summer. The 10 year average yield is 261 million bushels.

Experts Figures Listed.

	Acreage.	Cond'n.	Estd. crop.
B. W. Snow	43,900,000	58.4	404,000,000
N. C. Murray	42,900,000	60.0	402,000,000
R. O. Cromw'll	43,300,000	60.0	375,000,000
H. C. Donovan	42,000,000	....	390,000,000
C. M. Galvin	41,300,000	59.3	375,000,000
Average	42,700,000	59.4	389,000,000
Government,
Harvest, '38	38,572,000	....	551,000,000

Farmers seeded 42,700,000 acres to winter wheat this season, it is estimated. Millions of acres were planted in the dust and there has not been enough moisture in some sections to germinate the grain. In other sections seed which sprouted following recent showers has since died. The acreage seeded for 1940 compares with 46,173,000 acres during the last year and a 1928-'37 average of 46,346,000 acres.

Drouth Responsible.

A record breaking drouth is responsible for the extremely low condition of the wheat crop, the experts said. Rainfall from Sept. 1 to Nov. 30 between the Appalachian and the Rocky mountains averaged less than half the normal amount, according to weather bureau records. Some sections received less than 25 per cent of normal. Precipitation at Minneapolis in November was the smallest in more than 100 years.

Many millions of acres seeded to wheat this fall will not be harvested next summer unless weather conditions are abnormally favorable from now on, the experts believe. Normally about 14 to 16 per cent of the seeded acreage is abandoned. Abandonment next spring may exceed 20 per cent, it is said.

Salesmen.

EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

We want to give every sales-minded man in Chicago the opportunity of seeing the new 1940 Kirby Cleaner. Since the introduction of this wonderful new model our salesmen have doubled their income. Three new men last week, their first full week, drew checks for over $100 each. The most liberal commission all payable at once and the greatest sales program any salesmen have ever been privileged to work on. The United States Government finances our paper and our accounts are applied right on the light bill. Smallest down payment and easiest installment plan ever heard of. Any clean-cut man who is a willing worker should make at least $100 every week. One hour of your time will convince you of the greatest money-making opportunity in the world.

Cut this ad out NOW—answer all other ads—then APPLY WEDNESDAY at 11 a. m. sharp, 2400 W. Madison-st., room 305—Answer this ad regardless of your present or former experience. It will not be run again. Come prepared to spend the balance of the day if selected.

MEN.

We are interested in contacting men who are looking for a permanent connection and are willing to work hard learning a new business; we have, in our estimation, the finest and most salable electric product to be found anywhere today. This business should pay a steady income of approximately $175 a month to start; we will finance the men selected, train you at our expense, and set you up in a permanent business on an exceptionally attractive percentage income basis, yet you do not invest any money yourself or assume any obligations or overhead.

The men considered must be permanent residents of Chicago's west side or western suburbs. COME TO GUYON HOTEL, 4000 West Washington-boulevard, for personal interview. Investigating this ad costs you nothing and, if you are selected, you will be put to work immediately. ASK FOR MR. LARSEN.

EXCELLENT opportunity and immediate commission earnings for experienced man, with clean record, who has successfully sold education, insurance, bonds or other intangibles. New educational service. Must have car, and willing to travel. Write fully. Address X F 418, Tribune.

Local Loan Gives You SERVICE

Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. LOCAL LOAN makes liberal Furniture and Auto Loans, but if you are steadily employed we prefer to make you a loan On Your Signature Only without mortgages or endorsers.

75% of our loans are Signature Only Loans to employed men and women. LOCAL LOAN originated and perfected this service because employed people—young or old and regardless of occupation—are entitled to a simplified loan method. You may obtain $25 to $300—

Salary Loans On Your Signature Only

You make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months], and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money.

When you deal with LOCAL LOAN you borrow without the knowledge of your employer, friends, and relatives.

We cannot tell you all about our service in our advertisement. Just phone one of the following offices. Your loan request can be taken over the telephone so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person.

Commonwealth's charge is less on all loans than the maximum permitted by law. Our monthly rates of 2½% on loan balances of $150 or less and only 2% on loan balances above applies to ALL TYPES and CLASSES OF LOANS. Any one who can make regular payments can qualify; there is no discrimination. EVERYBODY GETS THIS SAME RATE. Of course persons whose incomes are above average can afford to make larger payments and thus make substantial reductions in their loan cost.

No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. Applications received by personal call, letter or telephone will receive immediate attention.

As little as $2.00 to $2.26 a week repays in full, including all charges, a $150 loan over 20 months at America's largest loan company. No salary assignments.

$2.00 a week on the average is all you need to set aside for every $150 borrowed on Personal's new, amazing "Special" loan plan of only 1⅛% per month on the actual balance owed. This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly without undue credit strain and a good credit record. You don't need co-makers, life insurance, or bankable securities.

For persons without established credit and employment ratings and who wish to carry a loan larger than 8 to 12% of annual salary or income, Personal offers its "Regular" loan plan. On this plan an average of $2.26 set aside per week takes care of everything on a $150 loan—the charge is based on 3% monthly on unpaid balances of $100 and less and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100.

Loans up to $300 on either plan on your personal note or with furniture or auto. Co-maker loans are also available on "Regular" plan. Seize this opportunity to save on loan costs. Come in or telephone today.

Natural resources, agricultural products, and topography of Sweden and Finland. Mountains in Sweden are on Norwegian border and extend into that country, whereas Finland has few elevations. The number of months in which surrounding waters are frozen over is indicated.
